2,200 Seek Work At Job Fair

Some 2,200 people visited a record 58 employment booths at the annual Job Fair at State Street South Saturday but the number of applicants who landed jobs will not be known for another month.

"The companies were very pleased by the quality of the applications," said David Knight of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, one of the sponsoring organizations.

Knight said that there were some 300 or 400 more applicants than last year's Job Fair but 28 fewer companies and a followup on the applicants showed that 350 got jobs.

"We plan to send out a letter to the 58 firms in about four weeks and see how they did this year," said Knight.

In addition to the Chamber, Job Fair '84 was sponsored by the Norfolk County Development and Tourist Council, the Division of Employment Security -- Quincy Job Match and the South Coastal Private Industry Council.

Pro-Am Hockey League Draws Over 500

The New England Pro-Am Hockey League, inaugurating its initial season at the Quincy Youth Arena, welcomed over 500 candidates trying out for both the High School and Junior Divisions.

The League, directed by Bob and Mike O'Connell, and staffed by high school and college coaches, brought in players from eastern and western Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, and as far away as Chicago searching for spots in the new league.

The reputations of Bob and Mike well known throughout hockey circles, and the efforts of Joe Lyons (director of player personnel and New England scout for the Boston Bruins) helped to draw the finest talent to Quincy.

The Junior Division (no player 20 years old before Sept. 1) is expected to have a number of early choices in this year's NHL June draft. Included are: Alan Perry, goalie from Rhode Island who was MVP of the World Junior Tournament in Sweden and third string goalie for the 1984 US Olympic team; Scott Young from Clinton and St. Marks, considered to be possibly the top forward in the United States; Steve Leach, All-Scholastic from Matignon; Dave Quinn and Jack Capuano of Kent School, Kevin Heffernan of N. Weymouth, Danny Shea of Quincy, Billy Kopecky of Austin Prep, Tom Corliss of UMass Boston and Quincy, and youngsters such as Ted Donato of Catholic Memorial and Todd Studley of Taunton.

The High School division, which includes all returning players for next years varsity, includes players from schools such as Archbishop Williams, Catholic Memorial, Don Bosco, Weymouth North and Weymouth South, Duxbury, Falmouth, Quincy and North Quincy.

The Senior Division, which will be by invitation only, will include top Division I college players from BC, BU, Northeastern, Harvard, New Hampshire, Providence and Division II stars from UMass Boston, Bowdoin, Merrimack and Babson.

The league will also have players from the Central League, American League, International League and the NHL. Expected are Joe Mullen (St. Louis Blues and 41-goal scorer this season), highest American single season record for goals scored in the NHL: Nick Fotiu (N.Y. Rangers), Brian Lawton (Minnesota North Stars and first American to be drafted No. 1), Tom O'Regan (Pittsburgh), David Jensen (Hartford and US Olympic team) and such local standouts as Neil Shea (Boston College and Quincy resident) and T. J. Connolly (Boston University, second team Titan All-American and Quincy resident) and Scott Harlow (Boston College and East Bridgewater resident).

The schedule will have the High School Division playing on Monday and Thursday nights, Juniors on Tuesday and Seniors on Wednesday. The league will start June 4 and play once a week Monday through Thursday starting at 6:30 p.m. There will be three games each night and a separate admission will be charged for each division with family and season plans available.

There will also be an All-Star high school tournament after the playoffs and a Jimmy Fund game comprising NHL stars to be announced.

Sun Sports Quincy Bows To Waltham In Extra Innings

Quincy's baseball team has had its troubles in recent games but Monday turned in a fine performance as it forced Waltham, runnerup in the Suburban League, to go two extra innings before bowing, 5-3, in nine innings to drop its record to 2-6.

The Presidents played at Silver Lake in a non-league game yesterday (Wednesday), will host Brookline Friday at 3:30 at Adams Field and will be at Brockton Monday.

Waltham took a 2-0 lead in the second inning Monday in a triple, a double and an error. Quincy came back to tie the score in the third on three walks and Joe Cullen's two-run single.

Waltham made it 3-2 in the fourth on two singles and an error by the center fielder, but the Presidents tied it again in the fifth on a wild pitch.

Quincy had the bases loaded with one out but couldn't score in the sixth and had two men on in the seventh.

Sophomore Larry Taglieri relieved starter Joe Conti in the fifth and pitched extremely well until he fired in the ninth. Waltham, with one out, had a ground rule double which bounced over the field in center field.

Cullen made a fine play at first base on an infield grounder for the second out. The next batter was intentionally walked and another walk, unintentional, loaded the bases. The next batter singled sharply to centerfield to drive in the winning runs.

Freshman Steve Austin had two hits for Quincy and Cullen, Jeff Frazier and Bobby Pitts one each.

Last week Quincy dropped a 10-8 slugfest to Newton North.

North Girls Take First Place

The beat goes on for the outstanding North Quincy girls' track team, which won its two biggest meets last week to improve its record to 4-0 and take over first place in the Suburban League.

Geoff Hennessy's Raiders, who met Newton North yesterday (Wednesday) and finish their regular season Monday against Quincy at Veterans Memorial Stadium, handed Waltham its only loss of the year, 66-52, and last Friday followed up with a 61-57 decision over Cambridge Rindge and Latin, which had previously lost only to Waltham.

Eileen Crehan continued her outstanding season in the win over Cambridge by winning the shot put at 37-1½ and the javelin (136-8) and she ran the second leg on the winning mile relay which clinched the victory.

North's strength in the weight events and its depth highlighted the win as the Raiders won the shot, javelin and the discus (Noreen Connolly at 93 feet).

Cambridge, as usual, proved extremely strong in the running events, winning the 100, 220, 440, mile and hurdles.

North's only other winners were Mary Ann Kelleher in the two-mile (11:47.6), Diane Lindenfelzer, 880 (2:30.7) and the mile relay team of Leann Fitzgerald, Crehan, Teresa Collings and Kelleher (4:29.7).

Taking second places were Laura Ciulla, 100 and 220; Fitzgerald, 440; Tracy Corrigan, mile; Tricia Barrett, two-mile; Georgia Traficante, long jump and javelin; Lori Megrath, hurdles and Collings, high jump.

Third places were taken by Ann Toland, 880; Julie Walsh, mile; Jennifer Raftery, hurdles, and Connolly, shot put.

In the win over Waltham North's winners were Fitzgerald in the 440 (67.2); Ciulla, 100 (12.0); Kelleher, 880 (2:29.5); Barrett, mile (5:51.0); Collings, high jump (4-6); Crehan, shot put (37-4); and Traficante, javelin (120-9).

Second places were taken by Ciulla, 220 and long jump; Lindenfelzer, 880; Walsh, mile; Tricia Leary, two-mile; Megrath, hurdles; Connolly, shot put and discus, and Crehan, javelin.

Placing third were Collings, 440; Corrigan, mile; Toland, two-mile and Traficante, long jump.

Waltham won both relays but the meet was out of reach by those events.

"I was very proud of the girls' performances," said Hennessy. "We had to face two of the Suburban League's best teams with only a day's rest and they responded well. We had to juggle the lineup a bit against Cambridge and the moves paid off."

Last Sunday the Raiders had several top performances as they barely lost to host Falmouth in the open division of the annual Falmouth Invitational meet with 28 points (Falmouth won with 30), and tied for third place in the novice division with 34 points.

The javelin duo of Crehan and Traficante turned in the top performance for North. Crehan, who pulled out the win on her last throw of 141-3, was behind after Traficante, who had thrown 112-7 in the trials, unleashed a 133-7 toss in the fifth round.

The 300 meters offered no less excitement as Kelleher and Barrett outdistanced the field and placed 1-2.

In the 1500 meters Walsh placed fourth with an outstanding 5:04. Ciulla ran her best time of 62.9 for fifth place in the 400 and Crehan placed second and Connolly fifth in the shot put.

In the novice division two ever-improving athletes, freshman Fitzgerald and Missy Silkwood, turned in super efforts.

Fitzgerald turned in on over the final 200 meters to edge Quincy High's Sharon Steen in the 880. Fitzgerald's winning time was 2:30.9. Steen set a school record.

Silkwood threw the heavier 4 kilo shot 29-2 and three quarter for second place behind Quincy's Cindy Morrell, who threw 30-10 and one half.

Collings placed fourth in the high jump with a personal best jump of 4-8.

Leary ran an exciting race in the 3000, placing second at 11:31 and Toland took fourth at 11:38.

Quincy's Mary Lou Wirtz took sixth in the 100 meters, as Quincy scored 19 points in the novice bracket.

"We had personal bests or close to it from every girl," said a pleased Hennessy. "We are on schedule for the big meets coming up."

In the Falmouth meet Maureen Roche of Quincy and Abby Williams won the open shot at 38-1 and placed fourth in the discus at 100-6.

Another Frustrating Day For Raiders

North Quincy's baseball team has lost some frustrating games but none more so than Monday's 7-5 loss at Brockton, dropping its record to 5-3.

The Raiders faced Cambridge Rindge and Latin yesterday (Wednesday), will host Newton North Monday at 3:30 at Adams Field and will play at Waltham next Wednesday night at 7:30.

North started off with five runs in the top of the first at Brockton with Brian Gibbons hitting a grand slam homer after a run had been forced in on a walk.

However, Brockton pitcher John Coates settled down and blanked the Raiders the rest of the way on two hits.

The Boxers, leading the Suburban League, still trailed, 5-2, going into the bottom of the seventh.

North's pitchers, charged with 11 walks, were the victims of several highly questionable calls and in the seventh John Outerbridge, the third North pitcher, walked four and Gerard Prager hit a grand slam to win it.

"I never remember seeing two grand slams in one game," said North coach Charlie Bunker. "I hate to be critical of the umpires, but some of the calls were terrible and our pitchers never had a chance."

"Some of the calls in the seventh were highly questionable and even Brockton's coach agreed."

"You know, we are 5-3 and we led both league leader Brockton and runner-up Waltham, 5-0, but lost both games."

Last week the Raiders lost to Brookline, 7-5, in extra innings.

ST. JOHN'S banquet and award dinner was held recently in the lower church hall with awards going to all players, including the presentation of jackets and trophies to the junior girls, division and playoff champions in the YMCA-Church League. Front row, left to right, Sharon Southwick, Jennifer Bouley, Christine Delaney and Kristen Luosey. ALCOHOL MENACE

Next time you feel like a drink, remember -- alcohol is a drug. Alcoholism is America's #1 drug problem, and as a national health problem, ranks right behind heart disease and cancer. A Quick Picture: There are 10 million alcoholics in the United States. 95% of them are average citizens -- friends, neighbors, and colleagues. 80% hold regular jobs.

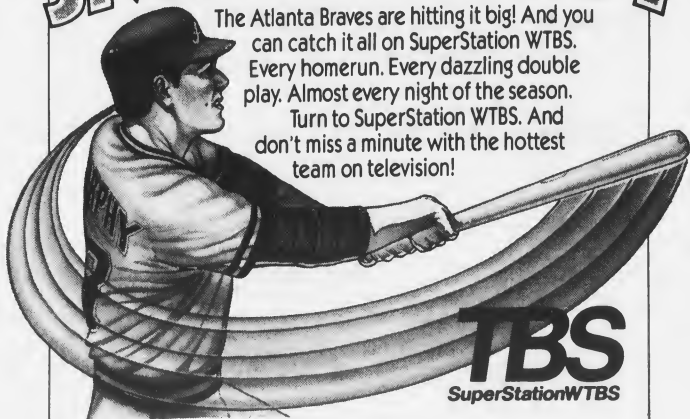

The Physical Effects

• Malnutrition. The nutritional value of alcohol is zero. When a major part of your diet is alcohol, your bodily defenses begin to break down. Resistance to pneumonia and other infectious diseases is greatly lowered.

• Cirrhosis of the liver is extremely high in alcoholics.
• Heart damage is greatly higher in alcoholics.
Excessive drinking is self pollution. Regular excessive drinking only leads to trouble. Why not catch it before it becomes a problem?

Quincy Girls Rally To Defeat Waltham

By TOM SULLIVAN
The Quincy girls' softball team continues to play fine ball and Monday overcame a 7-0 deficit at Waltham to pull out an 11-9 Suburban League win and improve its record to 6-3.

The First Ladies played at East Boston in a non-league game yesterday (Wednesday), will be at Dorchester for another non-leaguer today, will play at Brookline in a league game Friday and will be home with Brockton in a league game Monday at 3:30 at Faxon Field.

Quincy exploded for six runs in the fifth inning Monday to move to within a run of Waltham and scored five more in the sixth to take an 11-7 lead.

In the bottom of the inning Waltham scored twice to make it 11-9. After Quincy went out in order in the top of the seventh, Waltham put runners on first and second with one out. On a single to center field Mary Ellen Thomas made the play of game, throwing the runner out at third base. The next batter went out to end the game.

Chris Cuccinatta, who had cleared the bases on a four-base Waltham error, went 2-for-3 with two RBI. Beth Veneto, who played an outstanding game at shortstop, was 2-for-5 with two RBI and Andrea Griffin also was 2-for-3. Kathy Thornton went all the way pitching for Quincy.

Last week Quincy, which in the opening game of the year, had lost to Boston Latin, 11-10, came back to top Latin, 12-11, in eight innings.

Cuccinatta doubled in two runs to win the game after Latin had scored a run in the top of the eighth. Veneto had three hits and five RBI and Thornton had three hits to go with another complete game on the mound.

Earlier in the week Quincy had trampled Newton North, 16-3, in a league game, knocking Newton out of first place.

The First Ladies had 15 hits, including three and two RBI for Veneto. Thornton again pitched all the way with a three-hitter.

Griffin had two hits and three RBI and Coleen Phillips scored twice.

"We have very little experience or depth this year, but the girls have been playing outstanding ball and have never given up," Coach Barbara Webster said. "We have come from behind on several occasions and I've been delighted with their efforts."

Raiderettes' First Inning Blues Continue

If the North Quincy girls' softball team could get past the first inning unscathed, Mary Pratt's return to the coaching ranks would be much easier.

Monday the Raiderettes, who have had trouble in the opening inning of every game, let Brockton race off to a 7-0 lead in the top of the first at Artery Field and North lost a wild 18-15 Suburban League decision, dropping its record to 2-4.

The North girls played at Cambridge yesterday (Wednesday), will host Hingham in a nonleague game Friday at 3:30 at Artery Field, will be at Newton North next Monday, and will be home to Waltham Wednesday at 3:30 at Artery.

Brockton combined four hits, three walks and three North errors to get its early lead Monday. North, as it has done so often, played catchup ball and came back with five runs in the bottom of the first and continued to score in every inning but the fourth.

Neither starting pitcher survived the first inning and both teams pounded away at the relief pitchers. All North batters but one had at least a hit with Sheila Graham having four, including two doubles and a triple, and Noreen Connolly and ninth grader Ann Anderionis had two each. One of Ann's was a long triple. North had 14 hits.

Brockton's 10 hits along with 12 bases on balls kept the Raiderettes from ever catching up.

In its previous game North gave Brookline a 6-2 lead over the first four innings and dropped a 6-5 decision as Anderionis, in her first pitching start, was wild and her mates came up with key errors. The youngster then settled down and pitched no-hit ball over the last three innings.

The North girls rallied with three runs in the bottom of the seventh but fell short with the tying and winning runs on base.

Ann Sousa continued to hit with two, including a long double. Catcher Cheryl Murphy returned after being out with an injured hand and played well. Sousa and Ann Duggan turned in fine defensive performances.

THE VIDEO CONNECTION.

by James S. Leach

HOOLYWOOD — From my bureau of big bucks comes word that Neil Diamond will earn over four thousand dollars a minute for an upcoming gig at the Atlantic City Convention Center.

According to my video connections in New Jersey, Diamond will net $1½ million bucks for a three-day appearance this June. That's five hundred thousand a day, or based on an average two-hour performance, $4,166.66 per minute.

On the record front, Real Life who scored big with their first single, "Send Me An Angel," scores even bigger with their debut album, "Heart Land," which features my favorite, "Catch Me I'm Falling." This slick tune sounds a lot like the Electric Light Orchestra as it's loaded with the usual ELO commercial hooks. I recently caught Real Life live in concert, and take my word, they are for real!

Another new act to keep your eye on is Nik Kershaw. His album "Human Racing" featuring Top 40 single, "Wouldn't It Be Good" is a great introduction set for this fair haired boy from England.

Hardly a new act, or a fair haired boy, but yet still very entertaining is Jerry Lee Lewis and his new offering on MCA Records called "I Am What I Am." The title track says it all as "The Killer," despite all of his personal woes of late, lets his music tell his side of the story. Pumping his familiar rock and roll piano, Jerry Lee pleads "... a lot of folks think I'm strange, one thing for sure, I'll never change ... I am what I am, not what they want me to be."

My video connections right here in Tinseltown tell me a biopic based on the life of Lewis, called "Great Balls of Fire" is in production with newcomer, Mickey Rourke in the title role. For all of the hours of entertainment Jerry Lee has brought the world, let's hope the movie has a happy ending.

One other new record release to check out is "The Bop Won't Stop" by Shakin' Stevens on Epic Records. Including his current hit, "I Cry Just A Little Bit," Stevens presents a very enjoyable entrance into the world of music.

Debbie Cardinal, my video connection in Garden City, Michigan has asked my help in tracking down her favorite star, Genie Francis. Well Debbie, you can write the beautiful Miss Francis at 8899 Beverly Boulevard, Los Angeles, California 90048. She currently is reviewing several television offers, while at the same time contemplating a couple of legitimate theatre projects. The live acting bug really bit Genie last summer in all of places Debbie, your home state of Michigan when she starred in "Crimes of the Heart."

Remember a few weeks ago I told you about "Video 45's" offered by Sony? Well, it's no baloney with Sony as product featuring David Bowie, Sheena Easton, Elton John, Rod Stewart, and many other big names can be found on the shelves of your favorite video store. These tapes, which sell for under 20 bucks feature great stereo sound, and fabulous production. The next time you want to put a little pizzaz in your party, crank up the "Video 45's."

Until next week, remember, to succeed, you've got to have connections.

Got a question for your favorite star? I'll track 'em down for you. Send questions and comments to James S. Leach c/o THE VIDEO CONNECTION, 22761 Pacific Coast Hwy., Malibu, Calif. 90265.

WEEK OF: MAY 10

AQUARIUS — January 21-February 19

Friend may be abrupt, but his/her heart is in the right place. Financially, May continues optimistically; combination of observation and imagination are all-important.

PISCES — February 20-March 20

Understanding both sides of a situation makes it easier to adapt, and adaptation is keyword through the week. Pay attention to subtle love signs, don't hesitate to act on intuition.

ARIES — March 21-April 20

Short-term financial goals can be shaped this week; analytic skills are sharp and attention span is impressive. A bright, bold spring look does good things for morale.

TAURUS — April 21-May 22

Social life is more varied thanks to your renewed optimistic outlook. Being a good listener is your great trait this week. Financial review requires more realistic approach.

GEMINI — May 23-June 21

Friends are less predictable and relatives are more supportive. Travel plans are highlighted through the week. Academic interest becomes increasingly important.

CANCER — June 22-July 22

Intimate gatherings can become quite crowded — it's hard to get away from the masses and may not even be worth the effort. News from faraway requires prompt attention.

LEO — July 23-August 22

Friend returns to old self — to your immense relief. Career shift may begin, you could be advancing in chosen profession, or setting forth on a new path.

VIRGO — August 23-September 22

Love takes on a new glow and travel — especially with favorite partner — is accentuated this week. Budget needs realistic review. Clash with neighbor can be avoided through compromise.

LIBRA — September 23-October 22

Emotions can run high this week — your own emotions, and those of the people in your midst. Not surprisingly, artistic expression can result in outstanding efforts.

SCORPIO — October 23-November 21

Key word now is diversity. Look for new interests and be willing to assume challenging responsibilities. Roles at home may undergo some reversal this week.

QUICK SALE QUERY

QUESTION: I listed my home with a Realtor on a Friday and he had it sold on Saturday. Do you think he really earned his fee?

ANSWER: He certainly has! In fact, more so than the broker who would take several months to close the same sale. If it were the other way around, you would be asking the same question. A quick sale is not a matter of luck or lack of effort. Your Realtor has built up a bank of excellent prospects through hundreds of hours of phone calls, showing homes, interviews and advertising. He has tapped this bank. He has done his homework and made a big investment that has paid off - FOR YOU!

When a REALTOR MAKES A QUICK SALE it is rarely a matter of luck!

First Reports Favorable On Validated Parking

Validated parking started officially in downtown Quincy Monday and early reports were favorable.

"We're very pleased," said Kenneth Fallon, executive secretary of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association (QCBPA), which has backed the validated parking concept strongly. "There have been a minimum of complaints."

"It's been rolling along pretty well," said Mayor Francis X. McCauley. "There have been no major problems. We will have to wait a week or two to see how the projected revenues go and how many merchants sign up for validation."

Fallon said that about 65 or 70 downtown businessmen have signed up to validate parking tickets for their customers, a key feature of the new parking operation which is being conducted by Kinney Systems Inc. in the Hancock and Ross lots.

"There has been some confusion but I would say that validated parking is a huge success," said Stephen Gillig, proprietor of McDonald's Restaurant on Southern Artery, and president of the QCBPA, who toured the parking lots on opening day Monday.

Cindy Ryder, who with her husband Charles operates Ryder's Curtain Store, said they validated tickets for about eight to 10 customers Monday and four or five as of midafternoon Tuesday.

"There was a lot of customer negativism about validation at first," she said. "But as soon as we gave them the stamp and they saw how easy it was they had a different attitude."

Burt Cook, proprietor of Tag's Discount Furniture store, said his firm did not validate a single ticket on Monday. He added, however, that he was still in favor of the concept.

"But I think the Hancock lot is a disgrace," he said. "There are pot holes there that someone could get hurt in. I don't think the lot should have been opened for validated parking until it was fixed up."

Mayor McCauley has promised that the lot will be paved and cleaned up soon.

Arthur Foley, the mayor's administrative assistant, said most of the complaints received had to do with traffic flow in unaccustomed directions in and around the parking lots.

"Kinney does not have its software in place in the collection booths yet," he said, "so everything has to be done by hand. When the software arrives, there will be separate exits for the monthly ticket buyers."

Fallon said that about 240 all day parkers took advantage of the $25 a month ticket on the first day -- 200 of them in the Ross garage and 40 in the Hancock lot.

One downtown Quincy merchant who was not enthralled with the validated parking idea was Ruth Mauer of Colpitts Travel.

"It's killing business," she said. "The parking lot is empty. It's not like the usual Monday. We're not supporting it. If a client buys something and asks about validation, we'll give them a quarter."

increased as the transfer is within the ward, and there is only one package store in the vicinity of the new location.

"The commission finds no valid reason why the transfer was denied and the denial cannot be supported on the basis of the reasons given by the local board. Therefore the commission remands the matter to the local board with the recommendation that the transfer be approved."

with youths drinking.

The applicants appealed the decision to the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission which remanded the matter to the local board.

A letter sent by the ABCC to the Board stated:

"Based upon the evidence and testimony presented, the commission finds that it does not support the local board's statement of reasons dated April 24."

The ABCC stated that the number of liquor establishments would not be

8 - Vote Margin Johnston, Cheney Win In Ward 1

By TOM HENSHAW

Robert Johnston, headmaster of the Woodward School for Girls, and Michael Cheney, a diesel mechanic for the MBTA, will face each other in the June 12 election for the Ward 1 seat on the City Council.

Johnston and Cheney each rolled up a heavy vote in their home Houghs Neck precincts to finish one-two in Tuesday's preliminary election, the first special election in Quincy nearly 50 years.

Johnston, 51, who lives at 46 Bay View Ave. in Precinct 6, topped the ballot with 902 votes while Cheney, 30, of 94 Rock Island Rd. in Precinct 5 was only eight votes behind with 894.

A total of 2,783 voters or 34.6 per cent of the 8,042 registered went to the polls.

Trailing far behind the two leaders were Bernard Reisberg with 497 votes, Kevin Davis with 235 and

MICHAEL CHENEY

Mary Crowley Gregoire with 207.

The special final election on June 12 will fill the vacancy created when Leo J. Kelly, who held the Council seat for 10 years, resigned to take a job as project director with the Quincy Housing Authority.

With only one race and only six precincts voting, the election was counted, reported and wrapped up by 9:30 p.m., an hour and a half after the polls closed.

one of the swiftest city elections ever.

The last special elections in Quincy were May 21 and June 11, 1935, when Thomas S. Burgin defeated Council President Leo E. Mullin in a special race to succeed Charles A. Ross as mayor.

Reisberg, 56, proprietor of Bernie's Modern Formal shop in Quincy Center, who lives at 1399 Quincy Shore Drive in Precinct 1, won his

Autos In Swingle's Quarry Interest FBI

The FBI has expressed an interest in all automobiles found in Swingle's Quarry, it was disclosed Tuesday as draining operations lowered the water level about 138 feet.

One such car was uncovered Monday with the registration number believed to be 259-804. Police said it was not reported stolen and there was no response to the listing on the registry computer.

Capt. David Rowell, head of the Quincy Police Detective Bureau, said the FBI had left a standing order to be notified of any cars found in the quarry as possible clues in "the Susan Saxe case."

Susan Saxe was a radical Brandeis University student who is currently serving time in MCI Framingham for her involvement in the slaying of a Boston police officer in a bank robbery a dozen years ago.

Another member of the radical band, Kathy Powers, has been sought but never found.

Meanwhile, Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson said draining of the quarry continues smoothly in search of the body of Paul Gooch, 17, of Brockton, who drowned there June 20.

"The water level is going down at a rate of eight to 10 feet a day," he said. "The pump is capable of doing more but it is limited by the capacity of Furnace Brook to handle the flow."

The limit on Furnace Brook was set by the State Department of Environmental Engineering (DEQE) to preclude floods in West Quincy.

Anderson said that if the Gooch boy's body is spotted in the quarry the pumping will cease temporarily, the police will assume jurisdiction and a crane will lower a man in a bucket to recover it.

Civil Defense and the Police Underwater Recovery Team will be mobilized to help in any way.

The quarry is being drained by the J.F. White Contracting Co. of Newton which has an agreement with the city to fill in the hole with clean materials. The deepest section of the quarry is nearly 400 feet.

The White Company started draining May 1 and since then has taken about 26 feet of water out.

Rehearing May 29 On Presidential Liquors

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The License Board will hold a rehearing Tuesday, May 29, on the request from Presidential Liquors for transfer of its license from 1222 Hancock St., Quincy Sq. to 21 Scammell St., Pilgrim Plaza, Quincy Point.

The board denied the request April 24 because of the number of liquor establishments in the ward, and because the store would be located near areas where police have had problems with youths drinking.

The applicants appealed the decision to the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission which remanded the matter to the local board.

A letter sent by the ABCC to the Board stated:

"Based upon the evidence and testimony presented, the commission finds that it does not support the local board's statement of reasons dated April 24."

The ABCC stated that the number of liquor establishments would not be

McCauley Studies Voting Machines

Mayor Francis X. McCauley is studying the possibility of voting machines for Quincy.

"It looks favorable," said City Clerk John Gillis, who has often been forced to stay up until 4 or 5 in the morning while votes are counted by hand.

Gillis, a supporter of the punch card system of voting, met with McCauley on the matter Monday.

One punch card company, Electric Voting Machines of Newton, has already demonstrated its wares for the city clerk.

A second one, Date Voting Punch Card of Amesbury, will show off its system the first week of June.

"The mayor wants to talk to the second company before making any decision," said Gillis.

Had a punch card system been used in Tuesday's election in Ward 1, said Gillis, the vote counting and reporting would have been wrapped up by 8:30 p.m. or 8:45 p.m.

Jewelry Theft

Paul Griffin of Edwin St., North Quincy, reported to police Sunday that an emerald and diamond ring valued at $1,000 and a string of pearls at $500 were stolen from his home.

Also reported taken were eight video cartridges valued at $300 and a pair of jade earrings at $100.

$2.8 Million Project

First Step Taken To Lift S. Quincy Sewer Ban

Ground was broken

Monday for a $2.8 million sewer project in South Quincy which eventually will result in lifting the state ban that has been placed on development in the area.

The project will include the Fort Square pumping station, the Town Brook relief interceptor and rehabilitation of the South Quincy and Faxon Park sewer systems.

"This should eliminate the sewer problems in South-west Quincy," said Mayor Francis X. McCauley, who noted that 90 per cent of the cost will be picked up by the state and federal governments.

Meanwhile, Planning Director James E. Lydon said the city is about to pass papers on the sale of the Adams School in South Quincy to Adams School Associates for $350,000.

Conversion of the abandoned school into housing units has been held up due to the sewer ban but Lydon said the contractor has corrected the problem as it applies to the school.

"He rectified it by removing two gallons of sewage from the line for every one gallon he plans to contribute from the units in the school," he said.

Losordo Not Sure Of New Pollard Bid

Developer Anthony Losordo says he has not yet decided whether or not he will submit another bid on the abandoned Pollard School building in Quincy Point.

Losordo, principal in Manel Properties Trust, made an original bid of $152,600 for the building but it was rejected when a community group sought to purchase it.

The community group failed to come up with the funding and Mayor Francis X. McCauley has announced that the building on Southern Artery will be rebid.

Losordo met with members of the Quincy Point community Monday night to show them his plans for the school and, he said, "they all seemed to think well of it."

He said he plans to talk with Mayor McCauley and members of the City Council, who rejected his earlier plan, to see if they will change their minds without rebidding.

Atlantic Advisory Meeting

The Atlantic Middle School Advisory Council will hold its next meeting Thursday, May 17 at 7:30 p.m., in the Media Center of the school.

All parents are welcome to attend.

Board Approves Extension Of Edmund Fitzgerald

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
The License Board granted a request Tuesday for extension of the licensed premises of the Edmund Fitzgerald restaurant at the Boston Harbor Marina despite opposition by several area residents and a local organization.

The expansion, which will accommodate an additional 80 people, consists of extension of the pier where another tent will be located, and extension of the patio on the mainland.

Richard Barrett, restaurant manager, said the area would be used for customers who have to wait for a table.

Walter Hannon, of Boston Harbor Marina real estate department, said the restaurant did not last summer but lost a lot of business when customers left the area when told there would be a two and a half to three hour wait.

The extended area would mainly be used during the day, said Hannon.

Atty. Dennis Harrington said the area would be fenced to integrate the site.

"That's a large area to police," said Police Chief Francis Finn. "I would want to have a say on how many police officers would be needed."

Harrington said police details would be increased proportionally.

Janet Roy of Squantum read to the board a letter from Save Our Shores president Maureen Mazzrimas stating the organization's strong opposition to the extension.

Mrs. Mazzrimas' letter stated there was no pre-established non-conforming use for the extension in an industrially-zoned area, and that there is a proliferation of liquor licenses in the area.

Mrs. Roy was also opposed and said traffic would be increased on Victory Road.

Eleanor Johnson of Squantum said the non-conforming use which allowed the liquor license at the old Port O' Call on the site was lost when the establishment burned down.

Mrs. Johnson said the extension would be a violation of the City Council's Planned Unit Development (PUD) agreement prohibiting intensification of traffic on Victory Road until a second means of access is provided.

She also said an environmental impact study was supposed to be done.

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald said that according to the city's law department, the non-conforming rights go with the land.

Finn and City Clerk John Gillis said they didn't think the extension would intensify traffic problems.

MacDonald also noted that progressive states such as Florida and California feature their waterfronts, and this is the first attempt that Quincy has made.

Finn made the motion to grant the license and said a rehearing may be necessary if the results of the impact study are adverse.

5 Boys, 11 And 12, Arraigned In Assault On Girls, 11

Five Quincy boys, ages 11 and 12, were arraigned in juvenile session of Quincy District Court Tuesday on delinquency charges in the sexual assaults on two 11-year-old girls in a church hall.

Det. Capt. David Rowell, head of the Quincy Police Detective Bureau, said the alleged assault occurred in the St. Boniface Church Hall in Germantown in January but was not reported until three weeks ago.

He said the boys, who were not identified, were charged with juvenile delinquency by reason of attempted rape and indecent assault. If convicted, they could be remanded to the Youth Service Board until they are 21.

Rowell said the alleged assault took place in the church hall in the basement and not on the altar, as reported by a Boston newspaper.

He indicated that there were two separate assaults, saying "it was a continuing thing but the same incident."

Readers Forum Disturbed At Small 'Loyalty Day' Turnout

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

As a "Loyal American" I attended the annual Loyalty Day Parade and exercises, sponsored by the George F. Bryan VFW Post, at the United First Parish Church in Quincy Sq., Sunday, May 6.

It was a beautiful day for the festivities, but unfortunately, not too many of our "loyal" citizens of Quincy could spare the time to come and observe them. Even more disturbing was the lack of support by other veteran's groups in the city and even our elected public officials.

I am not a veteran and I don't know who was officially invited to participate in this "annual" event on the first Sunday in May, but all veteran's groups and elected officials were all aware of it, and have always been welcome to participate in past years.

It is little wonder that the majority of citizens in Quincy are apathetic towards these type of ceremonies when only one current elected public official (Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro), took the time to attend. I hope that one day our city leaders may realize the effect that their apathy has on the rest of the citizenry when they are defeated in office because most of their supporters stayed away from the voting polls.

Quincy's Link To '42nd Street'

Quincy has no "42nd Street" but it does have a strong link to that famed thoroughfare in New York City.

More so, to the revival of the musical of the same name which opens today (Thursday) at the Shubert Theater in Boston.

Bradford Ropes, who graduated from Quincy High School in the early 20s and lived in Wollaston between working visits to Broadway and Hollywood, wrote the novel that became the musical which won a coveted Tony award in 1981. It was also a 1930s movie.

Ropes, who died in 1966 while he was living at 55 Woodbine St., Wollaston isn't as widely remembered as actress Ruth Gordon and comedian Billy DeWolfe, two other local products who made it big in the entertainment field.

But performers are remembered more easily than writers.

Ropes was a talented writer. He wrote other novels, including "Stage Mothers", "Go Into Your Dance", "The Prince of 42nd St." and "Mr. Billy Takes A Walk". The latter was about a Beacon Hill madman which he wrote while staying with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Ropes of 15 Wollaston Ave.

He wrote television scripts for the series "Man Against Crime," "The Hunter," and "Martin Kane Private Eye," and movie scripts for Gene Autry westerns and Mickey Rooney and Abbott and Costello comedies.

And, if you're interested in reading some of Ropes' earlier works, check out "The Golden Rod" for the years following World War I. He was a prolific contributor to that Quincy High School publication.

He wrote his first play, "Dreamchild," while a 12-year-old student at the old Wollaston School and penned a class play at Quincy High School, which, he once said, "the powers that be decided wasn't proper for the high school boys."

Like Ruth Gordon Jones before him, he left Quincy for New York at the age of 18, changed his name to Billy Bradford, and joined the Keith Orpheum circuit as a dancer. He danced professionally from 1924 to 1942 when he left the stage to write for it.

"42nd Street" was written while he was hootin' for the Keith Orpheum circuit.

Ropes came home for good in 1957 to join the staff of S. Gimmat Myrbeck and Co. (now SGM and Co.) then located in Quincy but now in Norwell and wrote free lance.

And to enjoy a few beers with old friends in Wollaston.

MAYOR Francis McCauley may be Quincy's No. 1 walker. He took part in the Walk For Hunger in Boston and the walk for the Protestant Social Bureau and usually gets a daily walk of his own. The other day he walked home to Manet Ave., Houghs Neck from the Squantum Causeway. He's now got a mile down to 13 minutes.

SONS, DAUGHTERS AND grandchildren recently held a 65th birthday party for Mrs. Geraldine Delmonico, food service coordinator for the Quincy public schools.

She is the wife of Anthony Delmonico, retired stonemason for the Park Department, now a member of the Park Board, and mother of Mrs. Jeanne Reardon, Mayor McCauley's secretary.

She is also the mother of Thomas Delmonico of Quincy, and Lynn Johnson and Barbara Hayes, both of Weymouth, and seven grandchildren.

WUMB's "As Young As You Feel" program was broadcast live from 1000 Southern Artery, Wednesday with Tony Cordone as host. Joining him were Jerry Howard (Slim Pickens) who was at WJDA with Cordone some years ago and old friend, Fred B. Cole formerly of WHDH.

Ah, the good old days of radio.

- like to drink alone?
- lose time from work due to drinking?
- need a drink at a definite time daily?

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

Steve Downing, Manager

HOUSE VALUE VS LOT VALUE

QUESTION: What is the proper relationship between the cost of a lot and the value of the house on it?

ANSWER: Old rules of thumb have lost much of their meaning. It used to be that land represented about one-sixth of the home's purchase price. Then it moved up to one-fourth. And it will change again as the cost of land continues to rise. Nevertheless, the land value versus house value ratio cannot be totally dismissed because it does, to some extent, affect the resale value of the property. It may not make much difference if you put an inexpensive house on an expensive lot, but it could be a mistake to have too much house for the land.

THE RELATIONSHIP between the cost of the lot and cost of the house is important.

Board Approves Benefits For Ruth Gordon Amphitheatre

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The License Board voted Tuesday to approve two benefit concerts for the Ruth Gordon Amphitheatre at Pagament Field.

The concerts, Friday, June 8, and Saturday, June 9, 7 to 10 p.m. at the Wollaston Theatre, will feature a performance by the group, Drezniak, and showing of Miss Gordon's films.

"Harold and Maude" will be shown at the June 8 benefit, "Where's Papa," June 9.

Some 700 to 800 people are expected to attend the benefits, said Arthur Chandler, Wollaston Theatre owner.

Chandler said he listened to a tape of the group's music and described it as "folk type music."

"I said I want at least two Quincy police officers (on duty)," said Chandler, "I don't expect violence, I just want to make sure people don't go in and out of the doors."

The benefits were the idea of Charles W. White, III, of West Roxbury, who grew up in Quincy and is a Ruth Gordon fan, said Loren Strout, president of the Quincy Tourism Association.

The group is donating its time, and proceeds will go towards completing the amphitheatre named for the Wollaston-born actress, Strout said.

White told the board a security force of 20 people will watch the exits and make sure no bottles are brought into the building.

He said plans call for the event to be advertised in Quincy and on Boston's WBCN radio station.

White said the group played at the old Strand Theatre and there were no problems.

Police Chief Francis Finn said he was very concerned about the authority of the security force and that it not inflame the crowd.

"I'm concerned about the outside of the building as well as the inside, I don't want any trouble," Finn told the organizers to meet with police and discuss security.

Ward Councillor Stephen McGrath said he would also attend the meeting.

Noting that the benefits were for a Quincy cause, Finn made the motion to grant the license.

Fore River Bridge Workers Strike For $1 An Hour

All river work at the new Fore River Bridge came to a halt when some 50 riggers and pile driving men went on strike for more money, claiming that the 60 cents an hour set by the State Department of Public Works was leaving them in poverty on pay day.

"I can pay you no more," contractor Vincent Barletta told a delegation of strikers, headed by Jack Gillis, who had asked him for $1 an hour, "The jobs are still here if you want to return to work."

State Public Works Commissioner Frank L. Lyman told the workers' delegation that he was too busy to see them right away and suggested that they take their grievances to Edwin S. Smith, commissioner of labor and industries.

The river workmen were building a coffer dam on the Quincy side of the river and had driven 600 of the 1,400 piles that were to be sunk into the riverbed as part of the foundation for the new bridge.

The workers said they were not allowed to work more than 30 hours a week, which limited their pay to $18 a week at the most. However, they said, due to bad weather and machinery breakdowns, they very seldom attained the full 30-hour week.

One worker said that he had worked on the project for seven weeks and had taken home only $85. Only once, he said, had he received the full $18 a week salary.

Judge Sets Inmate Cap On Dedham Jail

Sheriff Clifford Marshall has claimed a small victory in the continuing battle of overcrowded Dedham jail.

Federal Judge Walter Skinner has set an immediate cap of 180 inmates in the jail and 143 on July 1 when the North Wing of the more than 150-year-old jail is under court order to close.

Marshall said the jail had an average inmate population of 204 last year and admissions are up 21 per cent this year. There are only 72 cells in the antiquated jail.

The overflow of inmates created by Judge Skinner's order will have to be relocated by the state, Marshall said.

"I am pleased that the federal court has recognized the problems we have in managing this facility," said Marshall.

Role reversal...

Contrary to popular mythology, men are eager to marry, too

When it comes to marriage, popular mythology has it that women want it desperately, while men are "captured," dragged into it kicking and screaming all the way. This myth needs a bit of updating, says an article in a recent issue of Bride's Magazine.

In an ironic reversal of roles, men today are eager to marry, so eager in fact, they often find they're the ones doing the dragging.

The 1982 figures from the U.S. Bureau of the Census reveal that about 70 percent of American men today are or have been married. And, the much-touted playboy life aside, says the article, of those men not married, approximately 80 percent wish they were.

Evidence of concern

Marriage counselors also have evidence that men place a new value on marriage. When a marriage is in trouble, they say, the husbands are at least as concerned with seeking help as their wives are.

This is a big change from 15 years ago when, according to Dr. Ray Fowler, Marriage and Family Therapist in Claremont, California, "less than 20 percent of the visits to therapists on a national basis were initiated by men."

What happened? Why, just as women are proclaiming their independence and postponing marriage in favor of a career are men deciding that marriage and family life are really important after all?

The desire to be a father is also a major motivator for some men to marry.

New satisfactions

In the process, men have found deep new satisfactions. Concludes the article: "... men have discovered that marriage is an opportunity to experience the gentle, nurturing parts of [themselves] that have been denied for too long."

Helpful hints for selecting engagement, wedding rings

The first major decision facing the newly-engaged couple is the selection of an engagement ring, usually shortly followed by a wedding ring.

Jewelers of America (JA), the national association representing more than 12,000 retail jewelers across the country, offers some tips that are designed to help a couple pick the rings that fit the future bride's finger and future groom's budget.

According to National Jeweler, a trade publication, today's engaged couples continue the tradition of solitaire diamonds, but they are combining them with romantic contemporary settings.

Round stones still lead in popularity, but the use of "fancies," such as marquises and pears, followed by ovals and emerald-cut stones, is increasing.

The bigger the stone, the simpler the setting should be. Conversely, the smaller the center stone, or solitaire, the more elaborate the setting can be.

Some of the smaller fancy-shaped diamonds, in openwork freeform settings, give the illusion of a bigger stone and a more important ring, while keeping price levels down.

All-yellow gold remains the favorite, but new finishes and color combinations are making fashion news. Two-tone textural treatments... combining mirror finishes with sand-blasted, fluted, brushed and pebbled surfaces, are all available.

A new item: refined nugget designs, offering the rich coloration of gold with an irregular surface.

Younger couples prefer

Tonsorial tips for the groom

As the wedding day approaches, every groom wants to look his best. Despite all of the worrying over clothes and other details, there is one particular aspect to his appearance that a man should be super careful about—his haircut.

The most attractive haircut for any man depends upon his own unique facial structure and features. For instance, a man who possesses a large nose may look better with his hair combed away from his face, according to New York grooming specialist Stan Place.

Place also suggests that a high forehead gentleman brush his hair forward or to either side, and that a low forehead calls for the hair to be brushed back or forward.

In addition, Place recommends that a man with a receding chin have his hair trimmed short at top and left long at the back and sides.

Skin and hair care are as fundamental to the groom as to the bride, and to find his skin type, the groom should go to a grooming bar at a department store. For example, if his hair is only, an anti-oil shampoo will be prescribed.

In essence, a few simple grooming tips can help any man develop and maintain his optimum appearance, which is sure to please his wife long after the wedding day.

romantic designs, featuring hand-cut flowers and leaves, continuous hearts, braided and love knot motifs. Interlocking sets of engagement and wedding rings which can be worn separately or as a unit, look most appealing with softer, more flowing lines.

Couples embarking on their second trip to the altar frequently eliminate the traditional engagement ring in favor of a more costly wedding ring, often embellished by diamonds.

For this most important choice, it is vital to deal with a local jeweler who not only offers a wide selection of styles and price ranges, but is also an expert who can give you advice and service.

For example, if you have a ring or piece of jewelry from a parent or grandparent, a jeweler can make it into a "today" style for you.

If the stone has been damaged over the years, he can re-cut it and set it in a ring that you will be proud to wear... in fact, your taste will play an important role in the new design.

Finally, the jeweler who has become your advisor will also be around in the future for service. You can return to him for repairs, or, as the years pass, you may want to hand your ring down to your newly-engaged child. Your jeweler will be there to help.

To learn more about fine jewelry, you can receive JA's free brochures by sending a self-addressed stamp envelope to Jewelers of America, Dept. MNS, 1271 Avenue of the Americas, New York, NY 10020.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Archaeologists proved people have honored mothers and motherhood for 20,000 years. Statues of mother-goddesses were among the cave-men's earliest artifacts.

Egyptian tombs feature many pictures of mothers with their families.

I've since Ann Jarvis conducted an intensive letter-writing campaign. Mother's Day has been recognized in every state in the union. President Wilson proclaimed it a national holiday in 1914.

We in America celebrate the holiday with memories of mothers who gave us life and protected us with sweetness and gentleness. The memories include how they guided our early steps; how they stood by in sickness and times of sorrow and sadness - and how they comforted us.

Mother's day is a beautiful holiday of memories - whether mother is with us or not. Her guiding hand, love of beauty, devotion and faithfulness deserves prayers of thankfulness that God gave us a Mother. To all mothers and children alike we hope Mother's Day is truly a happy day of memories for all of you.

Mother's Day Observed At Squantum Church

Members and friends of the First Church of Squantum gathered Sunday morning for a Mother's Day breakfast served by the young people of the church followed by a special Mother's Day worship service.

For the call to worship, church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin read the "Magnificat," the words spoken by Mary, the mother of Jesus, after she had been told that she was to be a mother.

The opening prayer was given by members of the pastor's family, including his mother, Mrs. Minnie Langevin, from Ferndale, Mich., his sister, Patti Hurd, and her daughters Mindi and Marci.

Three young people of the church led the congregation in a special Mother's Day prayer later in the service. They included Susan Scott, David Williams and Sarah Midlram.

The anthem sung by the Chancel Choir was "My Shepherd Will Supply My Need" arranged by Marie Pooler.

Guest organist for the morning was Joseph Uppling who had played for the church for many years in the past. He began as a pianist for the church in 1914 when it was housed in a tent where the Squantum Fire Station now stands.

Then, when the members of the church built a new wooden building on the present site of the church building, he became organist and choir director, which he remained when the new brick building was built in 1949.

Hymns for the morning included "Now Thank We All Our God," "O Master, Let Me Walk With Thee," "I Love To Tell The Story," and "Onward." Christian Soldiers.

Dr. Langevin preached on the topic, "Motherhood: A Holy Calling," taking as his text this verse (1:5) from II Timothy: "I am reminded of your sincere faith, a faith that dwelt first in your grandmother Lois and your mother Eunice and now, I am sure, dwells in you."

Greeters for the morning were Robert and Ida

VonRiggers. Ushers were Stewart Scott and Fore Wallin. The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Hazel Mayne, Ruth Swenson and Patti Hurd.

The pastor noted that the pink flowers on the Japanese cherry tree between the parsonage and the church building were in full bloom. He said, "This beautiful bouquet arrives from God each year just in time for Mother's Day and disappears soon afterward. So take a good look today! The blossoms won't be here next week."

Since this Sunday will be Children's Day at the church, there will be only one service at 10:30 a.m. It will be led by children in the church. Each child who attends will receive a flowering plant to take home.

Schedule of special services for the next few weeks at the First Church of Squantum includes Children's Day, May 20; Memorial Day Sunday, May 27; Sailing Sunday, June 3; Pentecost, June 10; and Father's Day, June 17.

Take care of your own funeral arrangements now. So your family won't have to later.

By not taking care of your own funeral in advance, you force someone close to you to do it for you.

For the person who accepts the responsibility, making arrangements at the time of need is likely to be filled with uncertainties. The uncertainty of not knowing what you really wanted. Your personal preferences. Perhaps, a favorite dress or suit. A special prayer. A clergyman with whom you are especially close. The uncertainties are endless.

The kindest thing you can do for your family is make your own funeral arrangements far in advance of need. That way everybody will know the kind of funeral you would like to have.

For more information on pre-arrangement or pre-payment, write for our free booklet, "No Greater Kindness Than You Love."

If you have any questions, give us a call or stop by.

Quincy K. Of C. Plans Memorial Mass

The annual Memorial Mass and Communion Breakfast of Quincy Knights of Columbus Council will be held Sunday, June 3 at 8:30 a.m. at St. Joseph's Church, Quincy Point.

Breakfast will be served in St. Joseph's School hall immediately following the Mass.

Hosts for the Mass and breakfast will be the officers and members of St. Joseph's Holy Name Society.

Tickets may be obtained by contacting Quincy Council Recording Secretary Malachy Creaven at 773-7557 or Grand Knight Albert Dellorlano at 471-9494.

Dellorlano urges all Quincy Council members to attend the Mass as a tribute to all Council members who have died this past year.

There will be an election of officers for the 1984-85 fraternal year at the June 7 meeting of the council. A Grand Knight's nominating committee has been appointed to present a slate of officers for consideration at the election. A floor committee or nominations from the floor may also be submitted for consideration. The list of nominations will then be published in the Council bulletin and all members will then have an opportunity to vote.

Dellorlano also announced that the Council headquarters chambers are being painted and repaired through the cooperation of students from Quincy Vocational Technical High School.

Dellorlano also reported that seven new candidates have been proposed for membership into the Council. He urged all members to sign up one new member during the coming membership drive. Application forms may be obtained at Council headquarters or from Dellorlano or any of the officers.

The names of sick or hospitalized members should be submitted to Council officers.

Quincy Knights of Columbus council is the oldest of the K. of C. Councils in the city. The Council's Civic Institute was noted for providing discussions and debates over the years on many important social, civic and religious issues of the day. Many national figures visited Quincy to participate in these forums.

Quincy Public Schools:

Special Needs Awareness Month In Spotlight

Mayor Francis X. McCauley proclaimed March 1984 as SPECIAL NEEDS AWARENESS MONTH in Quincy to highlight the programs and services available to children with special needs and to increase the community's sensitivity to and awareness of persons with special needs.

The many events that occurred throughout the month were planned and coordinated by a Planning Committee that included representatives from the Quincy Public Schools, the Thomas Crane Public Library, and the Quincy Parent Advisory Council to Special Education.

Patricia Del Val, Louis Tozzi, Judy Paul and Carol Lee Griffin represented the school system and brought to the Committee an extensive knowledge of the range and magnitude of handicaps among children in Quincy and the programs and services available in the school and community.

Jane Granstrom, Supervisor of Children's Services of the Thomas Crane Public Library, contributed her indepth knowledge of resources available to adults and children. The unique perspective of being the parent of a child with a special educational need was shared by Susan McKeon, Ann Wickberg, and Julia McCarthy, members of the Quincy Parent Advisory Council to Special Education.

One common goal united the Committee -- a commitment to increase community awareness of special needs children in Quincy -- their needs, their handicaps, and the programs and services available to help them to reach their individual potentials. Programs were planned to impact and involve children and adults within the community.

A seven session inservice program on "Understanding Handicaps" was presented to Mrs. Emily Blampied's fifth grade class at the Squantum School. Members of the Pupil Personnel Services staff who lead the sessions were Carol Shiffer, Mary Ann Chase, Joyce Lebewohl, William Mulcahy, Diane Chudomiel, and Luleen Anderson.

With support from Joan McDonald from the Volunteer Information Agency, the staff taught students about such handicaps as blindness, learning disabilities, physical disabilities, mental retardation, and deafness. Students sat in wheelchairs; walked with crutches; walked blindfolded with canes; experienced the frustrations of the mentally retarded child; learned about braille and sign language; and learned, through the use of puppets, books, and films about the world of the handicapped person.

To the cheers of over 300 parents, relatives, friends, and staff, more than 80 students in the Quincy Public Schools demonstrated their athletic skill at the Fourth Annual Special Needs Athletic Night held March 8 in the North Quincy High School gymnasium.

The event was directed by Louis Tozzi, Special Education TEAM Administrator, and Mary Pratt, adaptive physical educator. Jack Rayner was announcer and Jack Weir was referee.

Basic skills relays, a basketball shoot-out, a soccer game and a fast paced basketball game provided an exciting array of activities for students.

The stirring music of the North Quincy High School band, under the direction of Paul Haight, All-Star tee shirts, and ribbons all added up to make the evening an unforgettable one for everyone.

The Kaleidoscope Theatre night scheduled for March 29 was snowed-out and will be rescheduled next year.

Throughout the month the Thomas Crane Public Library displayed books and materials on a wide variety of handicaps as well as materials that can be used by handicapped children and adults. Displays of the academic and creative work of children with special needs were displayed throughout the city, including the new City Hall.

Appreciation and thanks are extended to all of you who participated in the events and activities of Special Needs Awareness Month. Special thanks to Henry Bosworth of The Quincy Sun, Maurice Reardon of the Patriot Ledger, and Steven Marx and Chris Sullivan from Quincy Cable-systems, for extensive and sensitive coverage during the month.

To all of you who share our commitment to further the development of school and community resources and support so as to enable all handicapped persons to achieve their highest potential, we express our gratitude. We invite you to join with us in this continuing quest and in the process we shall discover that we have enriched our lives and strengthened our community.

It is fair to say that the best index to the civilization of a community is what is done with its exceptional children.

Honored By MARC James Lynch Receives Distinguished Citizen Award

James J. Lynch, an outstanding special education teacher in the Quincy Public Schools, received the 1983 Distinguished Citizen Award from the Massachusetts Association for Retarded Citizens. His award was presented at a State House awards ceremony in conjunction with Governor Michael Dukakis' declaration of December as Mental Retardation Month in Massachusetts.

According to Jo Proeter, director of public relations for the association, Lynch was recognized because "he has taught children with mental retardation at all levels and for a decade worked effectively with handicapped adults, teaching evening academic and vocational programs."

Lynch began his teaching career in 1964 when, after graduating from Boston College, he was employed as a compensatory education teacher at the Dickerman School in Roxbury where he worked with fifth grade students in reading and mathematics.

In 1965, Lynch transferred to the Silver Lake Regional School district where he taught elementary and junior high moderately retarded students. On the basis of his outstanding performance he was appointed Coordinator of Special Classes, a position he assumed in addition to his teaching responsibilities.

In 1969, Mr. Lynch joined the special education staff of the Quincy Public Schools. For the past 15 years Mr. Lynch has proven himself to be a very gifted and dedicated teacher of mentally retarded children. He has taught retarded children at all levels and for a decade was involved in evening academic and vocational programs for the adult handicapped.

In 1971, Lynch earned a Master of Education degree in Special Education. He has taken additional graduate courses at several colleges and universities.

For the past several years, Lynch has taught junior high aged mentally retarded students in our Special Needs Learning Center IV located at North Quincy High School. He has created a wonderful learning environment for his students and has developed highly individualized and personalized programs for each of his students. One of his strengths is his ability to involve parents in the learning process and activities of their children.

Lynch -- an athlete, coach and sports fan -- has his students in special olympics and a variety of sporting events. These activities are enthusiastically enjoyed by the class, all of whom have shown enormous social growth under Lynch's leadership.

Lynch's involvement with retarded persons extends far beyond the classroom door. He has been a member of the Massachusetts Association for Retarded Citizens and one year coordinated the "Ride-A-Bike Day" in the City of Quincy. He has been a member of the Advisory Board for the Blue Hills Association for Children with Learning Disabilities as well as a frequent participant in our local Parent Advisory Committee.

During Special Needs Awareness Month 1984 the Quincy Public School system is proud to honor James Lynch for his teaching excellence and his longstanding commitment to mentally retarded children and adults.

Compassion to help you accept others, whose way may be different, with gentleness and understanding as you move with them or through them on your way.

Quincy Special Education

Over the years, the Quincy Public School system has had a proud tradition of excellence in its special education programs and services and has been recognized as a leader in implementing state (Chapter 76b) and federal (P.L. 94-142) mandates governing special education.

This year more than 50 special education teachers supported by guidance counselors, psychologists, speech therapists, nurses, and occupational and physical therapists educate and service more than 1400 students. These students, found to be in need of special education, range in age from 3 through 22.

Who Is The Special Education Student?

Special education students in the Quincy Public Schools are very different from each other. Although many may have similar needs, each is an individual and as such, has an individual program plan.

There are, however, three generalizations that can be made about all special needs students in Quincy:

- Each is certified under Massachusetts law as a student "in need of special education services".
- Each has an IEP (Individual Education Plan) written for him/her based upon his/her individual needs.
- Each will receive the precise services, instruction, materials, etc., as prescribed for him/her in the IEP.

What Is A Team Evaluation?

The TEAM evaluation process is the procedure by which special needs students are identified. A written request for a TEAM evaluation mailed to the principal of the child's school by a parent, teacher, court officer, guidance counselor or physician will initiate the process. Each Quincy school has a TEAM Chairperson whose responsibility it is to meet with the parents of a child referred for a TEAM evaluation in order to explain the process and to get parental consent for testing. No TEAM evaluation can proceed without parental consent.

The testing to be done by specialists for the TEAM evaluation must be completed within 30 school days.

A TEAM evaluation may include the following assessments of the child:

- Educational history
- Medical Assessment
- Classroom teacher assessment.

- Educational testing
- Social assessment
- Psychological assessment
- Other testing as necessary

When the individual diagnostic testing has been completed, the TEAM evaluation meeting is scheduled. Parents are encouraged to attend this important meeting. A TEAM evaluation meeting may include the TEAM Chairperson, school principal, classroom teacher, special needs teacher, guidance counselor, school nurse, psychologist, and the child's parents.

At the meeting, the participants:

- Share the results of the testing completed.
- Determine if the child is in need of special education services, and if so.
- Write an IEP (Individual Education Plan) to meet his/her individual needs.

The IEP is sent to the parents and with their written approval, the prescribed program can be implemented.

What Programs Are Available For Students?

The intent of Chapter 766 and the philosophy of the Quincy Public Schools with regard to special education students is "mainstreaming". To the greatest extent possible, each student should have his/her needs met in the regular education program. The following are examples of program options available to special needs students within the Quincy Public Schools:

- Regular classroom program with monitoring.
- Regular classroom program with support services, such as speech, hearing, and language therapy, counseling, and/or special help in a resource room setting.

- Substantially Separate Class program such placement in the Pre-School Special Needs Center, the Special Needs Learning Centers, the Language Development Centers, or the Classes for Emotional Growth and Development.
- Home Program.

The Key Is Communication!

The key to the success of the special education student's program is the communication that exists between the special education personnel providing services, the regular education teachers working with the child, and the parents. A liaison person is assigned on the IEP for each student. That person shares written progress reports with parents and is the first person parents should call if they have questions regarding their child's program. The liaison person is responsible also for communication to all school staff regarding the needs of the special education child.

The entire staff strives to work cooperatively and collaboratively with students and parents to develop and implement an Individual Education Plan that meets his or her unique needs and enables each student to fulfill his or her highest potential.

Focus On Key Areas

Public Library Responsive To Special Needs

In the spirit of public library service to all citizens, libraries have a responsibility to serve adults and children with special needs in the manner most appropriate to those needs.

Library patrons with disabilities share with society in general such universal needs as acceptance, independence, cultural arousal, informational and recreational satisfaction.

Public libraries across the nation have developed various services to meet these universal needs.

The Quincy public library system has steadily moved toward full service to the handicapped in three key areas, materials, facilities, and personnel.

The visually impaired, both adults and children, have a range of library materials available to them. An extensive collection of large print books in the adult department and a modest large print collection in the children's department serve patrons who have retained some vision. The Readers Digest and The New York Times are also part of the large print collection. Materials in Braille include anthologies for children, embossed picture books for sharing between the sighted and the non-sighted, a monthly news journal and a multi-volume dictionary.

Recordings also form a large part of library service to the visually impaired. The music room offers adult phonorecords of music and the spoken word. The children's room houses phonorecords of music, stories, television productions, activities and soundtracks. This department recently began acquiring children's stories on cassette. Talking books are loaned to the library by the Perkins Institute for the Blind. These may be borrowed by adults and children who are blind, visually impaired, physically handicapped, or learning disabled.

Communication's technology has opened new avenues for the hearing impaired. A teletype machine in the lobby of the central library enables hearing impaired persons to communicate with each other or with a hearing person via typewritten conversations on paper.

The children's room has several kinds of special format materials for hearing impaired youngsters. A collection of books in signed English features folk tales, rhymes and informational subjects. Communication kits, packaged in a carrying case, include reading material for parents of deaf children, books in signed English, and toys. A collection of textless and captioned filmstrips for use with or by hearing impaired children ranges in interest level from pre school age into the teens. When filmstrips are requested for individual use, an easily operated rearsview projector may be borrowed as well.

The library's book collection includes high interest/low reading level books for those who have difficulty reading and understanding the written word. These are interspersed with other books in the adult department and may be located by checking the Collections' Catalog in the lobby. An orange dot appears on the back of high interest/low reading level books in the children's department. These, too, are interspersed with other books.

Sensory media, such as toys and puzzles, as well as visual and auditory media, such as filmstrips and recordings, are useful with all children in addition to those with special needs. In 1981 the central children's room received a federally funded demonstration collection of games, toys and recordings for use with children with special needs. Materials in the collection help develop one or more of these skills, reading and language, listening, motor, visual, and number skills. Also included in the collection are several slide tapes which may be borrowed by agencies and organizations concerned with special needs children.

PROJECT 11, also federally funded, provides recreational multi-media materials for children who are confined at home or limited to the home because of a physical, mental, or emotional disability regardless of the length of confinement. Materials, selected for children from pre school through age twelve, include: paperbacks, filmstrips, projectors and screens, cassettes and cassette players, and games.

In addition to this array of specialized materials the library's circulating and reference collections serve the informational needs of the handicapped themselves and of those working with, parenting, or studying about the handicapped.

Access to public buildings is of vital concern to the physically disabled. In March of 1982 a wheelchair ramp was presented to the library. The ramp was constructed by students in the Extended Vocational Alternatives Program at the Vocational Technical School and is installed at the gallery entrance to the library on Washington Street. An elevator which accommodates crutches, walkers and some wheelchairs is at this building level and provides access to areas in the adult department. There is direct access to the children's room from the ramp entry point.

Physically handicapped patrons are urged to notify the library in advance so the entrance may be opened for them. Funding is not currently available to expand access at the central library nor to provide access at the branch libraries. The telephone offers a point of access to all library patrons, and it can facilitate many forms of library service.

A resource as important as its collection of materials is the library staff. Staff members have participated in workshops designed to heighten awareness and to develop skills relative to persons with special needs. They have devoted time at staff meetings to thoughtful discussion of material selection and services for the handicapped. They avail themselves of professional journals and items from the library's collection that will broaden understanding and develop effective service methods. They have benefited from the counsel of those who work with the handicapped, of those in whose family there is a handicapped person, and from the handicapped themselves. Staff members in all departments are trained to locate information and eager to assist all patrons.

By participating in Special Needs Awareness Month the Quincy public library system informs the community of its substantial collection of materials and services for the disabled. But equally important, the library reaffirms its commitment to serving adults and children with special needs.

Special Thanks To Quincy Community TV

One of the goals of Special Needs Awareness Month in Quincy is to increase community awareness of special needs children throughout the City. A strong ally this year was Quincy Community Television which scheduled an unprecedented two hours of programming about special needs each week during the month.

Special Needs Athletic Night was taped entirely by volunteers on March ninth at North Quincy High School. Christine Sullivan, production coordinator for Quincy Community Television, directed the production from the Quincy Cable system's van. Assisting her was George Hallisey, Supervisor of Buildings, at the Thomas Crane Public Library. Jane Granstrom and Deborah Ormon, also public library staff members, manned cameras, as did Donald Keene and Jack Wier, community access users. The night's events were edited into three separate programs - Relay Races, Soccer, and Basketball - each scheduled twice during the month.

Other featured programs included Understanding Handicaps: Families, a series highlighting the family relationships of people with special needs; and the Library Book Nook which presented reviews of children's books about special needs. The popular Your Opinion Please, hosted by Lori Cohen, offered a searching look at group homes.

Striving Toward Independence, a 1983 production, was repeated during the month. It featured community residents with special needs who answered viewers phone questions about their needs for living space, jobs, and education. This production, which was signed to make it accessible to deaf viewers, received an honorable mention in last year's Hometown Video Contest.

Special thanks go to all members of the community television programming department; especially to Steve Marx, program director, Lori Cohen, community liaison, and Christine Sullivan, production coordinator.

KATHY NORCROSS, Lisa Brunke, Billy Savage, Derek Cornell, Robert Lally, Dawn McMurdy, and Susan McGonagle have been working with their teacher Dorothea Craig on compass directions.

Rare Stamps On Block Saturday

An 83-year-old 2-cent stamp depicting a train steaming along upside down is expected to be auctioned off for up to $30,000 Saturday, May 19, at Simmy's Stamp Co., 1165 Hancock St. in the old Dimmock Building.

The auction, which includes many other rare stamps, will serve as a grand opening for Simmy

Jacobs of Quincy, who moved his stamp store to Quincy April 30 after some 30 years in Boston.

There are only about 150 specimens of the upside-down train stamp, which resulted from the printing error in the 2-cent variety in a six stamp series commemorating the Pan American Exposition in 1901.

Also among the 1,300 stamps to be auctioned off are three rare 90-cent Lincoln stamps which are expected to go for $10,000 to $15,000.

The morning session of the auction will get underway at 10:30 a.m. and the afternoon session at 3 p.m. Most of the valuable stamps will go on the block in the morning.

the world of work or go on to higher education. Information about job entry skills and what is available in the job marketplace for the high school graduate will be furnished.

Additional discussion will focus on types of colleges, scholarship aid, and college exploration and selection. Time will be provided for questions.

Notarangelo Hurls His (Quincy's) Third Win

Quincy's baseball team has only three wins this season and southpaw Mike Notarangelo has pitched all three.

Notarangelo, who doubles in center field, last week hurled the Presidents to a 4-2 win over Silver Lake in a non-league game, but Quincy then lost to Brockline last Friday, 7-3, and to undefeated Suburban League leader Brockton, 6-0, Monday to drop its record to 3-8.

The Presidents played Cambridge Rindge and Latin yesterday (Wednesday), will play Quincy Monday night at 7 o'clock at Adams Field and will play at Newton North next Wednesday.

In picking up his third straight victory at Silver Lake, Notarangelo scattered six hits and struck out five.

Freshman shortstop Steve Austin, who has had an excellent season, had a run-scoring single and Bob Pitts had an RBI double in the fourth inning.

Monday the Presidents discovered why Brockton, unbeaten in the league, has the top pitching corps in the league. The Boxers have three outstanding hurlers and Quincy batters were shackled Monday.

TOM HANNON of Quincy, left, one of two graduating seniors, had an excellent season for the Curry College hockey team. Quincy's Mike Donovan, right, a freshman, saw action in goal for the Colonels.

Raiders' Tourney Hopes Jolted By Newton N., 11-2

The North Quincy baseball team's hopes of making the Eastern Mass. tournament were handed a severe jolt Monday when it was walloped by Newton North, 11-2, dropping its record to 6-4.

Charlie Bunker's Raiders met Waltham last night (Wednesday), will play Quincy Monday night at 7 p.m. at Adams Field and will host Brookline next Wednesday at 3:30 at Adams.

In an earlier meeting at Newton, North Quincy had handed Newton a 10-2 setback but Monday everything went wrong as the Raiders' pitching and hitting faltered.

The Raiders were held to three singles by Chris Bunker, Keith Smith and Steve Hogan by Newton's big righthander, Joe Larson.

Meanwhile North's starting pitcher, Jack Outerbridge, and Hogan were hit hard by the visiting Newton team.

Second baseman Paul Cahill took over in the third inning, when Newton scored six runs, and pitched well the rest of the way. He gave up three runs, two of them unearned.

"Paul had never pitched in a high school game before and he did an excellent job," Bunker said.

Last week the Raiders rebounded from their frustrating loss to Brockton with a 6-4 victory over Cambridge Rindge and Latin in a mild upset.

Brian Gibbons hit a two-run double to spark a three-run rally in the fifth inning to give North the victory.

Jack Bolster returned to the lineup after missing several games with an injury and had three hits and two RBIs, while Gibbons also had a single.

Southpaw Steve Higgins picked up his third win with 6½ strong innings of relief.

Quincy Girls N.E. Junior Volleyball Champs

The Quincy girls' 15-and-younger volleyball team, coached by Jim Rendle, last week won the New England Junior National Volleyball Association state championship.

Led by Capt. Marlo LeVangie and Ginny Duggan, Quincy capped its comeback with two final round victories over season-rival Merrimack Valley, 15-12, 15-11.

After six unanswered points on the serving of Lauren Standing, the center blocking of Pam Austin and the defensive play of Terry Duggan, Ginny's twin sister; Susan Parry and Patti Lee, insured the victory.

Chris Zupkofska was out of the line up because of illness.

Jaffarian Hurls 2-Hitter

Quincy's Bob Jaffarian, who earlier had pitched a four-hitter against Austin Prep, last week tossed a two-hitter to pace Xaverian Brothers High School to a 6-4 upset win over first-place Abp. Williams in a Catholic Conference game.

In an earlier meeting Xaverian, which has only three wins, was hammered by Williams, 19-2.

Duggan Captains Harvard Rugby Champions

The Harvard Rugby Club, bolstered by Fran Duggan, 1980 Quincy High football captain, captured the national rugby championship in the California finals.

Harvard, Ivy League champion, won the eastern title Easter weekend to represent, this section of the country in the nationals. Harvard topped Long Beach State, western champion and the tournament favorite, and came back to trounce Colorado State, Mountain States titlist.

Duggan played freshman football at Harvard but switched to rugby when his classes conflicted with football practice.

QJC Wins 2 Out Of 3

By PETE ZOIA

The Quincy Junior College baseball team continued to play better than had been expected at the start of the season and two wins in three games over the past week improved the Jaguars' record to 5-2.

QJC wallowed Blue Hills Technical, 14-3, and topped New Prep, 6-4, while losing to powerful North Shore Community College, 11-1.

Dave Burke, the only coach QJC has had in 16 years, expressed himself as extremely pleased with the team's performances.

He gave Hull's Bob Ciulla a chance to pitch against Blue Hills and he came up with a two-hitter. He pitched six innings before Burke relieved with veteran Joe Smith for the final inning.

QJC started fast with three runs in the first inning, six in the second and two in the third. The big hitters were Steve Ondrick with a triple and single, Ciulla with a triple and Danny Dunn, Bob McCabe and Tony Chiochio with two hits each.

Against New Prep Dunn pitched a five-hitter, getting out of several jams. He was afforded great support as Tom O'Connell, a handyman who plays center field, shortstop and second base, contributed an outstanding catch in the last inning to halt a New Prep rally.

The Jaguars came up with two double plays and O'Connell nailed a runner at the plate with a perfect throw. O'Connell and Dunn each had two hits and Dunn had another long triple, while McCabe doubled and Brian Miller singled.

QJC faced a much more experienced team in North Shore and three pitchers were unable to hold the winners. Dunn, Smith and McCabe pitched with little success.

Ondrick, McCabe and Dunn each collected two hits.

The Jaguars have been the victims of bad weather with three games having been postponed.

"With college finals now in progress, it may be impossible to get these games in," said Burke.

Raiderettes Close In On Girls Track Title

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy girls' track team virtually clinched the Suburban League championship last week when it defeated Newton North, 62-56, at Newton to improve its record to 5-0.

The Raiderettes had only winless Quincy yesterday (Wednesday) to finish an unbeaten season to follow an unbeaten cross country season last fall and an undefeated winter track season. Friday they will compete in the league meet at MIT.

Eileen Crehan, who has had a brilliant season, was the driving force behind the Raiderettes' win as she won the shot put with a personal best throw of 39-3 and the javelin at 124-1, and also took an important second in the 440.

The highlight of the meet was Leann Fitzgerald's come-from-behind victory over Newton's talented Tara Feeney in the 880. Her time of 2:26.1 was the fastest in the league this season.

"She is only a freshman with no experience but every race she gets better and runs smarter," said coach Jeff Hennessy. "There's no telling what she'll accomplish, her limits are boundless."

North's other winners were Mary Ann Kelleher in the two-mile, Diane Lindenfelzer, mile; Teresa Collings, 440; Laura Ciulla, 220, and Lori Magrath, hurdles.

Second places were taken by Ciulla, 100; Tricia Barrett, two-mile; Georgia Traficante, javelin, and Missy Silkwood, discus.

Placing third were Ann Toland, two-mile; Tracey Corrigan, mile; Julie Walsh, 880; Jennifer Rafferty, hurdles; Traficante, long jump; Collings, high jump, and Julie Killian, javelin.

Last Saturday the Raiderettes made a fine showing in the state coaches' meet at Boston College's Alumni Stadium.

The javelin throwers once again proved they are the best in Eastern Mass. when Crehan won at 141-3 and Traficante placed second at 128-5.

The two-mile, another strong event for North, was won by Kelleher in a school record 11:04, and Barrett placed fourth with her best ever time of 11:16.4.

"Kelleher is only a sophomore, so she's got room for much improvement," Hennessy said. "She got great competition from Notre Dame's Terry Rogers, but Kelleher's speed, I felt, would be the factor at the end and it was. As for Barrett, this was her first race in the pressure cooker, so her nerves took over and she went out too fast. But she learns quickly so next time she should run super."

Quincy's Maureen Roche continued to dominate the shot putting as she won with a toss of 38-1/4 for Abp. Williams, establishing a 4-kilo record.

Somersault Boys Gym Team Wins N.E. Title

The boys' teams from the Somersault Gymnastics Center in North Quincy won the New England championship at Woburn and qualified several gymnasts for the Regional championships.

In Class I only Carlton Noble and Ken Haller competed. Carl won every event and totaled 105.6 and Kenny, coming back from a high school injury, did an excellent job as he qualified for the regionals.

In Class II Gerry Haran won the all-around title but he had to struggle as he points for the nationals in New Mexico. Steve Winger had the best meet of his career, winning the vaulting and placing sixth all-around. John Redmon was 11th all-around and Roberto Weil won in the 16-18 age group, totalling 99.75.

In Class III Nat Goodale placed fifth on rings and high bar, placing eighth all-around. Joe Haran placed fifth on horse and Rob Feeley placed fourth on pommel placed fourth on pommel horse and rings and won the vaulting in his age group.

The center is starting a new session this week and the summer camp is starting to fill up. There also will be another in-house meet in June. Further information can be had by calling the center at 328-9405. There are classes for those from age 3 through high school.

Quincy Girls Lose 3 In Softball

The Quincy girls' softball team, which had won six of its first nine games, faltered during the past week and lost three in a row, dropping its record to 6-6.

The First Ladies played at Cambridge Rindge and Latin yesterday (Wednesday), will play at Notre Dame, Hingham, Friday in a non-league game and Monday will play North Quincy at 3:30 at Artery Field.

Monday Quincy was held

Feeney Wins On K.O.

Quincy's Joe Feeney, in only his second pro-boxing bout, scored a two-round knockout over Bobby Brown of Pawtucket last Saturday at Freeport Hall in Dorchester.

Feeney, a junior middle-weight and former Golden Gloves champion, had two hits at Brockton but was handed 14 bases on balls as it dropped a 12-10 decision. Quincy never led but, thanks to the walks, stayed in contention.

Chris Cucinatta hit a triple with the bases loaded after three walks and scored herself on an overthrow.

Last week the Quincy girls dropped two decisions.

Friday the First Ladies lost a 5-0 lead as they bowed to Brookline, 8-5.

Quincy held its 5-0 lead until the sixth inning when Brookline exploded for its eight runs.

Kathy Thornton was breezing along with a three-hit shutout before Brookline's big inning. She also had two hits while Andrea Griffin had an RBI and two hits. Beth Veneto, one of the league's top hitters, also drove in a run.

Earlier in the week Quincy pitchers gave up nine walks and the First Ladies left 12 runners on base as they dropped a 5-4 non-league decision to East Boston.

Debbie Herron went 2-for-3 and drove in a pair of runs.

North Girls Win 2, Bow

After winning two games last week on outstanding pitching by freshman Ann Anderlonis, the North Quincy girls' softball team lost to Newton North Monday, 9-5, dropping its record to 4-5.

The Raiderettes played Waltham yesterday (Wednesday), will host Quincy Monday at 3:30 at Artery Field and will be at Brookline next Wednesday.

Two big innings sealed the fate for North Quincy Monday as Newton North scored four runs in the first and five in the fourth.

Young Anderlonis, pitching her third game in a row, was wild and six batters who walked eventually scored. Lisa Ventola relieved and pitched one-hit ball over the last 2 1/3 innings.

The Raiderettes out-hit Newton with nine hits with Anderlonis, Ann Sousa, Sheila Graham and Mary Holleran having two apiece. North scored once in the first, once in the fourth, twice in the fifth and once in the seventh.

Last Friday Anderlonis pitched her second standout game of the week as North topped Hingham, 4-1, in a non-league game.

North collected 10 hits and was helped by Hingham errors. Holleran, Valerie Papapetros and Ann Duggan had two hits each. Anderlonis, the team's top hitter, was held hitless for the first time.

Noreen Connelly played an excellent defensive game for North at shortstop.

Earlier in the week Anderlonis pitched a one-hitter as North rolled over Cambridge Kindege and Latin, 8-0.

North took a one-run lead in the first and added two in the second, third and fourth innings. It finished with a run in the sixth. Duggan and Cheryl Murphy hit well.

Anderlonis put down every batter until the seventh, the only three Cambridge runners having walked. The first batter in the seventh spoiled Ann's hopes of a no-hitter, singling through the infield. She was quickly erased when catcher Murphy's strong throw picked her off first base.

Ann struck out nine and also collected a long triple and two singles.

Bryan Post Opens With 2 Victories

Bryan Post VFW opened its Babe Ruth League season with two impressive victories over the weekend.

In its opener Bryan Post romped over Morrisette Post, 17-3, as Chris Cody pitched a two-hitter and struck out 13.

Neil Hatfield tripled and Brian Canavan singled in the first inning for Morrisette, the only hits off Cody.

For Bryan Post Jamie McArdle had a triple and single. Steve Austin a double and single. Mark Molloy two singles. Joe Innello a double and Ron Fletcher, Bill Mulkern, Jay Rodriguez, Chris Standing and Gary Silverman a single each.

Defensive gems were turned in by Bryan catcher Mulkern and Morrisette's left fielder, Chad Hallett, who robbed Innello of an extra base hit.

Bryan Post followed with a 9-4 victory over Granite City Electric. Fletcher pitched a five-hitter and struck out five. He pitched shutout ball for six innings, then withstood a last-ditch rally by Granite City.

The key hit for Bryan Post was Michael Malone's bases-loaded double. Malone also made four fine plays in left field. Kevin Burns had a double and Innello, Austin, Fletcher, Cody and Rob Cinquegrano a single each.

For Granite City Michael Mullaney had two singles and Tom Tegen, Kevin Howlett and Dan Biagini each had a single. Howlett hit the ball hard each time but Malone defended him perfectly twice.

Innello caught a strong game for Bryan Post.

Paul Murphy made some outstanding plays at second base and singled in two runs in the fourth.

The Dodgers outslugged the Braves, 15-14, with Danny Duncan the winning pitcher. Duncan aided his own cause with a double. Christine Barrett had a home run, Mark Walsh had two hits and scored three runs, Mark Cahill, David Skutul, Paul King, Patrick Donahoe and Mark McGillicuddy, who drove in the winning run in the bottom of the sixth, all had hits. Playing well for the Braves were pitcher Chris Dupill, who had two hits, Matthew Sullivan with three, Todd Melver with two hits and Kevin Coyle with a double.

The Red Sox scored three runs in the last inning to edge the Tigers, 4-3, with Anthony Bianco and Mike Sweeney pitching for the Red Sox and Mike Patch and Chris Bentley for the Tigers. Bianco struck out the last two batters he faced with the bases loaded. The two Tiger pitchers combined for 17 strikeouts.

WEEK OF: MAY 17

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19
Self-indulgent streak surfaces toward weekend; think thrice before cheating on diet or blowing the budget. Romance partner is more generous with time and more lighthearted in approach.

PISCES - February 20-March 20
Legal matters are spotlighted; be sure you read between each line. Recent financial setback shows small signs of reversal. Romantic picture brightens thanks to partner's optimism.

ARIES - March 21-April 20
Reunions find you in the limelight. Partner becomes more supportive; listen to his/her wise words. Professional stalemate eases. Friend becomes a little more flexible by Tuesday.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22
Being practical and realistic helps you resolve a long-lasting feud. Hobbies are emphasized; more for fun than for profit. Small rewards come your way at the workplace.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21
New interests dominate the week, while an old friend returns to the scene. You're surprisingly effective as a peace-maker. Decision-making, however, requires some practice.

CANCER - June 22-July 22
Week accents fun and profit. Some detours slow you down if traveling on the weekend. Romance benefits from spontaneity. Negotiations may extend longer than expected.

LEO - July 23-August 22
Seek top advice before investing time, energy or - especially - finances in any scheme. Watch tendency to be too severe on yourself. Pursue more lighthearted interests.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22
Popularity soars through the week. Enjoy the limelight, but pay attention to some of the changing trends that are taking place in domestic and professional spheres.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22
Shift in family responsibilities is taking place and you may be tapped for a new obligation. Your even nature attracts attention of people in important places.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21
Financial or other favor is returned and money matters brighten generally. If purchasing any major item, be sure guarantees are binding. Romance remains on an even keel.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22
Taking the lead in domestic, career, and romance arenas brings favorable results. The key is to know when, ultimately, to step into the background. Travel planning requires refinement.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20
Messages can get tangled up from Friday to Tuesday and mail may be subject to delay. No snarls in friendship matters, however, with reconciliations in the spotlight.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
Give greater attention to detail - no easy task for you - and enjoy positive career developments by late summer - early fall. Your warmth and generosity have always been important traits. This year they're appreciated by another warm and generous individual.

HOLLYWOOD - America's first, and often most forgotten citizens are finally going to be featured in a major network mini-series.

Premiering Sunday, May 20, and concluding the following evening, ABC Television will present a five-hour novel offering an excellent insight to the customs, traditions, and beliefs of the American Indian.

"The Mystic Warrior," an awesome saga of a young man destined to become the spiritual leader of his people, as told from the viewpoint of a proud band of Sioux Tribe Indians, is a marvelous look at a chapter of American history that has for too long a time been ignored by television.

Over the years, television has presented us with many in-depth, educational, and very entertaining hours of cultural enlightenment. We've seen countless depictions of the plight of war ravaged Jews, numerous stories based on the rise and fall of empires from Russia to Rome, and outstanding revelations realized from video studies of the history of America's Blacks and Whites.

Other than the Lone Ranger's faithful companion, Tonto, and a stoic Chief shedding a single tear at the sight of a littered roadway, the American Indian's television image leaves much to be desired. ABC's novel for television, "The Mystic Warrior" is a definite step in the right direction. It's a must for your viewing pleasure, but more importantly, it's a must in your education of American history.

Right along with "The Red Badge of Courage," "Roots—Part I and II," and "Centennial," "The Mystic Warrior" should find its place on the shelves of every classroom in America. This is video education at its best, and most entertaining.

A standout in "The Mystic Warrior's" cast of relative unknowns is an attractive lady by the name of Devon Ericson. This very refreshing new face plays the part of Heyatawin, the woman who inspires the epic's title character played by Robert Beltran. Their shared love plays a key role in his dedication to save the tribe from annihilation.

On the video front, he on the alert for an excellent "how-to" program called, "Casino Gambling," hosted by David Brenner.

The sixty-minute offering, taped at the Sands Hotel and Casino in Atlantic City, offers a chance to heighten one's skill level and enjoyment of Blackjack, Roulette, Craps and Baccarat. Add Brenner's wit and personal style and this valuable learning experience becomes an enjoyable hour of fun.

A state-of-the-art demonstration of high-tech video production can be found on a Sony "Video 45" featuring ex-Monkee, Michael Nesmith in "Rio & Cruisin'." The very creative Nesmith offers two clips from his Grammy-award winning video album, "Elephant Parts" which combines unique and very entertaining lyrics with outstanding visuals. Michael Nesmith has truly mastered the concept of musical video production and entertainment.

Johnston Tops Cheney By 8 Votes In Ward 1

own precinct and Precinct 3, a tiny section of Quincy Center.

He ran strongly behind Johnston in Precinct 2 (Germantown) but was crushed in the heavy voting in the Houghs Neck precincts and in Precinct 4 (Adams Shore).

In Houghs Neck more than 50 per cent of the vote turned out in Precinct 5 and 45 per cent in Precinct 6.

By contrast, only 30 per cent voted in Precinct 1 (Merrymount) and only 17 per cent bothered to go out on the cold, damp day in Precinct 3, part of Quincy Center.

Davis, 33, a telephone company executive who lives at 226 Rock Island Rd., and Gregoire, 48, of 58 Lenox St., daughter of former Councillor David J. Crowley and former city Treasurer Roberta Crowley, both ran poorly in all precincts.

Cheney piled up 324 votes in his home Precinct 5 to 204 for Johnston, while Johnston eked out a 226 to 201 margin over Cheney in his home Precinct 6.

Johnston ran strongly in the non-Houghs Neck precincts, although Cheney scored an unexpected high 215 votes to 175 for Johnston in Adams Shore.

The first precinct to report was Precinct 3, the northern section of Quincy Center where Reisberg prevailed by a 68-53 count over Johnston. It came in at 8:40, only 40 minutes after the polls closed.

The second precinct in was Reisberg's Merrymount, which gave their home favorite a sizable 192-123 lead over Johnston. Then came the first big torrent of votes from Houghs Neck and it was a two-man race between Johnston and Cheney from there in.

The special election very nearly was not held since, when Kelly resigned his seat in January, it was discovered that the city's Plan A charter required that his successor be elected by the eight other members of the Council.

The Quincy legislative delegation had to rush through a special act of the state legislature to change the charter and make the election possible.

Lack Of Protection Cited Special Meeting On Police, Fire Budget Deadlock

By TOM HENSHAW

It appears that Mayor Francis X. McCauley and the City Council have reached a deadlock over the police and fire budgets for fiscal 1985.

McCauley feels that $13,955,292 is enough to fund both departments to an adequate level of public safety.

All eight councillors plus Chiefs Francis X. Finn and Edward Barry think not and that, in the words of Chief Finn:

"I do not believe that the people of Quincy are getting the kind of protection they are entitled to."

The matter is serious enough so that Council President James A. Sheets has called a special meeting of the Council tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. in an effort to settle it before the June 1 deadline.

The Council, in an unprecedented move, removed the fire and police budgets from the $75,866,757 municipal budget for fiscal 1985 Monday night and returned them to the mayor for further consideration.

McCauley said he won't do it.

"I have no further plans to increase any budget that has been sent to the City Council," he said. "The budget is fairly funded to provide an adequate level of services to the citizens of Quincy."

Said Council President Sheets:

"The city councillors all believe that the budget does not include adequate personal services money to put the number of police and firefighters on the street that this city deserves."

Compounding the problem is the fact that, if the Council does not act on the budget within 45 days after it was presented, or by June 1, it becomes effective with or without Council approval.

Even that state law was questioned Monday night as the councillors peppered City Solicitor Dean Nicastro with legal queries to be researched.

Now that the fire and police budgets have been sent back to the mayor, asked Sheets, does the 45-day limit begin anew or is the Council still bound by the June 1 deadline?

What happens, asked Councillor John J. Lydon Jr., if the mayor cannot get a majority of the Council to pass certain sections of budget?

And, asked Councillor Joanne Condon, what happens if the Council votes down the whole budget?

Nicastro responded to get back with opinions on those questions post haste.

In brief, Chief Barry would like to see a minimum manned Fire Department consisting of five deputies, 15 captains, 46 lieutenants and 185 fire fighters.

McCauley's budget for fiscal 1985 provides for five deputies, 12 captains, 40 lieutenants and 184 fire fighters.

Chief Finn says he feels that five captains, 16 lieutenants, 26 sergeants and 188 patrolmen would adequately serve the safety of Quincy.

Council To Tackle GD Tax Deficit Thursday

The nagging problem of a $2.5 million deficit to settle the last details of the General Dynamics tax case will be taken up by the City Council at a special meeting tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m.

The $2.5 million represents real estate taxes legally withheld by General Dynamics when the company protested a hefty boost in assessments starting in 1977.

When the shipbuilding firm won its court case for a reduced assessment, the city was left with a $2.5 million expected tax receipt on the books that it would never receive.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley has recommended that the deficit be written off at $250,000 a year for 10 years.

The City Council, particularly Council President James A. Sheets, however, don't think very much of that idea.

"It means," said Sheets,

"that the city will have to offset the budget by $250,000 for 10 years."

"The Council is more interested in a plan that would allow Quincy not to list the $2.5 million as an overlay deficit and not to have it count against the budget."

The Council has before it five orders, all home rule petitions to the legislature, including McCauley's proposal, for handling the deficit.

$213,000 Taxes In City Till

Property tax bills for the last half of fiscal 1984 went in the mail Saturday and Mayor Francis X. McCauley reported that $213,435.14 was collected on Monday, the first payment day.

Taxpayers have until June 18, or 30 days after the mailing, in which to pay up. "I would urge taxpayers to pay as soon as possible," said McCauley. "The bills went out late and the sooner we get the money the less borrowing we will have to do."

11 Cars, 2 Cycles Found In Quarry

The water level in Swingle's Quarry was down about 165 feet Tuesday as the J. F. White Contracting Co. of Newton continued draining in search of the body of Paul Gooch, 17, of Brocton.

Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson said the body has not yet been sighted but the lowering water level has uncovered the remains of 11 automobiles and two motorcycles.

The FBI has left word to be notified of any cars that are discovered in the quarry but, said Anderson, no federal officer has yet shown up at the quarry to view them.

Second Auto-Cycle Victim Dies

Rita E. MacDonald, 67, of 98 Willow St., Wollaston, died Tuesday at City Hospital, the second victim of an automobile-motorcycle crash Saturday night.

Also killed in the accident was William E. Gifford, 19, of Weymouth, identified as the driver of the motorcycle that struck MacDonald's car at high speed.

Peter A. Sweeney, 23, of 98 Essex St., Quantum, a passenger on the motorcycle, was in fair condition in the intensive care unit at City Hospital. His name was on the danger list.

Police said witnesses told them the motorcycle was traveling at a speed estimated at 80 miles an hour on Newport Ave. when it struck the car as it entered the Willow St. intersection.

Police said the force of the impact moved the automobile more than 14 feet.

Bank Break

A calculator apparently was the only item taken Sunday in a break at the Quincy Savings Bank branch office at 371 Hancock St., North Quincy.

A window at the bank was discovered to be open early Sunday morning and an extension cord hanging out. Police said a desk near the window was broken into.

MDC Plans Boost In Beach Police Patrols

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey has succeeded in arriending the state budget to include an appropriation of $20,000 for increased summertime police patrols on Quincy Shore Drive and Wollaston Beach.

The MDC announced that the additional patrols will begin before the end of May. "The increased police protection will include additional foot patrolmen and motorcycle patrol to alleviate both the public drinking and speeding problems in the Wollaston Beach area," said Morrissey.

"Also the traffic lights on Quincy Shore Drive will be activated with a timing device to reduce the possibility of automobile accidents and increase pedestrian safety."

Morrissey said the funds will be available to provide additional police protection until next year.

"In the past," said Morrissey, "these increased patrols have been very effective in deterring public drinking, speeding and the need to arrest."

"Another positive result has been a decline in broken glass and other forms of litter in and around the beach area."

"My goal is to insure the safety of all who use the Wollaston Beach recreational facilities and commuters who travel Quincy Shore Drive."

Hancock Parking Lot Being Paved

Resurfacing of the John Hancock Parking Area began Monday under a $58,000 contract with Derbes Contracting Co.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said the job of applying a base coat and finishing coat of asphalt and stripping the surface should be finished by the end of the week. "It's a project that is long overdue," said McCauley. "We want to do a first class job."

The lot is being surfaced in sections, starting with the areas closest to the Hancock St. stores and finishing up with the parts closest to Dennis Ryan Parkway.

Second Marina Access Road Two Years Away

By TOM HENSHAW

City councillors were told Monday night that even if they approve a zoning land swap at Marina Bay in Squantum it will still take two years to get approval for a second access road to the project.

"The Conservation Commission, the Department of Environmental Quality Engineering, Army Corps of Engineers, even the Coast Guard has to review it," said Walter Hannon of Marina Bay.

The Council's Ordinance Committee met Monday night to learn more about a proposal to trade 51,600 square feet of open space for 52,000 square feet of planned unit development (PUD) land.

The trade would permit Marina Bay to build a second access road, a requirement under its PUD agreement, to its 101-unit condominium housing development. The road is prohibited through open space.

Councillor Joanne Condon, who filed the land swap order, told the Committee that she brought it in "as the last hope to do something about the Boston Harbor Marina site."

"I brought this as a way to avoid having roadways in open space and to give access to the site," she said. "I feel somewhat responsible because I brought in the original zoning proposal."

"The land being given back to the community as open space is logically open space. This would solve the problem."

The Ordinance Committee meeting was strictly informational. The Council and the Planning Board will hold a public hearing on the land swap Wednesday, May 30, at 7:30 p.m. at City Hall.

Board Grants License For Take-Out Restaurant

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Wollaston will soon have a new take-out only Chinese restaurant.

The License Board voted Tuesday to grant a common-victualer-take out only license for Mascot Chef, 666 Hancock St.

The board had originally granted such a license Sept. 28, 1982 but the license expired before it was used.

Atty. Neil Kerstein, who represented owners David Hui and his wife Mee Yuet Lee, said his clients had problems with renovations after the license was first issued.

Kerstein said Hui was a restaurateur in Hong Kong, and also operates a construction company.

Hui said the restaurant would offer Cantonese food and hours would be 11 a.m. to midnight, Sunday to Thursday, and 11 a.m. to 1 a.m. Friday and Saturday.

Kerstein said the restaurant will open in about a week.

As a stipulation of the license, the restaurant must be in operation within 60 days.

Xway Lanes Open Holiday Weekend

Express lanes on the Southeast Expressway will be open southbound Saturday and Sunday, the first two days of the holiday weekend, and northbound Monday, when everyone is going home.

DPW Commissioner

Robert T. Tierney said the lanes will open for south bound traffic tomorrow (Friday) at 1 p.m., switching to northbound on Monday.

Normal express lane operation will resume Tuesday.

Conservation Commission Meets On Wetland Changes

The Conservation Commission was scheduled to hold public hearings yesterday (Wednesday) at 7:30 p.m. at 100 Southern Artery on several proposals that would change the character of wetlands.

The MDC is seeking to reconstruct the Kilby St. culvert in Adams Shore, including construction of a new headwall, repair of the brick lining and placing slope protection at Kilby and Rhoda Sts.

Marshbury, Inc., of Norwell proposes to remove surface rock, grading and construction of impervious pavement and installation of a closed drainage system at 75 Scotch Pond Place, Quincy Center.

John D. and Barbara J. Foster have filed to install a 12-foot by 30-foot indoor swimming pool to the rear of their home at 21 Hudson St., Quincy Center.

John T. and Shirley R. Erlandson have filed to fill and rip-rap along the northeast and southeast property lines to correct erosion at their home, 60 Essex St., Squantum.

Readers Forum A 'Thank You' For Dick Wilson Memorial Game Success

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
I would like to thank all those involved in making the Dick Wilson Memorial
All-Star Game played on March 31, such a success.
The proceeds will go to a scholarship fund in Dick's memory.

The entire evening was a wonderful effort and a beautiful tribute to Dick, a kind, decent human being who died suddenly in December 1983 - taken from us much too soon, but never forgotten and forever in our hearts.

I especially want to thank those who participated in the game itself - the Quincy Executive League (over 30), the Quincy Senior League

(under 30), the Quincy Youth Arena for their support and ice time, to all those behind the scene who worked so hard, to everyone who purchased tickets, attended the game, or made a donation of any kind, and to Quincy Cable for televising the game.

Also, a very special thank you to the following for putting the whole evening together - Ed O'Riordan, Paul Hussey, Teddy Miller and, last but not least, Bibby Lewis for his great ability for organization and follow through.

Forever grateful -

Germantown Ward 1 Race Key?

The fact that Robert Johnston and Michael Cheney won the nominations for the Ward 1 city council seat didn't surprise too many people.

But, the fact that Cheney came within a scant eight votes of Johnston did.

Johnston was seen by most observers as the frontrunner - the man to beat - and Cheney as the one most likely to nail down the second nomination.

Cheney's finish should be of concern to Johnston as the pair step up their campaigning for the June 12 showdown.

CHENEY

Put them together and Cheney outpolled Johnston 525 to 430 in the two Houghs Neck precincts.

Cheney also took Adams Shore (Precinct 4) 215 to 175.

Reisberg carried his home Precinct 1 (Merrymount) with 192 votes. Johnston was second (123) and Cheney third (58).

Reisberg also won Precinct 3 (a part of Quincy Center) with 68 votes. Johnston was second (53) and Cheney third (37).

Johnston won Precinct 2 (Germantown) with 121 votes. Reisberg was second (110) and Cheney third (58).
If the Houghs Neck vote in the final election follows the same pattern as the preliminary, the winner could be decided in the other sections of the ward.

Merrymount and Germantown could be big keys.
But Johnston and Cheney will have to whip up voter interest in these precincts who have no candidate of their own in the race.

The Houghs Neck vote will turn out - and heavy that's for sure. But will voters in Quincy Center, Merrymount and Germantown bother to go to the polls to elect a Houghs Neck candidate?

Some observers think Cheney now has momentum going for him and because as a MBTA diesel engineer he appeals to the working class. Ward 1 for the most part is a working class ward.

Johnston, as headmaster of the Woodward School, is a professional. But, that could give him the edge in Precincts 1 and 3 where there are quite a few professionals and executives.

Germantown could turn out to be the "swing" precinct. It's a precinct that would seem more apt to be a Cheney area because of the latter's working class identity.

But the special election didn't go that way. Johnston carried Germantown and Reisberg, a businessman, was second. Cheney was third.

The candidate who can bring out the most voters in Quincy Center, Germantown and Merrymount - while not neglecting Houghs Neck and Adams Shore - will win it.

CHENEY, incidentally, has a 21-year Ward 1

"tradition" on his side. In that time, the candidate who finished second in the preliminary with a vacant seat at stake, has gone on to win the final.

In 1963 Leo Hannon, Jr. topped Francis McCauley 1,110 to 1,106 votes - another close one - in the Ward 1 council preliminary election.
McCauley came back to win the final, 3,365 to 3,319 to begin a political career that would take him to the mayor's office.

McCAULEY

McCAULEY

McCauley succeeded Charles Shea, who gave up the Ward 1 seat that year in an unsuccessful mayoral bid against Amelio Della Chiesa.

In 1967, Hannon topped Edward Graham 1,413 to 1,069 in the preliminary. But Graham came back in the final to win 3,113 to 2,829.

McCauley had vacated the seat to run (unsuccessfully) for councillor-at-large.

And, in 1973 Paul Harold topped Leo Kelly 1491 to 1,325 in the preliminary. Kelly won the final,
2,425 to 2,377 for the seat vacated by Graham.

Shea was the first Ward 1 councillor elected after Quincy abandoned Plan E and returned to Plan A. He won both the preliminary and final elections in 1959 by wide margins over Henry Kilduff.

David Crowley - whose daughter Mary Gregoire finished last in this year's special preliminary election was the last Ward 1 councillor before Plan E came in, in 1949.

CROWLEY

KEVIN DAVIS, who finished fourth in last week's special preliminary, apparently is throwing his support to Johnston. Davis reportedly has a Johnston bumper sticker on his car.

A MEMORIAL MASS for former Mayor-Senator
James McIntyre will be celebrated
Friday, his birthday at St.
John's Church, Quincy Center, at would have been 54.

council seat. Final election

Special Council Session On Police, Fire Budgets

makes provisions for five captains, 12 lieutenants, 23 sergeants and 160 patrolmen.

"If I were to add what the fire chief and the police chief suggested in their budget requests," said McCauley, "it would cost the taxpayers $1,289,000. We don't have that available."

"I am proud of my commitments to the Fire and Police Departments. I have tried to provide what I can to them. But I still have to be realistic in the budget."

McCauley said that if the Council does not pass his budget "it becomes law after 45 days. If they vote against the budget, then I would assume that there is no budget."

Two letters, one from Chief Finn and the other from a group of Boston fire fighters who live in Squantum, were read to the Council Monday night in support of the two chiefs' position.

Finn's letter said, in part: "I firmly believe the Police Department and the citizens of Quincy are being severely shortchanged with respect to public safety."

"Adequate and proper supervision in all facets of police endeavor is paramount, not only to the public safety of our citizens...but also to the protection of their civil rights."

"A person can be psychologically and economically harmed by an unintentional trampling for their civil rights during the enforcement of the laws and ordinances."

"The courts demand that any peace officer operating under the color of the law has a prime responsibility to be fully trained and sensitive to the individual's civil rights."

"Ranking and superior officers' primary functions are to lead and formulate the investigation, arrests and then charging people with criminal offenses. The police officer desires this leadership."

"Therefore, it behooves in the best interest of police enforcement personnel and the citizens of Quincy to take the necessary precautions to do the job as professionally as it can possibly be done."

"In addition to this, I feel that we should have a full complement of patrolmen so that all the citizens of Quincy will receive an optimal amount of protection and service from (police)."

The Boston firefighters requested that Engine 7 in Squantum be manned by one officer and three men at all times; that the equipment be replaced with "newer more reliable pumper;" and that the engine carry a 35-foot extension ladder.

"The reasoning behind these requests," said their letter, "are what are considered to be reasonable and prudent practices according to the National Fire Protection Association handbook."

The handbook recommends "that no company should be run with less than one officer and three firefighters."

"On the replacement of the pumper, Engine 7 is a 1960 pumping engine," said the letter. "The NFPA states that 10-15 years are the normal life expectancy of a pumper and under no circumstances should any reliance be placed on a piece of equipment over 25 years old."

The NFPA recommends that when there are buildings over two stories and no ladder truck in the station, a 35-foot extension ladder should be carried to effect rescue.

"We would feel a bit more relieved while working all night knowing that at least the accepted minimum of fire protection was being provided."

Sirens Fail, Spoil Civil Defense Test

A test of Civil Defense units in Quincy came close to utter disaster when four of the six sirens that were to start the alert failed to go off at 12:09 p.m. and no one sent the sealed envelopes outlining the problems the city would face.

Civil Defense Director James D. Asher said the sirens apparently had been designed for southern weather and the New England climate, with its salt air, had so corroded the contact wires that they failed to trip the circuits.

Sirens at the Central and Atlantic Fire Stations worked all right but those at the West Quincy, Squantum and Houghs Neck Fire Stations and on the Forbes Hill Tower failed and had to be tripped manually by Civil Defense workers.

The sealed envelopes, which were to be opened to reveal problems at 12:31 p.m., 2:11 p.m. and 4:11 p.m., were to have been mailed from sector headquarters in Stoughton but had been handed to city directors at a meeting instead.

There were those who said it didn't really matter, however, since, according to the script for the test, Quincy was virtually wiped out by a five-megaton hydrogen bomb dropped on Boston.

ABOLISH PINBALLS

Pinball machines should be banned from Quincy, said Police Chief William Ferrazzi, as he balked at the immediate granting of a license to the Lakin Square Esso Station, 681 Adams St., whose request was brought to the License Board by the distributor, not the owner.

Pinball machines, said Chief Ferrazzi, "are giving Boston a headache and they should not be allowed in Quincy. The operator must be made to realize his responsibility to the kids playing the machines and keep an eye on the sports who make bets on the games."

City Seeks Broad Meadows Land

The city of Quincy has begun the final process of reclaiming 108.17 acres of open space land in Broad Meadows from the state.

Once reclaimed, the land, which consists mostly of marsh, will be turned over to the Conservation Commission as a study area and a passive recreation site.

The land was given to the state a few years ago by the city as the site of a proposed South Shore Community College, which never came to fruition.

Last year, the state proposed using the parcel for a mental health facility but the proposal roused so much controversy among nearby residents that it was rezoned for open space.

Said Mayor Francis X. McCauley in a letter to Tunney F. Lee, deputy commissioner of administration and finance:

"The preservation of this area as both a study and recreation area will not only benefit the residents of the city but also countless other interested people who will be able to enjoy the scenic and aesthetic value of the site."

"The Conservation Commission will identify the various plant species and will encourage school, civic and other educational groups to use the area, thus increasing the public awareness of the marsh as a natural system."

McCauley said he sees no problems in getting the land back from the state.

Champagne: perfect for weddings and gift-giving

Champagne, the world's most glorious wine, is the traditional beverage for weddings, honeymoons, pre-nuptial celebrations and gift-giving.

This sparkling, effervescent wine, (le Champagne) produced only in a small region (la Champagne) just outside Paris, creates a mood of gaiety at a shower or engagement party.

It adds brilliance to a wedding reception, makes an elegant toast to the bride and groom, and fosters a mood of festivity at a bon voyage party en route to a honeymoon hideaway.

A sip of the bubbly is the ideal accompaniment to a candlelight supper for two at the end of the wonderful day. It can also properly be served at an intimate wedding breakfast on the following morning.

Giving Champagne from France to the newlyweds solves many of the difficulties involved in selecting an appropriate wedding gift. There is no size problem.

What Champagne should you select? According to the Champagne News and Information Bureau, if you want to start at the top consider vintage Champagne or cuvée spéciale.

These deluxe wines are easy to recognize. Vintage Champagne bears the year on its label and a cuvée spéciale comes in a fancy gift package that often contains a replica of an eighteenth-century hand-blown Champagne bottle.

If you want to scale down a bit, try a nonvintage brut. It is the most versatile Champagne, a blend of 20+ wines, and it can be properly served as an aperitif, throughout a meal, and at any time of the day and night.

Rosé Champagne, which is considered the wine of lovers, is ideal for wedding ceremonies, bridal toasts, and tête-à-tête dinners. For gift giving, think of rosé (pink) Champagne on Valentine's Day or the couple's first anniversary.

To serve Champagne properly, follow a few simple steps: chill the bottle well in a bucket of ice and water for 30 minutes.

Open the bottle by removing the wire muzzle, grasping the cork firmly with one hand. Then turn the bottle, not the cork; the pressure inside the bottle will help ease the cork out with a soft, gentle pop.

Serve the king of wines in tulip or flute glasses that show the wine at its best (the saucer-shaped glass is wrong for Champagne because it dissipates the bubbles quickly).

To store Champagne, keep it on its side in a dark cool place. The wine will keep its freshness for about five years.

HONEYMOON TIPS

Today, fewer couples are choosing to take the sort of honeymoon where.

Instead, they prefer more action: resorts that include sports, entertainment, and gourmet food and locations that have plenty of sights.

What advice does Bride's Magazine have for the couple planning a honeymoon?

- Be honest with each other. How do you both really want to spend your honeymoon. Hiking? Shopping? Or just lazing away on a beach?

- Make your plans early. You'll have a better chance of getting exactly the space at the time you want instead of being disappointed or having to pay more because the rooms in your price range are all taken.

- Take advantage of timing — with night-flight savings, weekday, excursion, and special fares.

The traditional gifts for each anniversary are as follows:

- 1st—Paper

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Thomas Edison once said, "Genius is one per cent inspiration and ninety-nine per cent perspiration."

Genius is only the power of making continuous efforts. The line between failure and success is so fine that we scarcely know when we pass it; so fine that we are often on the line and do not know it. How many a man has thrown up his hands at a time when a little more effort, a little more patience would have achieved success? As the tide goes out, so it comes clear in. In business, sometimes, prospects may seem darkest when really they are on the turn. A little more persistence. A little more effort. And what seemed a hopeless failure may turn into a glorious success. There is no defeat except from within, no really insurmountable barrier save your own inherent weakness of purpose.

'Portfolio Of God's Gifts' First Presbyterian Topic

Mr. Larry Baskin, Assistant to the Pastor at First Presbyterian Church, delivered the sermon Sunday at the 11 a.m. service.

He chose as his theme "Your Portfolio of God's Gifts" based on Matthew 25:29.

Mr. Baskin will be ordained during a special service at the church June 17th.

Elder Donald Murray welcomed the congregation; Elder Janet Powell gave the call to worship.

The senior choir, under the direction of Choirmaster Lambert Brandes, sang "Be Thou My Vision" by Gordon Young.

Deacons Carmine Fucillo and Mildred Miller were greeters. Kim Highfield and Jennifer Cocio were acolytes.

A coffee hour in Fellowship Hall followed the service.

The Annual Meeting of the First Presbyterian Church was scheduled to be held last night (Wednesday) at 7:30 p.m. Evan Celo, Clerk of Session and the Corporation, issued the Call. Dr. Roger A. Kvam was Moderator.

The business of this meeting was to receive reports from the pastor, session and deacons of the church; from the various committees supervising the life and work of the parish; to elect elders, deacons and officers of the corporation; and to transact other business which may properly come before the meeting.

'Who Needs Jesus Christ?' Sermon At Bethany Church

There will be two worship services Sunday, May 27, in Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Center, at 9 a.m. in the chapel and at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary.

The Rev. J. Arnold, senior minister, will preach at both hours. Sermon topic will be, "Who Needs Jesus Christ?" based on scripture texts found in I Corinthians 12:31-33 and the Gospel of Mark 4:35-41.

Scripture readers will be Calvin Young at the early service, and Carolyn E. Leuchte at the late service. The Rev. Joel Huntington, associate minister, will be liturgist at both services.

During the 10 a.m. service there will be a special ceremony of consecration for all persons elected as officers and committee members of Bethany Church for the year June 1, 1984 to May 31, 1985. A total of 104 persons will gather at the front of the sanctuary for the installation.

Relected as primary officers of the congregation were: Howard S. Willard, Sr., moderator; Marcia W. Jacob, clerk, and Pauline L. Anderson, treasurer.

The chancel choir, under the direction of Peter E. Krasinski, organist, will sing as the offertory, "Recessional" by Reginald D. Coven, and as a second anthem, "How Lovely are the Messengers" from St.

Paul by Mendelssohn.

Following the late service, a coffee and fellowship time will be held in the Allen Parlor. Individuals and families from the community are welcome to share in the worship and fellowship, and to enroll children in the church school.

Sunday Church School will be held from 10 to 11 a.m. with classes for pupils from preschool through ninth grade. Nursery care is also provided during the 10 a.m. service for babies and toddlers.

Children under 12 years of age led the worship service at the First Church of Squantum Sunday.

Amanda Young led the congregation in recitation of the Hundredth Psalm as the call to worship. Kim Olson gave the opening prayer.

Blythe Bumpus read the Scripture lesson for the morning. Jason Deary offered the pastoral prayer. Lori Ogilvie led the prayer of dedication for the offering which had been collected by ushers Michael Stamos, Albert Franklin, Michael Franklin and Brian Franklin.

Children preached the sermon, too, which was entitled "Being Faithful to God." The sections of the sermon were based on stories in book of Genesis which the oldest children have recently been studying in Sunday School.

Marci Hurd spoke about the creation of the world. Blythe Bumpus about Adam and Eve, Lori Ogilvie about Cain and Abel, Kim Olson about Noah and the Ark, Amanda Young about Abraham and Sarah, Kristen Reister about Abraham and Isaac, and Melissa Stamos gave the conclusion.

Hymns sung during the service included "Morning Has Broken," "I Sing a Song of the Saints of God," "Fairest Lord Jesus" and "We Are Climbing Jacob's Ladder" as well as a special sending hymn written by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin.

The Junior Choir sang a medley of Christian songs entitled "The Good Lord Made It All" by John Carter. They were directed by Mary Ruth Scott and accompanied by violinist James E. Sumner.

Mrs. Scott also presented each of the members of the choir with a choir pin from the church to thank them for their work with the choir throughout the year.

Receiving pins were Ruth Adams, Kerry Akin, Blythe Bumpus, Marci Hurd, Lori Ogilvie, Kim Olson, Krista Olson, Kristen Reister, Melissa Stamos and Amanda Young.

The Chancel Choir sang "Children of the Heavenly Father" set to a Swedish folk melody.

Greeters for the morning were Tracey and Gregory Gale and their mother, Linda, along with Laurie, Kerry, Kim and Jamie Galvin with their mother Joan, and the grandmother of all these children, Doris Baste.

At the end of the service, all the children joined in the Mizpah benediction. Then, three members of the church board of Christian Education, Pat Olson, Patti Hurd and Cecilia Stamos gave to each child in the sanctuary a flowering plant to take home.

Prelude to the service was "Jesus Loves Me" by William Bradbury. Postlude was "Now Thank We All Our God" by Kaufmann.

The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Adelaide Nelson and Lorraine Josselyn.

This Sunday, there will be two services: a guitar service at 8:30 a.m. at which the sermon will be about Roger Williams, a pioneer of American religious liberty, and a traditional service at 10:30 a.m. at which the sermon will be based on the recently acclaimed film, "Tender Mercies."

The schedule of special services for the next few weeks at the First Church of Squantum includes Sailing Sunday (breakfast), June 3; Pentecost, June 10; and Father's Day (breakfast), June 17.

On each of these days, there will be only one service beginning at 10:30 a.m. On the two days when there is a breakfast, serving will begin at 9:15 a.m.

The summer schedule of services will begin June 24 at 9:30 a.m.

Take care of your own funeral arrangements now. So your family won't have to later.

By not taking care of your own funeral in advance, you force someone close to you to do it for you.

For the person who accepts the responsibility, making arrangements at the time of need is likely to be filled with uncertainties. The uncertainty of not knowing what you really wanted. Your personal preferences. Perhaps, a favorite dress or suit. A special prayer. A clergyman with whom you are especially close. The uncertainties are endless.

The kindest thing you can do for your family is make your own funeral arrangements far in advance of need. That way everybody will know the kind of funeral you would like to have.

Post Office Seeks

Dog Owners Cooperation

"Last year, 145 letter carriers in the Greater Boston area were bitten by dogs. One carrier was so severely bitten that it took 30 stitches to close the wound and complications from the injury kept him incapacitated for three months."

Manager Kenneth E. Starr of the Quincy Post Office recalled this unfortunate incident to remind area dog owners that their cooperation is needed to minimize the threat of dog bites to the 120 serving the city of Quincy. He noted that approximately 7,000 letter carriers nationwide were attacked by dogs last year.

According to Starr, incidents of dog bites increase dramatically as outdoor temperatures arise.

"Approximately half of the dog bites to letter carriers each year occur during the summer months," he said.

"Dog bites are painful and costly," Starr said, "and they don't have to happen. We continually educate our letter carriers on dog bite prevention, but it is the pet owner's responsibility to keep the animal from becoming a threat to members of the community. Some simple precautions on the part of dog owners would help eliminate the problem," he added.

The Postal Service suggests that dog owners keep their pets in an area away from the mailbox and the areas used by the letter carrier for access to the property. If the pet is not kept behind a secure fence, owners are asked to restrain the dog on a leash or keep it inside the house during the carrier's regular delivery hours.

Starr emphasized that the Postal Service has the right to protect its letter carriers by withholding mail delivery to households with an unrestrained dog. In areas where dogs roam loose, delivery to an entire neighborhood can be curtailed. Postal customers should also be aware that the Postal Service now seeks legal action against dog owners to recover costs incurred by dog bites.

"We hope a cooperative effort by dog owners to protect their pet and their letter carrier, as well as other members of the community, will preclude this need," Starr concluded.

Cancer Society Seeks Recruits

The Quincy-Milton unit of the American Cancer Society will hold its annual recruitment meeting today (Thursday) at 6 p.m. in the board room at City Hospital.

"We're here to help," said Dr. Walt Kagan, the unit president. "But we're also asking for help. How much the Quincy-Milton unit can do depends on how many people will get involved." The society sponsors frequent free cancer detection clinics, quit smoking workshops and education programs in the Quincy-Milton area.

Don't Ride a Roller Coaster with your Home Mortgage.

Be safe - be sure with Colonial Federal's new Fixed Payment Low Interest Adjustable Rate Mortgage.

The overwhelming concern of any home buyer is affordability. Interest rate is question Number One. But, especially in today's market, the home buyer must ask many more questions. Fixed rate mortgages cost the most. Adjustable rates cost less. But they can be tricky--very tricky.

Colonial Federal has taken the tricks out.

Colonial's new Adjustable Rate Mortgage removes the worry of what your later payments may be. Colonial guarantees a fixed payment for ten years to those who qualify -- and most applicants do. After ten years, without penalty, you can elect to continue as is, renegotiate, or pay off. Peace of mind? You bet! And, if rates drop, as economists expect in the latter part of the '80s, you can be a big winner.

Great Hill Water Tank Concerns Cheney

Michael I. Cheney, a candidate for the City Council from Ward 1, has asked to see a preliminary report from the city's engineering consultants on the Great Hill water tank project.

Cheney said that he and DPW Commissioner Paul Anderson appears to have received conflicting information from the consultants, Camp, Dresser and McKee, on the safety of residents in the area.

"I'm concerned that the water tank is not filled and I'm concerned what effect this may have on public safety in the event of a major fire," he said.

"It appears that when questioned the consultants are telling me one story and the commissioner another."

"I am requesting this official report so that the commissioner and I can immediately identify a problem term solution to a problem expressed by area residents."

Snug Harbor Celebrates Women's History Month

"Some Leaders are Born Women" was the theme of the Snug Harbor School celebration of Women's History Month.

In addition to many individual classroom activities, children from Chapter 1 intermediate classes chose to research and draw portraits of women who have demonstrated courage and leadership from the past and present. The month's bulletin board featured these portraits.

Morrie Hibbard, principal, shared his stamp collection with the fourth and fifth graders, and presented to each child who completed a report a stamp of a woman honored by our country.

The Women's History

Committee, Deanna Hebert, Mary Morris, and Morrie Hibbard were delighted with the heightened awareness of the students, both male and female.

Children's Office Director Mental Health Speaker

The role of parents in obtaining services for their children will be discussed by the head of the State's Office for Children tonight (Thursday), at 7 p.m. at the South Shore Mental Health Center, 460 Quincy Ave.

Gloria Clark, director of the Office for children, will be the guest of the mental health center's Step 1 program, which serves children up to three years of age.

Harry Shulman, executive director of the mental health center which serves Quincy, Milton and Randolph, said there are many youngsters living on the South Shore who could benefit from specialized programs and services but their parents are not aware of available opportunities.

"One of our goals in having Gloria Clark visit here is to help parents become aware of ways to assist their children," said Shulman.

The meeting is open to the public and will be preceded by a dinner for the Step 1 parents. For information, call 770-4000.

Raiders Blank Quincy To Keep Tourney Hopes Alive

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy baseball team kept its tournament hopes alive Monday night when it blanked Quincy, 6-0, at Adams Field for its third win in a row.

The win improved the Raiders' record to 9-4 (6-4 in the Suburban League) and the Presidents fell to 3-10. North must win three of its last four games or finish second in the league to qualify for the tournament. It faced Brookline yesterday (Wednesday), hosts Brockton today (Thursday) at 3:30 at Adams Field, will play at Cambridge Rindge and Latin next Tuesday and will wind up the regular season Friday, June 1, against Milton in a non-league game at 7:30 p.m. at Adams Field.

Quincy faced Newton Wednesday, plays at Waltham today and will finish the season Monday morning at 10 o'clock at Don Bosco.

John Comeau, who had returned last week after missing several games, pitched his best game of the year and improved his record to 4-0 Monday night as he held Quincy to four hits, struck out 10 and walked only one.

Mike Notarangelo, who has pitched all three Quincy wins, started on the mound but was wild and was relieved by Joe Conli in the third inning. North collected eight hits and was handed seven walks.

The Raiders scored three runs in the opening inning with only one hit, a single to left by Keith Smith, as Notarangelo walked four. Jack Bolster drove in a run with a sacrifice fly to deep center field.

In the second North added two runs as Steve Higgins hit one in front of the plate and went to second when the throw to first was wild. Chris Bunker, who had three hits, singled to center to drive in Higgins and went to second on the throw-in. He stole third and scored on Bolster's double to right.

Smith hit a home run over the right field fence for the final North run, the second time this season he has cleared the fence.

Bunker went 3-for-4 to raise his average over .450 as he remained in the thick of the battle to win his second straight league batting title. Higgins was 2-for-3, Smith 2-for-2 and Bolster had the other hit. For Quincy Notarangelo had a long triple and a single and Bill Cahill had the other two hits.

"I think we have a good chance to make the tournament," North coach Charlie Bunker said. "Comeau's return gives our pitching a tremendous boost and we have been hitting the ball well."

The Raiders had their batting shoes on last week as they topped Waltham, 11-8, in a league game and defeated Abp. Williams for the second time, 12-4, in a non-leaguer.

North avenged an earlier loss to Waltham when it had a 5-0 lead only to have Waltham score nine runs in the last inning.

Brian Gibbons hit a 400-foot three-run homer in the third inning to spark the North attack and Steve Hogan pitched 2½ innings of strong relief.

Bolster had three hits and four RBI. Bunker drove in a run and Rich Brooks had a big game catching as he threw out all three runners trying to steal second.

In the win over Abp. Williams Hogan pitched six innings of no-hit relief, striking out six and walking only two.

The Raider offense was led by Higgins, Bolster and Mark Hubbard with three hits each. Williams never led and the closest it got was 5-4 after three innings.

Quincy lost to Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 7-3, last week.

FIRST TO CARRY the Olympic torch into Boston recently was Edward J. Flynn (left) of 105 Willow Ave., Wollaston, a Boston Gas employee and South Boston native. Flynn, the first runner within Boston city limits, lit his torch at the Dedham line, juncture of Routes 1 and 109, and ran six-tenths of a mile down the V.F.W. Parkway in West Roxbury. Man on the right, who provided the flame for Flynn's torch, is an employee of AT & T in New York City. Flynn passed the flame to another runner at the completion of his sprint.

A Perfect Year

Raiderettes Win Track Title With 6-0 Record

By TOM SULLIVAN
The North Quincy girls' track team completed a perfect year in the Suburban League competition last week when it clinched the league title with an easy 83-30 win over Quincy for a 6-0 record.

The Raiderettes' cross country team last fall was unbeaten as was the winter track team.

Georgia Traficante and Ieressa Collins paced the romp over Quincy with victories each. Traficante won the javelin (135-9) and the long jump (14-8½), while Collins won the 440 (69.1) and the high jump (4-2).

Quincy had a double winner in Mary Lou Wirtz, who won the 100 (12.6) and the 220 (27.9).

The First Ladies finished winless as they were greatly handicapped by a lack of depth and experience.

North's other winners were Leann Fitzgerald, 880 (2:30.2); Diane Lindenfelzer mile (5:38.2); Mary Ann Kelleher, two-mile (11:59.0); Lori Magrath, hurdles (18.6); Eileen Crehan, shot put (37-6¼), and the sprint relay team of Crehan, Laura Ciulla, Collings and Traficante.

Quincy's only other winner was Cindy Morrell in the discus (70-7).

Taking seconds for North were Donna Glynn, 100; Ciulla, 220; Tricia Barrett, 880; Julie Walsh, mile; Tracey Corrigan, two-mile; Julie Killion, high jump and hurdles; and Crehan, javelin.

Quincy seconds were taken by Jennifer Golden, 440 and discus; Wirtz, long jump, and Morrell, shot put.

Placing third for North were Darlene Columbare, 100; Alice Reilly, 220; Joanne Zdanowski, 440; Tricia Leary, two-mile; Jennifer Rafferty, hurdles; Ciulla, long jump; Missy Silkwood, shot put, and Killion, javelin.

Quincy's third place finishers were Sharon Steen, 880; Laurie Pitts, mile; and Tina Calabro, discus.

"The girls did a fantastic job," said first-year head coach Jeff Hennessey. "I want to thank my assistants, Mike Burke and Peter Chrisom, for their work. They are very dedicated."

"If we can just get more girls to come out, we will have much more of a chance," said Ralph Koelsch, who, along with John Franceschini, coaches the Quincy girls. "We had some fine individual performances this season but had little chance with so few girls competing."

Last Friday in the all-league meet, the North girls finished second to Cambridge Rindge and Latin, scoring 80 points to Cambridge's 100.

Crehan, who has had a fantastic season, broke her own league record in the javelin with a toss of 147-6, bettering her previous mark of 140-5.

Kelleher and Barrett finished 1-2 in the two-mile, Ciulla was third and Collings fourth in the 400; Fitzgerald second in the 800, Lindenfelzer second and Walsh fourth in the mile; Tricia Leary sixth in the two-mile; Magrath fifth in the hurdles; Collings fifth in the high jump; and the mile relay team of Ciulla, Collings, Fitzgerald and Kelleher, finished third.

Quincy's Wirtz was third in the 200 and Steen sixth in the 800.

The North girls will compete in the Eastern Mass. Class B championships Saturday at Lawrence, while the Quincy girls will be in Class A at Boston College.

"We appear to be on schedule for good times and distances at Lawrence," said Hennessey. "The team picture is tough, though, with Falmouth, West Roxbury, Needham and Reading all sporting fine teams. It's going to be close, but we're used to pressure. We'll just dig in and do our best."

The following North girls were selected league all-stars: Kelleher, two mile; Barrett, two mile; Lindenfelzer, mile; Fitzgerald, 880; Ciulla, 440; Traficante, javelin; and Crehan, javelin.

Stay Alive!

HOT GREASE BURNS

Twice as many people are burned from liquid scalds than from flame. Grease scalding deserves special attention because of the high temperature it can reach.

When heating grease, keep a constant watch. If food sticks in a pan of hot grease, steady the pan and work slowly to dislodge it. Applying force could cause the pan to fall, spilling hot, scalding grease.

Steady is also the watchword when pouring grease from a pan into a container. A wobbly pan or an unsure grip could dump hot liquid on you.

Don't drop wet food into hot grease. Doing so immediately converts the water to steam, causing oil to spatter violently. Dry off excess moisture from the food and use tongs (not your hands) to slowly place food in the pan.

Turn pot and pan handles toward the back of the range or counter, out of reach of young children and out of the path of "pot-watchers".

Quincy Girls Edge North For Third Straight

The Quincy girls' softball team avenged an earlier defeat and edged North Quincy, 6-5, yesterday for its third straight victory and improved its record to 9-6.

The North girls fell to 5-7. Quincy faced Newton North yesterday (Wednesday) and finishes the season today against Waltham at 3:30 at Faxon Field.

North Quincy played Brookline yesterday, plays at Brockton today and will wind up the season Tuesday against Cambridge Rindge and Latin at 3:30 at Artery Field.

The First Ladies were paced by the eight-hit pitching of Kathy Thornton. Freshman Ann Anderlionis started for North and gave up nine hits before being relieved by Lisa Ventola. Ann also gave up seven walks which kept her in continuous trouble.

The Raiderettes took an early 3-0 lead when Mary Holleran, who went 3-for-3, hit a tremendous two-run homer over the right field fence at Artery Field. Sheila Graham scored the third run on Cheryl Murphy's single.

Quincy tied the score in the fifth inning on three walks, a single, a hit batsman and two wild pitches.

North went ahead, 5-3, in the fifth when Carolyn O'Reilly singled home Holleran and Graham scored on a wild pitch.

Quincy went up, 6-5, in the sixth when it combined three hits, two walks and a wild pitch.

In the North's seventh O'Reilly led off with a single, stole second and went to third on an infield out. But it couldn't score the tying run when on an attempted suicide squeeze, Ventola popped up the bunt and O'Reilly was doubled up to end the game.

Last week the Raiderettes edged Boston Latin, 3-2, in a non-league game as Anderlionis registered her fourth victory with a four-hitter, striking out two and not walking a batter.

North's eight-hit attack was led by Noreen Connolly and Anderlionis with two hits each. Holleran's single in the first drove in two runs and the winning run came in the third when Ann Sousa scored on an infield out.

O'Reilly at third base and Sousa at second played strong defensive games.

Beth Veneto, leading the Suburban League in batting, went 2-for-2 for Quincy. Andrea Griffin was 2-for-3 and had 2 RBI. Karen Eames had a double and Thornton had 2 RBI.

Last Friday the Quincy girls went into extra innings to edge Notre Dame of Hingham, 6-5, in the eighth inning of their non-league game.

Mary Ellen Thomas walked with the bases loaded to give the First Ladies the victory.

Kathy Thornton pitched a six-hitter, while Eames went 3-for-5 with an RBI and Colleen Phillips was 2-for-2.

Earlier in the week Quincy rolled over Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 11-1, in a league game as Thornton pitched five-hit ball and struck out 10.

The First Ladies scored six runs in the second and coasted from there as they added four in the seventh.

Andrea Griffin went 2-for-3 and had two RBI and Chris Cuccinetta had a hit and also drove in two runs.

'Traditions Of Christmas' Parade Theme

"Traditions of Christmas", submitted by Paul J. Murphy of Quincy, has been selected as the theme for the Quincy Christmas Festival Parade in November.

Murphy, a resident of 86 Elliot Ave., will be guest of honor at the parade and will receive a gift from the festival committee.

The winning entry was among nearly 100 submitted.

Committee chairman George F. White said more entries were submitted this year than in past years.

White also noted that "the quality of these themes was much improved."

Committee members felt the winning theme offered much diversification of imagination for float builders.

Among the entries were: "Peace on Earth," "A Christmas Odyssey," "Christmas Creation," "Season of Friendship," "Christmas Fantasies," "Happy Holiday Through Health," and "Santa's All Over the World." Nearly 300,000 viewed the annual Christmas Festival Parade in 1983.

WEEK OF: MAY 17

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19
Self-indulgent streak surfaces toward weekend; think thrice before cheating on diet or blowing the budget. Romance partner is more generous with time and more lighthearted in approach.

PISCES - February 20-March 20
Legal matters are spotlighted; be sure you read between each line. Recent financial setback shows small signs of reversal. Romantic picture brightens thanks to partner's optimism.

ARIES - March 21-April 20
Reunions find you in the limelight. Partner becomes more supportive; listen to his/her wise words. Professional stalemate eases. Friend becomes a little more flexible by Tuesday.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22
Being practical and realistic helps you resolve a long-lasting feud. Hobbies are emphasized, more for fun than for profit. Small rewards come your way at the workplace.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21
New interests dominate the week, while an old friend returns to the scene. You're surprisingly effective as a peace-maker. Decision-making, however, requires some practice.

CANCER - June 22-July 22
Week accents fun and profit. Some detours slow you down if traveling on the weekend. Romance benefits from spontaneity. Negotiations may extend longer than expected.

LEO - July 23-August 22
Seek top advice before investing time, energy or - especially - finances in any scheme. Watch tendency to be too severe on yourself. Pursue more lighthearted interests.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22
Popularity soars during the week. Enjoy the limelight, but pay attention to some of the changing trends that are taking place in domestic and professional spheres.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22
Shift in family responsibilities is taking place and you may be tapped for a new obligation. Your even nature attracts attention of people in important places.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21
Financial or other favor is returned and money matters brighten generally. If purchasing any major item, be sure guarantees are binding. Romance remains on an even keel.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22
Taking the lead in domestic, career, and romance arenas brings favorable results. The key is to know when, ultimately, to step into the background. Travel planning requires refinement.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20
Messages can get tangled up from Friday to Tuesday and mail may be subject to delay. No snarls in friendship matters, however, with reconciliations in the spotlight.

HOLLYWOOD — It goes without saying, the fastest growing industry in Southern California is the exploding world of video.

There isn't a day goes by without news of some new exciting innovation dealing with video production and playback. Today is no exception.

Set for national syndication is a video called "Style '84," which according to producer Ira Ritter combines America's three favorite pastimes: shopping, watching television and talking on the phone.

Ritter's video offering is a monthly fashion forecast and shopping catalog which features an 800 telephone number. Show host Gail Rae Carlson, along with fashion industry experts and fashion conscious celebrities hope to take the work out of shopping and the mystery out of what to buy as they discuss what's in, what's out, what's next and what will be around forever in the world of fashion.

Elsewhere on the video front, noted Hollywood producer, Bert Tenzer and his company, Direct Broadcast Programs, Inc. are set to unveil a series of "Activity" tapes which means you the viewer participate.

Working with Peabody Award winner, John Wilson, Tenzer is pioneering a new concept in children's programming with the introduction of the first three programs of "Watch and Play." These tapes combine the joy of watching favorite animated fairy tales with the educational experience of creating and staging one's own production.

Also from Direct Broadcast Programs, Inc. comes "How To Win At Life Extension" featuring Dr. Jeffers A. Fisher. Using the Tenzer principle of interaction, the viewer learns and participates in a series of programs designed to extend and improve the quality of their lives.

Watch for further information on Direct Broadcast Programs' "Activity" video tapes in a future VIDEO CONNECTION, as plans call for an interview with the very innovative Bert Tenzer.

My video connections in New York tell me orders are pouring in for video tape copies of Academy Award winner, "Terms of Endearment" set for a June release by Paramount Home Video. In what's being hailed as a first time for a film to go so quickly from an academy sweep to the home video market at an affordable price, "Terms" will be available in VHS, Beta, laser disc and CED disc at a suggested retail price of $39.95.

In another segment of the video phenomenon sweeping the entertainment capital of the world, business is booming for mobile video companies. The people who come to you, tape your event, and preserve your memories for eternity, are finding their services in great demand.

"Everybody wants video," states Jim McKenzie of American Entertainment of California. "We're getting requests to tape everything from family reunions to funerals, Weddings, bar mitzvahs, parties, and proms, capturing the event on video is what's happening... our company is even producing video yearbooks for area high schools. Can you imagine how valuable those tapes will be at class reunions?" If the video bug hasn't bitten you yet, watch out because sooner or later your world and the world of video are bound to come together. At one time home video was considered a part of the future. As your video connection, I'm here to tell you the future is here today.

Board Continues Complaint On N. Quincy Parking Lot

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
The License Board voted Tuesday to continue to June 5 a hearing regarding a complaint about a parking lot at Fayette and West Squantum Sts., North Quincy.

The request was continued at the request of City Councilor John Lydon who said that the traffic commission is studying the situation.

William P. Wolk, executive director of the South Shore Rehabilitation Center, 3 Arlington St., wrote to the board about the lot, which he said is "apparently operated by the MBTA."

"We are concerned about the traffic hazard posed to our handicapped clients by the entrance to the lot on Fayette St.

"In addition, on Wednesday, May 9, the Quincy Police ticketed our employee's cars parked on Fayette St. indicating that the request was made by the MBTA."

Wolk said the land is owned by Walsh Construction Co.

Licenses must be issued for parking lots which charge a fee, board members said.

The board agreed to seek a ruling from the city solicitor on whether the MBTA can legally license a parking lot in Quincy over the jurisdiction of the License Board.

The License Board took the following action at Tuesday's meeting at City Hall.

- Granted a request from the Houghs Neck Community Council to conduct a field day Saturday, June 30, at LaBrecque Park, Houghs Neck. The group is to notify City Clerk John Gillis if a "bounce ride" requiring special insurance is to be included in the event.

Bay Pollution Critical Issue, Says Johnston

Robert I. Johnston, a candidate for the Ward 1 seat on the City Council, says the critical issue for the ward and the city continues to be the pollution of Quincy Bay.

"The MDC's long history of irresponsible actions make it imperative for the Ward 1 councillor to serve as every vigilant watchdog to insure that actions that are taken will ultimately result in a cleaner bay," he said.

Johnston also cited the need for increased public safety. He urged a stepped-up police campaign against speeding and frequent accidents o Sea St.

He reiterated his support for one-person patrol cars throughout the ward to increase police presence and visibility.

Johnston advocated an increase in the number of firefighters assigned to the Germantown station to allay concerns about adequate fire protection.

Johnston also urged that the city explore new possibilities for expanded day care programs to give single parents the advantage of opportunities for additional training or to seek employment.

Golden Criticizes Harold On Nut I Chlorine Plant

Richard D. Golden, a candidate for State Senate, has criticized Sen. Paul D. Harold for what he called his "inexcusable oversight" in voting for a chlorination plant at Nut Island.

"Mr. Harold voted for this construction in November," said Golden. "By his vote he supported this facility but now that construction is imminent he vocalizes opposition.

"A full-time state senator should have recognized the impact of this construction. My opponent supported this construction but he has also promised to phase out Nut Island.

"Performance is fulltime; promises are election time.

"The condition of Quincy Bay has continued to deteriorate. Cleanup action is long overdue. The future of Quincy Bay will be decided by performance, not promises. That's why I want to be state senator."

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

Steve Downing, Manager

DON'T COUNT ON ORAL PROMISE

QUESTION: I am about to close the purchase of a new home. The builder has promised me that all of the things that are wrong will be taken care of and that his handshake will save a lot of paperwork. Should I trust him?

ANSWER: Many a business agreement has been made with a handshake and enforced by the courts. But when it comes to the never-never world of real estate, you cannot and should not rely on oral promises. In fact, legislation in each of the fifty states specifically requires that all agreements and conditions relative to the sale of real estate specifically be in writing to be enforceable. The only way to put any teeth into oral promises is to insist that everything which you think is significant be put in writing.

HANDSHAKES don't count in real estate. Put it in writing.

Controversy Continues Over McDonald's North Quincy Site

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

It appears that the controversy over licensing of a McDonald's restaurant in North Quincy isn't over yet.

License Board members granted a license for the restaurant May 1, but will hold a limited hearing Tuesday, June 12, on a recent communication from City Solicitor Dean Nicastro regarding parking at the establishment.

According to City Clerk John Gillis, board members will vote on whether they agree with Nicastro's opinion. Only board members will be allowed to discuss the matter at the hearing, he said.

If necessary, a new public hearing could be scheduled later, Gillis said.

In a three-page letter last week, Nicastro stated that parking might very well not be permitted on an MBTA right-of-way which is located on property leased by McDonald's.

Nicastro also stated that the restaurant cannot be licensed using leased land for parking.

According to the Quincy Zoning Ordinance, "off-street parking facilities shall be under the same ownership as the building or buildings which they serve," Nicastro said.

Because McDonald's now says it has a new plan with parking at the Otis Elevator property where the restaurant will be located, a new hearing on the license should be held, Nicastro advised.

Amidst much controversy, McDonald's was granted the license for 275-295 Hancock St. subject to the opinion by the City Solicitor in those two areas.

Nicastro said that if a new hearing is held, the board should afford anyone who has appeared in the proceedings the opportunity to challenge McDonald's regarding its contention it now has sufficient on-site parking.

Gillis, board chairman, advised board members to study Nicastro's communication, which he notes is "just an opinion."

"I've listened to city solicitors through the years," said Gillis, "some of them are right, some of them are not."

"It's up to this board to decide if we're right or wrong on this thing."

Court Action Possible Summer Council Sessions Over Budget Feud?

By TOM HENSHAW

City Council President James A. Sheets indicated Tuesday that he may keep the Council, which traditionally takes the summer off, in session during July and August in an effort to break the deadlock with the Mayor over the police and fire budgets for fiscal 1985.

"I foresee the City Council continuing the fight to preserve an adequate level of public safety services in the city," said Sheets.

"If that means staying in session all summer then we will be in session all summer."

Meanwhile, Mayor Francis X. McCauley said he sees the possibility of court action to overturn a Council vote, taken at a special meeting last Thursday, appropriating one-twelfth of the Mayor's $75.8 million budget, or only enough to run the city through the month of July.

"I am always critical of court action, particularly one in which the city of Quincy would be involved in a suit against itself," said McCauley. "I would go to court only as a last resort if I found there was no money to pay city employees. But the option is there."

Both sides in the dispute were adamant that there would be no compromise.

"The City Council is firm in its decision; it is not going to change," said Sheets, adding that the Council is unanimous in its resolve to force McCauley to increase his $13.9 million police and fire budget to a point where the "people in the wards are safe."

"There will be no changes in my budget," said McCauley. "There can be no compromise of the mayor's authority under the charter to initiate appropriations."

The Mayor added, however, that he is confident "we will have this all cleared up by July 1," the start of the 1985 fiscal year; "I don't want this to drag out into the summer."

"I am willing to meet with him anytime, any place," said Sheets. "But I don't see any indication that he is willing to talk."

Mayor McCauley said he has City Solicitor Dean Nicastro researching the legality of the Council's one-twelfth budget vote which, he said, has never happened before in Quincy and possibly never before in the entire state.

The way he looked at it, said the Mayor, there is no provision in law for a one-twelfth budget so "what the Council did was cut the budget by eleven-twelfths; they gave me one-twelfth of the budget with which to run the city for one year."

He said he plans also to consult with the City Clerk John Gillis, City Auditor Robert E. Foy III and the State Department of Revenue on the matter.

"This boils down to a single issue — public safety," said Councilor

John J. Lydon Jr., who made the motion for the one-twelfth budget Thursday night.

"The real issue," McCauley told a hastily convened news conference Friday morning, "is whether the mayor is going to enjoy his prerogatives under the strong mayor Plan A system which gives him the sole right to appropriate money."

"They are trying to blackmail the mayor and they are not going to do it!" McCauley accused Council President Sheets of lacking in leadership on the Council, noting that the same group of councillors elected John J. Quinn, Leo J. Kelly and Lydon as Council presidents during the previous six years.

"These three provided some leadership," he said. "But that group did not elect a candidate this year and we don't see that type of leadership with Sheets. There has been a leadership void in the Council and others have moved into that void."

The Mayor said Councilors Joanne Condon and Lydon spearheaded the events that occurred during the special meeting Thursday.

Summer Slowdown Set On Quincy Shore Drive

Last summer's traffic crackdown and slowdown on Quincy Shore Drive was so successful that the MDC is going to do it again this coming summer.

Commissioner William J. Geary reported that the summer of 1983 was free of fatalities and Metro police issued 6,478 citations for traffic violations, more than double the number in 1982.

"It is especially pleasing to me as a Quincy resident to report statistics like this," Geary told a gathering of community leaders and residents Friday at the MDC bathhouse on Wollaston Beach.

"Again this year we are intensifying our Metropolitan Police presence and putting would-be violators on notice that Quincy Shore Drive is a safety area adjacent to one of our most heavily used beaches, not a speedway."

Geary said he has ordered more police patrols, a motor cycle unit assigned nightly to Wollaston Beach and a change in the pattern of traffic signals along the drive to control speeding.

A poster will be distributed again, featuring a woman in running shoes with the words: "It no longer requires an Olympic effort to cross Quincy Shore Drive."

Geary thanked members of the community for their support, particularly since the traffic redesign and road improvement plan grew out of a meeting between Geary and residents.

The plan involves structural changes in traffic signal patterns, signs, road improvements, barriers to protect private property as well as increased police

Auto Hits Parked Cars

A 67-year-old Quincy man was in good condition at City Hospital following an accident on Elm Ave., Wollaston, in which his automobile struck four parked cars.

patrols to discourage disorderly conduct.

Geary said the emphasis again this year will be on making the area safe and enjoyable for families out for a stroll or a swim and preserving the aesthetic quality of Quincy Shore Drive.

One of the parked cars that was struck is owned by Mary Ellen Geary of 24 Elm Ave. wife of MDC Commissioner William J. Geary.

The others were owned by Brian Manning of 51 Berlin St., Wollaston; Joanne M. Bouzan of 34 Elm Ave.; and Patrick J. Malloy of Dorchester.

Liquor Store Re-hearing Postponed By Board

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The License Board voted Tuesday to postpone to June 5 a re-hearing on transfer of the license for Presidential Liquors from Quincy Sq. to Pilgrim Plaza, Quincy Point.

The matter was postponed so that abutters to the proposed location may attend the meeting.

The board had denied the request April 24. The applicants appealed the decision to the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission which remanded the matter back to the board with the recommendation the transfer be approved.

The re-hearing was about to begin Tuesday when Ward Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro, an opponent of the transfer, objected that abutters had not been notified that the matter was again before the board.

City Clerk John Gillis explained that the board does not legally have to notify the abutters.

Atty. Carl Johnson, who represented the applicants, said that the hearing has been publicized in papers such as The Quincy Sun.

"It's not fair that the opposition is not here," insisted DeCristofaro, "they should've been notified."

"If one side is allowed to speak," said Building Inspector Allan MacDonald, "both sides should be allowed to speak."

Fire Chief Edward Barry and Gillis agreed.

Police Chief Francis Finn pointed out that the board did not legally have to notify the abutters, but was postponing the hearing at the request of DeCristofaro.

Johnson said that he would notify the abutters. He also said the delays are costing his clients $2,000 a month in rent at Pilgrim Plaza.

The board had denied the request because of the number of liquor establishments in the ward, and because the store would be located near areas where police have had problems with youths drinking.

The ABC did not uphold the board's stand. The store must move because the Elks Building where it has been located is being sold.

Stiff Punishments For Racial Assault

Persons who commit assaults or cause property damage for racial or religious reasons face stiff fines and jail sentences, Sen. Paul D. Harold reports.

Under new legislation now in effect, an assault and battery or damage to property "for the purpose of intimidation" because of a person's race, color, religion, or national origin shall be punished by a fine of up to $5,000 or three times the value of the property damaged, whichever is greater, and can include a jail sentence of up to 2½ years.

Harold noted that the new law specifically provides punishment for anyone who intentionally damages a church, synagogue, cemetery, community center or school.

If damage in such cases exceeds $5,000, the person convicted faces a fine equal to three times the damage plus a prison term of up to five years.

The new law also gives the victim of such crimes the right to sue and recover special and general damages, attorneys' fees and costs, and specifically provides that parents shall be liable for damage caused by their minor children, Harold warned.

Senior Olympics Registration Underway

South Shore Residents 50 and over are registering for the Quincy Senior Olympic Games at a rate which is twice that of last year, indicating that there is substantially more interest in this year's event. In order for participants to be listed in the program booklet, applications must be received by May 28.

Forms are available throughout Quincy, in Quincy City Hall, YMCA, Council on Aging, neighborhood centers, churches, libraries, elderly housing and health clubs. For South Shore towns, forms may be secured through local Councils on Aging.

The Olympics events will take place from June 7 to 10, with golf, bowling and swimming competition on Thursday and Friday, followed by twelve track and field events all day Saturday and Sunday afternoon, in and around Quincy Stadium.

The colorful Olympic Festival will be held Sunday afternoon in Quincy Stadium at 2 p.m. Of the early registrants, 40 percent are women and the largest age group is men 68 to 75.

The Senior Olympics Games are intended to be a community event, and families, friends and neighbors are encouraged to attend at any time. There will be no admission charges.

The American Red Cross was organized in 1881 by Clara Barton, who became its first president.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

Steve Downing, Manager
PRICE OUTWEIGHS INTEREST

QUESTION: "With interest rates so high, can you still expect to make money on the purchase and sale of real estate?"

ANSWER: It's the future SELLING PRICE, not the interest rate which determines the profit on a sale. Interest rate concerns only the cost of paying the loan. Real estate will never be lower in price than it is today. Every economist I've read or listened to agrees that inflation will continue and the price of real estate will stay in the forefront of this price rise. So, you can expect a well bought piece of property to increase in value.

IT'S FUTURE SELLING PRICE—not interest which determines profit.

Looks Like Honeymoon Is Over

Mayor Francis McCauley probably has had a longer honeymoon with the City Council than any other chief executive in recent years.

But as Walter Winchell used to put it, it now looks like splitsville. And it may be too late to kiss and make up. The blowup is over the police and fire budgets. The council thinks McCauley is penny-pinching public safety by underfunding the public safety budget.

In a special session last week, the council tried to put the squeeze on McCauley by doling out only enough money to run the city for the month of July.

That was $6,322,229—one 12th of what McCauley wants to keep the city going.

That's like telling the bride she can't have the whole paycheck to run the house. Which is always good for a squabble and harsh words.

"They are trying to black mail the mayor and they are not going to do it," McCauley retorted.

McCauley then accused Council President James Sheets of lacking in leadership on the council.

"There has been a void in leadership on the council and others have moved in," he said.

The "other" he identified as Joanne Condon and John Lydon, Jr.

who he said spearheaded the month-of July handout.

"This boils down to a single issue public safety," insists Lydon.

"The real issue," says McCauley, "is whether the mayor is going to enjoy his prerogative under the strong mayor Plan A system which gives the sole right to appropriate money. If I give in on this issue, then what is the next one?"

At the special council session Sheets rapped McCauley.

McCAULEY

LYDON

FONTAINE

"Reasonable men should be able to reach reasonable decisions," he declared. "But they can't when one says, 'No! No! No!'"

And, said he:

"For 2½ years, the City Council on one occasion after another has been willing to compromise with the mayor to move the city forward."

Sheets said councillors disagreed with McCauley on many aspects of the General Dynamics settlement and validated parking but went along with him in the interest of unity.

"We have a history of cooperation with Mayor McCauley," he said. "I am disappointed that on an issue of this magnitude (the police, fire budgets) we cannot turn to the mayor for accommodation. His answer is, 'My way or no way!'"

"We could create great hardship for the administration by cutting positions in the budget. But we have chosen to make the mayor realize that this city has an obligation to security of person and property."

For some observers who like to spot potential mayoral candidates, this sounded like what could be the start of a Sheets-for-mayor campaign.

They think he would like to establish himself as the alternative to McCauley who is expected to run for a third term next year.

Maybe McCauley sees it that way, too.

He may have been trying to shoot Sheets down during the morning-after news conference at which he said Sheets lacks leadership on the council.

He then patted him left handed—by calling him "a good Ward 4 Councillor."

WJDA's Herb Fontaine will be making his fifth annual appearance as an auctioneer for the Ch. 2 auction. Fontaine will be there Saturday between 1 and 2 p.m. Give him a call. Make him work—for a worthy cause.

'Saturday Night Massacre' A Plus For Richardson

By TOM HENSHAW

The other day, Elliot L. Richardson was introduced at a Law Day dinner. The introduction included a reference to "the Saturday Night Massacre." Several hundred people rose and applauded.

"I guess you could say it's more of an asset to me than not," said Richardson in a visit to The Quincy Sun on a campaign swing for the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate.

The Saturday Night Massacre was Oct. 20, 1973, at the height of the Watergate scandal, when Richardson resigned as U.S. attorney general rather than fire Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox.

Whether or not he is successful in his race for the Senate, it will remain Richardson's place in history.

"If any Republicans hold it against me, I haven't heard about it," he said. "People still remember it. People stop me in the street and talk about it, some of them thank me for it."

But Richard Nixon, the president for whom he held three cabinet posts, has never spoken to him since then.

Richardson, who was once lieutenant governor and attorney general of Massachusetts as well as holding federal posts, doesn't see eye-to-eye on everything with another Republican president, Ronald Reagan, particularly on Latin America.

"I would have voted with the Senate majority to terminate the mining of Nicaraguan waters," he said. "I don't think it was an action conducive to the best interests of the United States. I regret the whole episode."

He disagrees with Reagan on the Grenada invasion, too.

"Given to choice to support what was done, I would do it," he said. "But if I was in a position to give advice at an early stage I would have encouraged him to take it to the Organization of American States (OAS)."

"I have administration also could have done a better job of preparing public opinion for it, too."

He agrees with Reagan on El Salvador.

"We have to preserve the opportunity for a solution in El Salvador by giving the people there a real choice," he said. "To do that, we have to provide them with military support."

"But no troops. There is no military solution in Central America, only political. We have to limit our aid to material and advisors. Advisors are a small risk. There is no chance that Congress would support a fighting force there."

Society Obtains Granite Cutters Records

The Quincy Historical Society has come into possession of the records of the Granite Cutters' Union, which recently moved its headquarters to Washington, D.C., after many years in Quincy.

The records include much interesting material on the industry that made Quincy famous and brought to the city many people whose descendants live and prosper here.

The Society acknowledged its indebtedness to the late Joseph P. Riccielli, president of the union, for seeing that the wealth of information on the granite industry remained in Quincy.

The realization that material may have been lost to history and that such sources are becoming fewer has prompted the Society to undertake a granite history project.

The Society's extensive collection of granite industry material is being reviewed and efforts made to supplement and improve it.

The Society is seeking anything relating to granite quarrying or manufacture—pieces of granite work, tools, business and personal records, photographs, personal recollections either written or taped.

Anyone having any historical material or anecdotes that could be included in the project should contact H. Hobart Holly at 843-3084 or at the QHS Headquarters, Adams Academy, 8 Adams St., Quincy 02169.

The Chinese were the first people known to acquire more than one name. The Emperor Fushi is said to have decreed the use of family names, or surnames, about 2852 B.C.

The Graduate:

He Receives High School Diploma — At Age 84

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

For many graduates, a diploma signifies the beginning of a new period of their lives.

But for Gerald Shea of Quincy, his diploma marked the conclusion to an earlier chapter in his life.

Shea, a young 84, recently received a diploma from Dorchester High School more than 50 years after he attended the school.

He was a student at the high school from 1914-1918 and left in his senior year to help fight World War I.

"The Germans surrendered when they heard that Gerry Shea had joined the service," he tells friends of his three months with the armed forces. "But I always wished I'd had that high school diploma."

Shea's wish came true with the help of his daughter, Patricia Shea Ridlen, coordinator of the Houghs Neck Community Center.

Mrs. Ridlen wrote and explained the circumstances to the school

It was presented during a surprise party at the Ridlen home.

Family members on hand included Mrs. Ridlen, Jerry Shea Jr. of Quincy, Nancy Shea of North Weymouth, his grandchildren, Johnny, Jimmy, Pattie and Kelli Ridlen of Houghs Neck, Annette, Donna, Diane and Lynn Shea of West Quincy, Kristine, Nancy and Kathy Tangney of North Weymouth, and great grandchildren Rachael and Candice Ridlen of Bridgewater.

Shea, a resident of Granite Place Apartments, had a wonderful time at the party.

"He told me it was the happiest day of his life, except when he got married," said Mrs. Ridlen.

Orcutt Questions Asphalt Contract In City Council

City Councillor Frank N. Orcutt disclosed that the National Contracting Co. of Somerville, which won a contract to supply Quincy with road building asphalt in 1940 at $5 a ton, was supplying the town of Norwood with the same material for $4.24 a ton.

"If the city could have received the same bid that has been offered in Norwood," Orcutt told the Council, "we could have saved $7,000 in a year on 10,000 tons or, in other words, we could have saved the entire cost of our purchasing department for a year."

But the Council, by voice vote, killed Orcutt's proposal that a five-man committee be appointed to investigate the black top contracts and instead voted to have Mayor Thomas S. Burgin and Purchasing Agent John I. Lane appear before the Council to explain them.

OLD COLONY UNIMPORTANT

Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring told Cong. Richard B. Wigglesworth that the "maintenance of the Old Colony Railroad is not of military importance to the United States" in spite of the Fore River Shipyard and the Hingham Ammunition Depot in its area.

Secretary E. J. MacFwan of the Quincy Chamber of Commerce, who had been leading the fight to keep the railroad open, fired back a letter accusing the secretary of indifference and ignorance.

HOUGHS NECK PROTESTS

The Houghs Neck Improvement Association made plans to appeal to city officials to halt the practice of the Quincy Welfare Department of relocating families on relief in low rent sections of Houghs Neck where summer cottages had been converted into year round residences.

"We are seeking to improve the community," said President Harold C. Shaw, "and it retards the progress of the community to have many of these welfare families placed here."

Starting time is 6:15 p.m. from the Vocational Technical School parking area. The parade will proceed to Veterans Memorial Stadium on Hancock St. where a brief Flag Day observance will be conducted. Although sponsored by the Koch Club for over 30 years and primarily a parade of recreational organizations, boy scouts, girl scouts and camp fire girls, adult units are urged to join in this "Salute to Old Glory" with some 1,500 boys and girls. Each boy and girl participating in the parade is provided with 12-inch by 18-inch U.S. flags to carry in the line of march and keep as a memento. The Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and the Quincy City Club donate the hundreds of flags provided to the parade participants. Color Guards from the Quincy Police and Fire Departments annually lead the colorful event and are joined by units of the U.S. Army, Navy, Marines, Air Force and National Guard as well as units of the George F. Bryan VFW Post. All participants must be registered and be assigned to a place in the line of march. Organizations interested in further information may contact parade coordinator Richard J. "I'm justifiably proud of my volunteers," said Miss Hassan. "They truly exemplify the meaning of the word 'sharing' in everything they do."

FIRST AID FOR SCALDS

First aid for scalds is the same as first aid for other burns. For minor scalds or those confined to a small area, soak the burn in cold water. Usually in a few minutes, the pain will diminish and the redness will fade. The objective is to cool the skin.

Cold water stops the destruction of tissue that can continue long after the burn is inflicted. However, too much cold to large areas of the body can bring the body temperature down to dangerous levels, causing shock.

For more serious scalds involving large areas of the body, wipe off the scalding liquid with a towel or other cloth soaked with cold water. Also, remove soaked clothing that is not stuck to the skin. Seek medical treatment as soon as possible.

Better than first aid, though, is not getting burned. Remember, anytime you're careless around hot liquids, you're playing with "fire."

204 New Voters Sign Up At Quincy High

The Social Studies Department and students at Quincy High School recently held their 10th annual voter registration day adding 204 new voters to the registration list in 90 minutes.

Thousands across the state have been registered since 1973 when students were given the right to petition their local registrar to conduct voter registration sessions at high schools.

At Quincy High School

the voter registration process is not simply a matter of giving students an opportunity to appear and be registered. It is part of a social studies class project.

Students who are or will be 18 years old this year were identified by George Smith's social studies class using the school computer system.

"These students were targeted for a mailing," said Smith. "The mailing encourages them to register and students follow up with a personal contact to identify the place and time of the mass registration."

"I want to take responsibility to be involved in the community," said Suzanne Picard of West Quincy. The daughter of School Committee Vice Chairman Joan Picard, Suzanne will be 18 on May 25.

"This process has been extremely successful," said

Ron Iacobucci of Quincy, the author of the original student voter registration bill in 1973.

"It is not just good government but a tremendous educational tool and learning experience for the students to put this kind of a campaign together.

"These voter registration sessions are a first step toward involvement in the democratic process."

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK.

Donald M. Deware
Director

Americans have celebrated Memorial Day for over 100 years. It is a reverent day; a day of gratitude and prayer for our fallen countrymen who fell to preserve freedom and honor of their country. Those who died in our wars did so in the unfulfilled hope their sacrifice would bring enduring peace.

Memorial Day is a proper time for all of us to dedicate ourselves to peaceful purposes in our world wide relationships. It can be done. God's help and guidance is available. We need only ask for it. With His help, internal and external problems can be solved. Strength, wisdom and courage can be ours to meet every challenge and reach solutions for the betterment of our country and mankind everywhere.

Memorial Day is a perfect time to realize our potential for peace with a prayer that never again will we have to praise the valor of our fighting men in any future war.

Roger Williams Sermon Topic At Squantum Church

"Roger Williams: Pioneer of Religious Liberty" was the sermon at the early service of the First Church of Squantum Sunday morning.

This colonial Christian leader had to flee from Puritan persecution in Massachusetts in 1636.

Trudging through the deep mid-winter snows, he and his family made their way to Rhode Island where among the Narragansett Indians, he established a settlement in which there was complete separation of church and state, and real religious liberty.

He called this new place "Providence" because they had reached it by the providence of God.

There too, he was baptized as an adult upon the profession of his Christian faith and he organized the first Baptist church in America. Williams' idea of religious liberty was later extended to others when, after the American Revolution, it was incorporated into the Bill of Rights added to the constitution of the new American government.

Text for the morning was Jesus' teaching, "... render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's." (Luke 20:25bb)

Young people in the church were particularly interested in this story because a number of them and the pastor will be going to Providence at the end of June to attend a national gathering of Christian youth and youth leaders.

Mary Ruth Scott provided the music for the service with her guitar. Marci Hurd and Blythe Bumpus were ushers. Susan Scott and Hazel Mayne were in charge of refreshments.

During the second service, the church pastor, Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, preached on the subject "Tender Mercies," basing his talk on the recently acclaimed film of that same name.

In that service, the Chancel Choir sang "Lord, for They Tender Mercies' Sake" by Richard Farrant. Hymns for the service included "Praise to the Lord, the Almighty," "O Beautiful for Spacious Skies," "When All They Mercies, O My God" and "There's a Wideness in God's Mercy."

The Junior Choir sang "Let There Be Peace on Earth" by Sy Miller and Jill Jackson at both services. They were accompanied by Mary Ruth Scott on the piano and James E. Sumner on the violin.

Greeters were Jennie and Isabel Preston, Ralph Dougherty and Tore Wallin were ushers at the second service. The Fellowship Hour was hosted by Millie Johnson and Ginny Galarneau.

This Sunday, both in celebration of the arrival of the Tall Ships and as a part of the church's annual tradition, the church will celebrate "Sailing Sunday."

Members of the congregation are invited to come to the service dressed as if they were going on board some kind of a sea-going vessel. Children are urged to bring their sailboats.

The Shipboard Breakfast will begin at 9:15 a.m. in Fellowship Hall. The menu includes orange juice, scrambled eggs, ham, home fries, muffins and a beverage. Reservations can be made by calling the church office at 328-6649.

The service, which will be on a nautical theme, is open to the public but people who sail, ride in or row any kind of boat or who like to go on cruises are particularly welcome.

After Sailing Sunday, the schedule of special services for the next few weeks at the First Church of Squantum includes Pentecost, June 10, with the service being led by the young people of the church; and Father's Day (breakfast), June 17. On both of these days there will be only one service beginning at 10:30 a.m. On Father's Day, when there is a breakfast, serving will begin at 9:15 a.m.

The summer schedule of services will begin on June 24 at 9:30 a.m.

Take care of your own funeral arrangements now. So your family won't have to later.

By not taking care of your own funeral in advance, you force someone close to you to do it for you.

For the person who accepts the responsibility, making arrangements at the time of need is likely to be filled with uncertainties. The uncertainty of not knowing what you really wanted. Your personal preferences. Perhaps, a favorite dress or suit. A special prayer. A clergyman with whom you are

The kindest thing you can do for your family is make your own funeral arrangements far in advance of need. That way, everybody will know the kind of funeral you would like to have.

Steve MacDonald:

His Art Brightens Housing, Changes Life

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

For some people, the turning point in their lives occurs when they get a lucky break or are at the right place at the right time.

But for others, like Steve MacDonald of Germantown, it's the opposite type of situation that aims their lives in a new direction.

MacDonald, 20, who had been a "bad kid" growing up but artistically talented, decided to cover some graffiti with a mural on a seawall behind the Oceanview apartments in Germantown.

Local residents, who thought he was vandalizing the wall, called police.

MacDonald, a red-headed young man with blue eyes, was brought into the office of Housing Authority director John (Jake) Comer. But instead of doling out punishment, Comer gave MacDonald something else - encouragement.

"Mr. Comer said the mural was good," says MacDonald. "Even the police liked it."

"I knew he was one of my problem children," says Comer. "I called him in and asked him what he wanted to do."

With Comer's help, MacDonald not only completed the mural on the seawall but began brightening up Quincy's elderly housing with his art work.

MacDonald created a mural at O'Brien Towers depicting Germantown in 1726.

"The people loved me and loved my work," smiles MacDonald. "They'd sit and watch. They made me feel good."

Then MacDonald got a commission from the arts council to paint a mural at 80 Clay St.

He started working one night at 8:30 p.m. on another historical mural and by 10 a.m. the next day had a good deal of it done to the surprise and delight of Clay St. residents.

"The best part is seeing it develop," says MacDonald, who explains that an artistic mood impelled him to work through the night.

"It's like when you're hungry, you have to eat," explains MacDonald.

"I put a lot of feeling into the paintings," says MacDonald. "I put myself into the time period that I'm painting."

MacDonald says he decided to paint historic Quincy because a lot of people don't know what the city used to look like years ago.

Next on the agenda is an historic painting of the shipyard and Faxon Park at Martensen St. Housing.

But also among his plans is a new direction for his life.

"I had trouble in school," admits MacDonald, "I didn't graduate from high school."

He even served some time in the Dedham House of Correction. While he was there, he painted nautical scenes on the jail walls.

"I hope I never see that place again," says MacDonald. "I want to put it all behind me."

"I'm grown up. I'm no kid anymore. I want to make something of myself, to start out new, fresh."

"I'd like to travel, to see the world. There's more than just Germantown. There's a whole world."

"I can do something with my life. I've followed a green arrow. It said go. It's good and I'm still following

MacDonald would like to save some money and attend art school. He is also going to operate a landscaping company in the spring, as well as continue with his painting.

But MacDonald feels his life wouldn't be going in the direction it is if it weren't for Comer's encouragement.

"I owe a lot to Jake Comer," says MacDonald. "He got me started."

"He's my friend now. He's also like a father to me."

Comer replies, "We have a good relationship. He's an outstanding talent."

"If I can straighten out one kid like Steve, the job's been worthwhile."

Dr., Mrs. Karp Endow $1 M Chair At Tufts

Dr. and Mrs. David Karp of Boynton Beach, Fla., have endowed the Dr. David and Leona F. Karp professorship in pediatrics at Tufts University School of Medicine.

Dr. Karp, a Tufts medical graduate who practiced 45 years in Quincy, announced his $1 million gift at the medical school's annual alumni weekend. It was his 50th reunion.

The gift will create a stable financial base for the department of pediatrics, proving a salary for a department head in perpetuity and supporting a number of other departmental needs.

"We hoped that by making this gift, we'd be able to convince other people to do a little more for the medical school," said Dr. Karp.

A Cabbage Patch Doll For Tracey

Some things are just meant to be.

Eleven-year-old Tracey Nickerson, daughter of Virginia Nickerson of 53 Cleaves St., Wollaston, had asked for a Cabbage Patch doll for her recent birthday.

Try as they might, her parents were unable to find one of the coveted dolls.

But two days later, Tracey was the delighted winner of "Margaret Ann," a Cabbage Patch doll, in a drawing held by the Welcome Wagon Club of Weymouth.

The doll was handmade by Cathy Lukas for the drawing among 300 ticket holders.

Wollaston Man Boosts Cape Verde Language

A Wollaston man is helping the University of Massachusetts at Boston to become the national center for the language and culture of the Cape Verde Islands.

Dr. Richard W. Newman is director of the Title VII program and Bilingual-ESL Graduate Studies, which recently received a $330,000 federal grant to aid new immigrants to New England.

The grant provides for tuition-free training for 40 bilingual education instructors in four minority languages—Cape Verdean, Portuguese, Franco-American and Haitian.

A Southeast Asian component will be added to aid local school systems which have had an influx of Laotian, Cambodian and Vietnamese students, said Dr. Newman.

The grant includes provision for a linguistic analysis of the creole spoken in the Cape Verde Islands, an unwritten language that is a mixture of Portuguese and African languages.

"There are two ways you can go in spelling," said Dr. Newman. "You can make it resemble an African language or make it resemble Portuguese. There are advantages and disadvantages to both.

"We have distributed questionnaires down in Cape Verde and among local Capeverdeans asking for their reactions. The Capeverdean government is very much interested in this."

Dr. Newman said such research could establish UMass-Boston as the national center for the Capeverdean language and culture in the United States.

Johnston Hails Return Of Broad Meadows Marsh

Robert L. Johnston, a candidate for the City Council from Ward 1, says he is very pleased that the state is going to return 109 acres of open space marsh land in Broad Meadows to the city.

"I have been following this situation closely over the past several months and am very pleased that the state is going to deed this important acreage back to the city," he said.

Johnston called the area, which will be placed under the supervision of the Conservation Commission, "an ideal study place and passive recreation area."

He has opposed any changes in the city's open space areas.

Johnston pointed out that on the seaward side, the marsh is covered with salt water marsh grasses, while on the land side, there are giant reeds.

"The marshes closest to Town River are important natural resources," he said, "because they are rich in food which is important for fish."

He said he also believes the acreage to be a valuable educational resource.

"Broad Meadows can be a living laboratory for the young people of our city,"

Johnston said he wants to make certain that the Conservation Commission will take an active role in the preservation of the entire area.

"We need a definite plan that will guarantee that the Broad Meadows marshes are supervised properly," he said. "The tidal ditches must be cared for so they will benefit the fish."

130 Receive Degrees At ENC 62nd Commencement

At the 62nd annual commencement exercises of Eastern Nazarene College Monday, on the lawn of the campus, 130 undergraduate degrees were awarded including 12 Associate of Arts, 76 Bachelor of Arts, and 42 Bachelor of Science.

The ceremonies included musical selections by the ENC Concert Band and the A Cappella Choir.

The commencement address was delivered by Dr. Paul E. Toms, Senior Pastor of Park Street Church in Boston.

Using the biblical account of Joshua and the Battle of Jericho as a background, he reminded the members of the graduating class that they are called to be the servants of God. He noted that that call includes the challenge to leadership, which finds its expression in humble service. It also includes the expectation that the graduates develop themselves personally through communion with God and conformity to God's image.

And it includes preparation for action - action that is governed by the principle that we must do God's work in God's way.

Commencement weekend was highlighted by two other activities. The annual Alumni Banquet was held Saturday. Highlight of the banquet was the granting of the Alumnus of the Year Awards to Dr. Alvin Kauffman, Professor Emeritus of Philosophy at Eastern Nazarene College and Mrs. Hazel Lee of Pasadena, California. Mrs. Lee is a pastor's wife, an author, and former missionary to India.

Achievement Awards were presented to Rev. Howard Chambers, Senior Pastor of the Fairview Village Church of the Nazarene in Fairview Village, Pa. Captain Dudley Hathaway, Chaplain in the United States Navy, Ted Hobson, career diplomat with the Canadian Department of State, Dr. Virginia Greene Liska, Physician from Washington, D.C.

In addition, a special award was presented to Quincy resident, Mr. Wesley Angell, for a half century of service to Eastern Nazarene College Alumni Association.

Baccalaureate services were held Sunday morning at the Wollaston Church of the Nazarene, Dr. Stephen W. Nease, President of Eastern Nazarene College, brought the baccalaureate sermon. His message was based upon the words of Jesus in the Lord's Prayer,

"thy kingdom come."

Dr. Nease stressed the importance of Christians living out their faith in the every day affair of life.

FOUR GOOD REASONS TO ELECT BOB JOHNSTON WARD 1 CITY COUNCILOR

Adams Shore, Germantown,
Houghs Neck and Merrymount

Each of our neighborhoods is unique. Each has its own individual needs.

Because Bob Johnston understands each community in Ward 1, he's the right person to represent all of us.

WARD 1 ELECTION DAY
TUESDAY, JUNE 12

Local 444 Pneumatic Scale Scholarship Fund Successful

The Mechanical and Allied Production Workers Union, Local 444 at Pneumatic Scale announces that employees have contributed in record numbers to this year's student scholarship fund.

Local 444 and Pneumatic Scale management this year introduced a payroll deduction plan for the scholarship fund. Thus far, 50 percent of the employees have contributed an average of 50 cents per week. The total collected this year will be close to $5,000.

The catalyst for this year's success was the first prize in a drawing for those employees contributing to the scholarship fund. First prize was a night at the Bruins hockey game with Bobby Orr.

Orr is well known for his contributions to youth activities and was eager to participate when asked by Ron Iacobucci.

This year's drawing prize winner, Ernie Langthorne, is so committed to supporting the scholarship fund that he recently donated the $100 that was collected by Pneumatic Scale employees when his father died.

The scholarship fund, initiated by Local 444 in 1981, will award two scholarships for $1000 and $800 in June. Students eligible must have a parent that works at Pneumatic Scale and receive the highest score on the AFL-CIO exam.

According to union official Charlie Colby, in an effort to promote community relations, the scholarship fund will award a $200 scholarship to a North Quincy High School student scoring the highest on the AFL-CIO exam.

"With the establishment of the trust fund our goal in five years is to self perpetuate the scholarships," Colby said.

Gregoire Endorses Johnston For Council

Robert L. Johnston, a candidate for the City Council from Ward 1, has received the endorsement of Mary Crowley Gregoire, one of the losing candidates in the May 15 primary.

"I am enthusiastic in my support of Bob Johnston," she said. "He is the most qualified of the two candidates and I will be very pleased to see him elected."

"Bob Johnston and I are very much alike in our thinking. I have every confidence that he will be an effective councillor for Ward 1.

She invited her supporters to attend a June 9 reception to meet Johnston.

North Needs Last 2 Wins To Qualify For Tourney

Going into Tuesday's game at Cambridge, the North Quincy baseball team had to win its last two games (or finish second in the Suburban League) to qualify for the Eastern Mass. tournament.

The Raiders finish up the regular season Friday night at 7 o'clock against non-league rival Milton at Adams Field.

Forced to win four of its last five games to qualify, North won the first two over Quincy and Brookline but last Tuesday fell to league champion Brockton, 4-3, making it necessary to win the last two.

John Comeau, after pitching a four-hit shutout over Quincy, pitched against Brockton with only two days rest and was wild early as the Boxers scored a run in the first and three in the second for a 4-0 lead. He settled down and blanked Brockton the rest of the way.

Meanwhile, the Raiders' bats were silent until Keith Smith hit a three-run double late in the game. However, North couldn't push across the tying run.

Comeau, who had missed several games, finished up with a seven-hitter and struck out five as he suffered his first loss after four wins.

Earlier in the week North had kept its tournament hopes alive with a 13-9 victory over Brookline.

Jack Bolster hit a bases-loaded triple in the fourth and finished up with four RBI to spark the win.

Steve Hogan picked up the win with four fine innings of relief. Steve Higgins had three hits, Mark Hubbard had four RBI and Brian Gibbons had two hits and an RBI.

"I feel we would have already clinched a tournament berth if we hadn't lost Comeau," said North coach Charlie Bunker. "I think he would have won a couple of games that we lost."

Quincy Girls Win N.E. Volleyball Crowns

Quincy girls won both the 13-and-under and 15-and-under New England Junior Volleyball championships held recently at North Quincy High School.

The 13-and-under FATE (Future Athletes Training for Excellence) team, coached by Chris Prendiville, had qualified a week earlier for the New England by placing second to Merrimack Valley in the state championships.

Quincy defeated the two top Connecticut teams from Meriden and Winstad to place in the N.E. finals against its nemesis, Merrimack Valley.

Led by the serving of Eileen Campbell and Erin Murray, Quincy took a long first game, 15-13, thanks to some fine defensive saves by Angela Venezia and Denise Marnell.

Merrimack stormed back, taking Quincy by surprise and winning easily, 15-1.

Quincy put everything it had physically and emotionally into the third and deciding game and, thanks to the setting of Barbara Carroll and the hitting of Capt. Christine Venezia and Amy Guidice, Quincy won, 15-9, for the championship.

All the Quincy players are students at Central Middle School and several will be representing New England at the zonal and national championships on an all-star team.

Quincy's 15-and-under FATE team, coached by Jim Rendle, had qualified for the New England by winning the state crown a week earlier.

Quincy also defeated two Connecticut teams in this division and the Merrimack team to gain the finals against Merrimack.

Merrimack had finished second to Quincy in the states.

Behind the defensive play of Lauren Standing and Terry Duggan and the offensive play of Pam Austin and Capt. Mario LeVangie, Quincy took the first game, 15-5.

The second game resembled a marathon with the lead changing hands many times. The game ends at 15 points if a team is leading by two points. The game went on for 20 minutes with neither team able to gain the advantage.

Susan Parry, Chris Zupkofska and Ginny Duggan, Terry's twin sister, kept the game alive and some key plays by LeVangie led to an eventual 21-19 victory.

All the Quincy players are students at Quincy High School and LeVangie, the Duggan twins, Austin and Standing will be playing at the zonal and national Junior Olympic champions representing New England.

Mullen Leads Quincy Runners In 'Police Chase'

Several members of the Quincy Police Department competed in the recent 7th annual 'Police Chase' 6.8-mile road race starting at the State Police Academy in Framingham.

There were more than 300 runners from New England, New York and New Jersey. Lt. Frank Mullen was the first Quincy finisher, placing 51st overall in 45:19 and finishing second in the senior division.

Steve O'Brien was 109th in 50:12, Lt. John Mulligan was 130th in 52:21 and was the third finisher in the senior division. John Kelley was 174th in 54:56, Mike Riley 178th in 55:04.

Kevin Williams 197th in 56:03 and Jack Sullivan finished in 59:56.

Raiderettes Upset Brockton, 5-3

The North Quincy girls' softball team has not had the best of seasons, but Mary Pratt's Raiderettes turned in one of their better efforts of the year last week and upset Suburban League leader Brockton, 5-3, improving their record to 6-8.

The North girls finished their season Tuesday against Cambridge Rindge and Latin.

Freshman Ann Anderlionis, one of the most pleasant surprises in a disappointing season, pitched her fifth win against Brockton. She pitched a five-hitter, struck out three and walked only two.

Brockton took a 1-0 lead in the second but North tied it in the third when Ann Duggan singled and scored on Anderlionis' double. North went ahead in the fourth with two runs. Mary Holleran singled and scored on Sheila Graham's triple. Graham scored on an error.

Brockton tied it with two in the sixth and the game went into extra innings. The Raiderettes won it in the eighth when Ann Sousa reached on an error and Holleran and Cheryl Murphy singled.

Anderlionis, Holleran, Graham and Kerry Gannon had two hits each.

Earlier in the week the North Quincy and Brookline girls slugged it out and combined for 32 hits as North dropped a 17-16 decision, despite a tremendous rally in the fifth inning.

Brookline rolled to a 12-2 lead after four innings but the Raiderettes exploded for 14 runs in a wild fifth on seven hits, six walks and four errors to take a 16-12 lead.

Connolly, who took over on the mound for Lisa Ventola, held Brookline in check in the fifth but took the loss when she gave up five runs in the sixth.

Anderlionis and Carolyn O'Reilly led North's 19-hit attack with three apiece.

For Quincy Girls It Was A Nice Surprise

When the Quincy girls' softball team opened the season, Coach Barbara Webster was hopeful but not overly optimistic with only one senior and a small turnout.

And, after the opening game, an 11-10 loss to Boston Latin, a game Quincy should never have lost, things didn't look any better.

But the First Ladies went on to compile an 11-6 record, tie for second place in the Suburban League and qualify for the Eastern Mass. Tournament with a 10-7 victory last Thursday over Waltham. The First Ladies finished 8-4 in the league.

"This is the biggest surprise of my life," said Miss Webster. "The opening loss was one of the worst we've ever had and I said to myself, 'This is awful.' But after we beat East Boston, always a tough team, in our second game, I thought that maybe we have something here.

"It all came together at the same time for us. We began to hit and Kathy Thornton did some outstanding pitching. She had an excellent season. And it seemed we made the plays when we needed them."

One of the keys to Quincy's success was an earlier 11-9 victory over Waltham when the First Ladies overcame a 7-0 deficit.

Beth Veneto easily won the league batting title with an average of over .600.

Thornton got off to a bad start against Waltham as she gave up five runs on four hits in the first inning. But she settled down and gave up only five hits and two runs in the fourth inning the rest of the way.

Quincy came back with four runs in the first and four more in the second as Chris Cucinatta had a bases loaded triple in the first and a two-run single in the second. Debbie Herron, who went 3-for-3, also had an RBI single in the second.

Waltham moved within a run with its two runs in the fourth but Quincy made it 9-7 in the bottom half on Thornton's bases-loaded walk and added an insurance run in the sixth when Karen Farnes, who made an outstanding running catch in the last inning, walked, stole second and scored thanks to some alert base running and a throwing error.

The previous day the Quincy girls had nearly thrown away their tournament chances when they lost a 12-2 lead but pulled out a 13-12 win over Newton North.

Quincy led, 12-2, going into the seventh when Newton sent 15 batters to the plate and, using eight hits, three errors and two walks, exploded for 10 runs to tie the score.

But in the bottom of the inning Cucinatta singled, Herron reached on an error and Colleen Phillips and Eames walked to force in the winning run.

Herron had five RBI and Eames and Veneto each had home runs.

Unearned Run Eliminates QHS From State Tournament

Lefty Russ Forbush allowed one unearned run, the first run scored on the Quincy High School baseball team in three games, but it was enough to give Norwood a 1-0 victory and eliminate the Presidents from consideration for the Eastern Mass. Scholastic Tournament.

North Girls Lose Bid For Class B Title

The North Quincy girls' track team, undefeated Surburban League champion, failed in its quest for the Eastern Mass. Class B championship last Saturday, but made another fine showing at Lawrence.

The Raiderettes finished second to their perennial nemesis, Falmouth; Falmouth scored 56 points to North's 40. North has never defeated Falmouth outdoors.

Once again Eileen Crehan was the outstanding performer for North, breaking the meet record in the javelin with a phenomenal throw of 164-3, also a New England record. She turned in this great effort in the third round and proved it was no fluke as she equalled it in the fifth round. Georgia Traficante, usually right behind Crehan, had trouble with the cross winds and had to settle for third place at 118-6. It was the first time she had finished behind anyone but teammate Crehan.

finished sixth in the 880 and Diane Lindenfelzer was third in the mile at 5:16.6, her best time ever.

Noreen Connolly took fifth in the discus and the mile relay team of Crehan, Teresa Collings, Kelleher and Laura Cuila finished sixth in 4:16.2, thanks to two quick legs by Collings (53.1) and Crehan (62.1).

"We ran well, threw well and we were ready, but Falmouth had too much strength in the jumps and relays," said a happy North coach Jeff Hennessy. "We were leading going into the relays and our kids ran their best times of the year, so we did our job. Peter Chrisom and Mike Burke did a super job preparing everyone for the big meets and we still have a chance in the all-state meet Saturday at Boston College.

"The throw of Crehan was the second best in the country this year. I asked her in April if she felt 160 feet was a possibility and she said yes. And she can possibly throw even farther. The wind was from the right side and didn't really help and the footing was not the best, but Eileen is such a good athlete. Who knows what's ahead for her? She is six feet shy of qualifying for the Olympic trials and she did it twice."

Crehan's two super efforts qualify her for the senior TAC nationals in Los Angeles but Hennessy will have her compete in the New England High School championships Saturday.

"She'll have lots of time to compete in the TAC nationals in the future," Hennessy said.

Quincy Girls Finish Long, Hard Season

Despite a triple win by Mary Lou Wirtz, the Quincy High girls' track team finished a winless season (one tie) last week when it lost to Newton North, 75-42. Wirtz finished an outstanding season in brilliant fashion when she won the long jump (15-8), the 100 (12.6) and the 220 (28-1). Quincy, hampered this spring by inexperience (only one senior) and a lack of depth, had three other winners, Cindy Morrell, the lone senior, in the discus (78-8 1/2), Sharon Steen in the 800 (7:39.7), and the 4 x 110 relay team of Jennifer Golden, Mary Kelly, Steen and Kris Mullaney (59.8). Quincy second place finishers were Morrell, shot put; Golden, discus; and Kim Kelly, javelin. Finishing third were Mullaney, mile; Golden, 440, and Patti Wright, hurdles. Every member of the team except Morrell was only a sophomore. With the experience gained by these girls this season and the addition of more girls next season, the First Ladies should do much better and hold their own with some of the Suburban League teams. Wirtz led the scorers with 79 points, followed by Morrell, 57; Steen, 35 1/2; Mullaney, 25 1/2; Golden, 15 1/2; Wright, 12; Laurie Pitts, 12; Kim Kelly, 8 1/2; Julie Coste, 8; Janice Libby, 6; Jill Fitzgerald, 5; Chris Zupkofska, 4 1/2; Mary Kelly, 3 1/2; Kim Ellis, 2 1/2; and Tina Calabro, one. Ralph Koelsch and John Franceschini coached the Quincy squad.

Marcy Cunniff Shines On Florida Tennis Courts

Quincy's Marcy Cunniff, a third-year member of the women's tennis team at the University of South Florida, is having another outstanding season as she hopes to make the NCAA doubles and singles teams and be named an All-American.

Marcy is having an excellent season in both singles and in doubles with her partner, Rachel Stanton.

The Quincy player's game has come together for her. Coach, Sherry Bedingfield says, "Her success is our success."

"She's been playing extremely well since the second week in March. She has an outstanding record."

Cunniff attributes her improved play to the fact that her team is on the verge of making the NCAA Nationals this year.

"We're so close to making the nationals," she said. "I guess I'm going all out now and I'm very motivated and determined to finish out the year well. We haven't made the nationals since I've been here and this year I think we have it."

In terms of her skills, she said that her net play has improved and her mental toughness has increased.

"I've developed a lot more shots and I have more of an all-around game," she said. "I usually have a game plan when I walk on to the court."

"She's got her game organized in her mind as to what she's going to do and when she's going to do it on the court," Bedingfield said of her No. 4 singles player.

A few years ago Marcy and her older sister, Chris, teamed in doubles and earned a ranking of ninth nationally in the girls' 18-and-under.

Marcy said she began playing tennis at the age of 11 when Chris got her started. From there, she competed in both singles and doubles, grabbing national rankings in both before entering the U. of South Florida.

Chris, who is two years older, decided to play tennis at Rollins College, where she starred for two years before getting married. She is now an instructor at a Weymouth tennis club owned by her husband.

Marcy said she chose USF because she heard that Bedingfield was an outstanding coach and thought she could help her with her game.

"This team has so much depth," Marcy said of the Brahmins, ranked 18th in the country. "We have a lot of team spirit and support. You have to have team spirit and that's going to get us far."

"Marcy is an outstanding team player and I'm very privileged to have her playing at Number 4," Bedingfield said.

"She is a very dedicated coach," Marcy said of Bedingfield.

A business management major, Marcy said she would like to try the pro circuit after college "to see what I can do. But, if I don't make it, I'd like to teach tennis, manage a club or start my own business."

QUINCY SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA, conducted by Robert E. Brown, takes a bow during its annual Pops Concert series at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

QSO's 'A Little Night Music' A Great Big Hit

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The gentle elegance of the Quincy Neighborhood Club came alive with "A Little Night Music" recently as the Quincy Symphony Orchestra concluded its 30th season with its three night Pops Concert series.

It was hard to rival the beautiful spring weather outdoors at the final performance last Thursday, but the orchestra not only did so but topped it with the annual event.

The two-and-a-half hour program raneed from Moussorgsky's "Night on Bald Mountain" to John Williams' "Star Wars".

Audience members varied from youngsters like Andy, 6, and Matthew Thompson, 9, of Milton who kept time to the music by imitating conductor Robert E. Brown, to loyal season ticket holders such as Mrs. Alice Marshall of North Quincy and Mrs. Edna Coletti of Wollaston.

"The concert is wonderful and so is the conductor," said Mrs. Coletti, who wore a smart spring hat with a pink flower, and echoed the sentiments of other concert-goers such as Mayor and Mrs. Francis McCauley.

Many of the orchestra members reflected in their dress the lightness of the program by straying from their usual black and white formal attire and donning more brightly colored outfits.

Residents of Quincy as well as communities such as Hyde Park, Jamaica Plain and Hull sipped cocktails and soft drinks and enjoyed snacks at tables of 10 as they listened to works such as "The Torcador's March" from Carmen and "In Town Tonight" from "London Suite".

An arrangement of the popular "Memory" from the musical "Cats" was especially well presented with a number of strings and woodwinds.

"Send in the Clowns" was followed by a sing-along which included songs such as "April Showers" and "Once in Love with Amy".

Elaine Baker drew sustained applause after a lovely flute solo during Moliere's "Concerto for Flute and Orchestra, Op. 69", and was presented a bouquet of flowers.

Principal cello Bruce Randall entertained the audience not only with his musical ability but also with his delightful sense of humor during intermissions as he announced winners in a drawing held by the symphony guild.

Remarkably, the orchestra had only three rehearsal sals for the Pops Concerts, according to the conductor, who wore white tie and tails.

"We've had good feedback from the audience," said Brown. "It's a more relaxed atmosphere. We've been sold out every night."

The other concerts during the year are held at North Quincy High School, explained Brown, and include more serious pieces.

Brown, conductor for a total of 16 years, said the Quincy Symphony attracts a number of season ticket holders at the Pops Concerts.

This past season has had the greatest number of subscribers yet, said Brown, who is already looking forward to a bigger and better 31st season including a piano soloist at the first concert.

The Pops concert concluded with a rousing rendition of the traditional "Stars and Stripes Forever" which had audience members clapping along and finally rising to their feet.

It was evident by the smiles on the faces of Pops-goers as they left the Neighborhood Club that they had had a wonderful evening. But did orchestra members get to have as much fun?

"Oh, yes, the Pops is the most fun of all," smiled Louise Quinlan of Weymouth as she put her flute in its case and walked into the warm spring night.

WEEK OF: MAY 31

AQUARIUS — January 21-February 19
Your elegance and sparkle make you the center of attention through the weekend. Starting Monday, however, confusion on the part of others slows down your own progress.

PISCES — February 20-March 20
Decorating is accented. Your ideas are innovative and your sense of style impressive. In spheres of romance and friendship, opt for a more realistic approach.

ARIES — March 21-April 20
Money-making opportunity opens up but don't act on impulse. Travel or romance is featured though probably not in tandem. Leadership qualities lead to success on Tuesday-Wednesday.

TAURUS — April 21-May 22
You excel in practical matters, but academic pursuits require a more concentrated effort. Relatives are demanding on your time. Platonic friendship is spotlighted on weekend.

GEMINI — May 23-June 21
Travel ideas are bright, but be certain they're practical — and be sure you and your companion have similar objectives. Romantic discussion can lead to a decision by Wednesday.

CANCER — June 22-July 22
Not the week to stand on ceremony. Make your move — even if it's your partner's turn. You excel in the role of coordinator. The functions you host are sure winners.

LEO — July 23-August 22
Money-making opportunity appears on horizon. There may be real promise here, but collect all the facts. Relationship benefits from a mix of humor and sentimentality.

VIRGO — August 23-September 22
It's important to take your criticism, your praise, and your ideas to the appropriate people. Personal relationship benefits from frank discussion. Science and research favored on weekend.

LIBRA — September 23-October 22
Hints of improved lifestyle change begin to appear this week. Friend is eager to confide in you; be prepared for a surprise. Children can teach you a lesson in relationships.

SCORPIO — October 23-November 21
You're surprisingly, refreshingly outspoken this week. Social engagements are more offset than anticipated. Work relationships show steady signs of improvement.

SAGITTARIUS — November 22-December 22
Romantic dilemma is not completely solved, so don't take everything for granted. Instincts are strong regarding professional matters. Communication problem officially ends after weekend.

CAPRICORN — December 23-January 20
Pleasant social opportunity is knocking — pay close attention. Family members provide moral support when you need it most. Be ready to reciprocate — likely on Tuesday-Wednesday.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
Ahead of your time and forever a student of life, you're unpredictable, imaginative, and very witty. Acting on emotions is fine, but add more than a dash of commonsense and learn from experience. Conflict between family matter and career can be resolved early in the fall.

BORN THIS WEEK
May 31st, actor Don Ameche. June 1st, actor Cleavon Little. 2nd, actor Stacy Keach. 3rd, actor Tony Curtis. 4th, actor Dennis Weaver. 5th, director Tony Richardson. 6th, conductor Herman Norman.

Cerasoli Announces For 6th Term

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli, pleading to continue the fight for reform in the State Legislature, has announced his candidacy for reelection to a sixth term from Quincy Point-Weymouth district.

"For 10 years I have worked hard to represent the people of Quincy and Weymouth," he said. "I intend to continue that fight."

Cerasoli, a strong supporter of rule reform in the House, has been active for Rep. George Keveian in his fight against House Speaker Thomas McGee.

Cerasoli, who was first elected in 1974, has compiled a 96.87 per cent attendance for more than 5,050 roll call votes over the 10 years.

"But being at the State House, day in and day out, voting on issues is not enough," he said.

"To be a truly effective state representative, one must sometimes take controversial positions and one must get legislation passed for one's constituents."

"I feel I've done all these things and will continue to do so."

As chairman of the House Committee on Ethics, Cerasoli co-sponsored and co-authored legislation that became one of the strongest state ethics laws in the country.

He was also instrumental in passage of laws providing mandatory prison sentences for drug dealers, raising the drinking age, clearing the way for the death penalty in certain murder cases and increasing the homesteading protection for home owners.

Cerasoli has been chairman of the Ethics Committee since 1979, was a member of the House Ways and Means Committee for four years and also serves a vice chairman of the House Committee on Election Laws.

A licensed stock broker, he is a member of the National Conference of State Legislatures, the Community College Association of the South Shore, the Fraternal Order of Eagles, the Sons of Italy and the Knights of Columbus.

He and his wife JoAnn and their son Robert II, live in Quincy Point.

Court Action, Summer Sessions?

day.

"I can see the city returning to the foolish days of the mid and late 70s and early 80s when we saw it's financial credit go down the drain," he said. "I hope to see the credit rating advance. This is not helping the city."

"It is unfortunate," said Sheets, "that the Mayor has lowered himself to the point of attacking me and other councillors personally. I'm not going to get involved in cheap political rhetoric as we debate this important issue over the next weeks and months."

"The mayor failed to get his budget and his overlay deficit plans through the City Council. I find it amazing that he is blaming me and the City Council for not doing what he couldn't do himself."

"This issue is not going to be won or lost in the Solicitor's office or in the Mayor's office. It is going to be won or lost out there in the hearts and minds of the people of Quincy."

The overlay deficit to which Sheets referred involves $2.5 million that General Dynamics legally withheld in its tax case against the city. It was wiped out when General Dynamics won the case but the city still carries it on the books as an anticipated receipt.

McCauley had proposed to remove it from the books at the rate of $250,000 a year for 10 years but Sheets and other councillors feel that is too fast and expensive and the money could be better used to fund more police and fire fighters.

The Council rejected McCauley's proposal at the Thursday special meeting but Sheets recessed the meeting before any action could be taken on other proposals.

The Council has also eyed the sum of $438,312 which is listed in McCauley's fiscal 1985 budget as "available for additional appropriation," McCauley says it is for emergencies. The council calls it a surplus.

"We are deeply concerned with what appears to be a widening gap philosophically between the Mayor and the City Council," said Sheets. "One of the Mayor's concerns is the preservation of the surplus. The Council's concern is to preserve public safety."

"I am not going to get preoccupied, as is the Mayor, with power and perogatives. The City Council is preoccupied with people."

Solicitor Rules Budget Passed By Default

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor Francis X. McCauley, heeding the advice of the City Solicitor Dean Nicastro, declared Tuesday that his $75.8 million budget for fiscal 1985 passed the City Council by default and will go into effect, uncut and unaltered, on July 1.

Nicastro ruled that the Council's action, taken May 24, in giving the mayor only enough money to run the city for the month of July "is annullity" since state law makes no provision for passage of anything but an annual budget.

Under state law, the Council must take action on the budget within 45 days of receipt from the mayor (in this case, June 1) or it goes into effect without Council approval.

McCauley said he is forwarding the $75.8 million budget to City Clerk John Gillis, who technically is an employee of the City Council, for certification and to be passed on to the City Auditor and City Treasurer for action in the new fiscal year.

Gillis, who is mandated by law to certify the budget but only if he agrees with Nicastro's opinion on its legality, said he plans to consult with Council President James A. Sheets and the State Bureau of Accounts before making a decision.

Sheets said he "is not at all surprised by the opinion given by the mayor's attorney," but he declined to comment on the Mayor's action until he read the text of Nicastro's opinion.

"Once again," he said, "it is not a legal issue. The issue is public safety. The mayor has refused properly to man the Police and Fire Departments."

The Council has maintained that the $13.9 million in McCauley's budget is not enough to fund the Police and Fire Departments at an adequate level of public safety and the Mayor has taken that as a challenge to his prerogatives as Mayor.

"The objective is not to win a legal victory," said Sheets. "The battle will be won or lost in the minds of the people who now, for the first time, are beginning to get the facts and as they read them they are responding."

A petition drive to urge

McCauley not to cut 13 positions from the Police and Fire budgets started Monday night and, said Sheets, "in two hours we obtained 1,100 signatures in a limited section of the city (North Quincy)."

Nicastro's opinion on the legality of the Council's action in passing a one-twelfth budget said, in part:

"Section 32 (of state law) requires the City Council to vote on the budget itself before it can take effect on a reduced basis. The Council...voted only on a motion to amend the Mayor's budget. As a result, the Council's vote... did not use the same classifications required for the annual budget in Section 32. It simply 'bottom-lined' an amount for each department without indicat-

30% Vote Forecast

Close Fight Seen In Ward 1

A close fight is expected in the special election of a city councillor from Ward 1 Tuesday but even that may not be enough to attract the voters in large numbers.

Robert Johnston, headmaster of the Woodward School for Girls, and Michael Cheney, a diesel mechanic for the MBTA, finished only eight votes apart in the May 15 preliminary election.

Only 34.6 per cent of the registered voters turned out for that election and City Clerk John Gillis estimates that only 30 per cent will show up at the polls this time.

"There is no great interest in the upper precincts (Merrymount and Quincy Center)," he said. "There are fewer candidates than there were in the primary and both of them are from Houghs Neck."

Gillis said the voting, counting and reporting should be all wrapped up by 9:30 p.m. or 10 p.m.

Johnston, 51, who lives at 46 Bay View Ave. in Precinct 6, topped the preliminary election ballot with 902 votes while Cheney, 30, of 94 Rock Island Rd. in Precinct 5, finished with 894.

More than 50 per cent of the vote turned out in Precinct 5 and 45 per cent in Precinct 6 but only 17 per cent showed up in Precinct 3 and 30 per cent in Precinct 1.

A total of 8,142 registered voters will be able to cast ballots Tuesday, an increase of exactly 100 over those registered for the preliminary. Registration closed May 23.

Most of the voters will be women, who outnumber men on the registration

MICHAEL CHENEY rolls in Ward 1 by 4,616 to 3,526.

The campaign has not been particularly exciting since neither candidate has been able to stake out an issue of his own on which the other disagreed

ROBERT JOHNSTON strongly.

Both Johnston and Cheney were strong vote-getters in the Houghs Neck precincts (5 and 6) in the preliminary election and the final result could hinge

Quincy Man Perishes In Tall Ship Sinking

A 47-year-old Quincy man lost his life Sunday when the 117-foot "tallship" Marquies was swamped in rough seas while racing from Bermuda to Nova Scotia.

The Coast Guard notified Mrs. Margaret McAleer of 124 Hamden Circle, Wollaston, early Monday that the body of her son, James F. McAleer, was recovered.

The Coast Guard said 18 other members of the crew, including skipper Stuart Finlay, his wife and their 15-month old son, were still missing. Nine crew members were rescued.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

Overflowing Sewers Have Homeowners In Tears

"It's a sad thing to see," said Tony Siciliano, "sewage coming up the cellar steps and people in tears."

Siciliano, who is the head of Quincy's Civil Defense forces, was out with crews of men most of the past weekend, pumping out cellars, even evacuating people from their homes. "In some places," he said, "raw sewage was coming out of the toilets and up the cellar stairs."

"In one house on Miller St., West Quincy, we had sandbags in the toilet and a two-by-four holding them down but it didn't do any good."

The culprit, of course, was the heavy rainfall that started on Memorial Day, May 28, and fell steadily until last Sunday, overwhelming the MDC's already inadequate sewer system.

Siciliano had 40 volunteers out in the city and five crews pumping out cellars. The pumps proved inadequate.

"I had four pumps in service and it was not enough," he said. "We need at least four more pumps and some smaller ones. We need a thousand more sandbags."

The problem was particularly acute in Southwest Quincy and along Furnace Brook Park way.

"One house on Willard St. had three feet of water in the basement," said City Councillor James A. Sheets. "The family had $2,000 worth of work on the cellar and the water was gushing in from the backyard. Three sump pumps hardly kept ahead of it."

Sheets agreed with Siciliano that the city needs more pumps.

"The city should be able to help people pump out their cellars to avoid damage," he said. "The Fire Department used to come out to help. But now there is not enough manpower in the Fire Department and it does not have the proper equipment."

A different problem presented itself on Viden Rd. on the slopes of Penn's Hill.

"Three houses had six to eight feet of water in the cellars," said Councillor Theodore P. DeCristofaro. "The water came down from Faxon Park."

"I'm going to get ahold of the Sewer, Water and Drain Department and ask them how many pumps we have, the sizes and the condition. There certainly are not enough to go around."

Board Reverses Decision, Grants Liquor License

The License Board voted 4-1 Tuesday to reverse its earlier decision and grant transfer of the license for Presidential Liquors from Quincy Sq. to Quincy Point.

Fire Chief Edward Barry was opposed.

Atty. Carl Johnson, who represented the liquor store owners, said the business will open up in about a month at the new Pilgrim Plaza, 22 Scammell St.

The board denied the request April 24 because of the number of liquor establishments in the ward. The applicants appealed the decision to the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission which remanded the matter to the local board with the recommendation the request be granted.

This week, ward councilor Theodore DeCristofaro sometimes angrily reiterated his opposition to granting of the license because of the number of such licenses in the ward.

"The board can't change its decision and be honest," insisted DeCristofaro.

The hearing had been continued from last week's meeting at the request of DeCristofaro who was concerned that abutters to the proposed location were not aware of the rehearing.

Johnson told the board this week that abutters were notified of the meeting.

Johnson also said the liquor store owners, who must move from the Elks Building because it is being sold, went door-to-door and solicited some 250 signatures from those in the Quincy Point area in favor of the new location, bringing the total in favor to 450.

The number of liquor licenses in the ward will not be increased, said Johnson, since the license transfer is within the same ward.

The store will not be open past 11 p.m., said Johnson, and one of two owners will always be on the premises.

Michael Zuker, developer of Pilgrim Plaza, was among those who spoke in favor of the request. He also said he will see that the back of the plaza is maintained.

De Cristofaro said that area resident Charles Martensen and his daughter, who opposed the request, had been receiving harassing phone calls, but he didn't believe the applicants were responsible.

DeCristofaro said that nothing has changed since the board denied the request.

"I feel sorry for the people in Ward 11 because another liquor license is being jammed down their throats."

"If this goes through, I don't think I would ever even bother to come up here again and oppose a liquor license, because I think this would be a travesty if this decision was reversed."

"It's a nice area now," said DeCristofaro, "but when this goes in you're going to see a lot more problems. I guarantee you that."

"I've lived in the area all my life," said City Clerk John Gillis, "and the names on the petition are of people who live there."

"I see nothing wrong with the request."

Police Chief Francis Finn, who made the motion to grant the license, explained that the ABCC legally ruled that the board couldn't use the same reasons if it again voted to deny the license.

Finn said he could find no other reason to deny the license, and praised the business as particularly well-run.

Health Commr. Dr. M. Grace Hussey seconded the motion and said the board should consider such requests in the ward on a case to case basis.

Dr. Hussey also suggested the board impress on the owners that minors are not to be served.

"I'm very, very disappointed," said DeCristofaro as he left the hearing.

FORMER CITY COUNCILLOR Leo Kelly addressed the Quincy Police Department during memorial services at Mt. Wollaston Cemetery. "We salute you, we congratulate you and we thank you," said Kelly.

City Council Okays Marina Land Swap

The City Council voted 7-0 Monday night to swap some 50,000 square feet of open space for a similar amount of planned unit development (PUD) land in Squantum to clear the way for a second access road to the Marina Bay Condominium development.

The Planning Board also approved the swap following a joint hearing with the Council last week.

But construction of the road is still some two years away since the crossing of Billings Creek still has to be approved by the Conservation Commission, the state department of Environmental Quality Engineering and other agencies.

Burglars Sought In Quincy Woman's Murder

NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Police are piecing together reports of house-breaks in the area in an effort to find the slayer of Mrs. Bertha Fishman, 69, of 64 Joan Drive, Quincy Center, who was beaten to death last week in the bedroom of her home.

There have been a number of breaks in the area between Furnace Brook Parkway and Adams St., including a house invasion May 25 on nearby Alrick Rd. in which a 52-year-old woman was threatened and her jewelry box stolen.

The invaders were described as white males, about 17 or 18 years old, wearing sneakers and dungarees and nylon stocking masks that distorted their faces.

Capt. David Rowell, head of the Quincy Police Detective Bureau, said Mrs. Fishman appeared to have been killed by burglars since a pane of glass over the latch on a bedroom window had been broken and a picnic table placed against the house.

Mrs. Fishman's body was discovered by her daughter, Mrs. Annette Sooper of Stoughton, who had tried to contact her mother by telephone without success and went to the house to investigate.

Medical Examiner Dr. William Ridder ruled that Mrs. Fishman was beaten to death with a blunt instrument sometime during the night of Tuesday, May 29. The death weapon was not found in the house, said Rowell.

Mrs. Fishman, who lived alone in the house in a well-to-do neighborhood, was the widow of Morris Fishman, former owner of Sher's Drug Store at Temple and Washington Sts., who died about 13 years ago.

Funeral services were held Friday at the Levin-Briss Funeral Home in Randolph.

She leaves two daughters, Cecile Herman and Annette Sooper; three brothers, R. F. S. Morris, Harold Morris and Herbert Morris, and eight grandchildren.

Readers Forum Urges Residents To Participate In 'Clear The Bay Day'

Editor, the Quincy Sun:

On June 12, the South Shore Coalition for Clean Water will sponsor "Clean the Bay Day" to press for immediate legislative action to end the environmental degradation of Boston Harbor and South Shore bays and coastal waters.

As the attorney who initiated and won the lawsuit against the MDC which resulted in Superior Court Judge Paul Garrity's court-ordered 10-year cleanup plan, I urge all concerned citizens to actively participate in this urgent lobbying effort.

The South Shore Coalition for Clean Water is committed to pressuring the legislature to enact the following before the end of this legislative session: To reorganize the MDC to include a locally-controlled, independent water and sewer commission, to provide an additional $18 million to the sewer division budget to properly manage the expenditure of $18 million already appropriated for the rehabilitation of Nut Island and Deer Island treatment facilities, and to provide $100 million in the additional state bonding authority for cities and towns throughout the state to repair local existing sewer systems.

The recent prolonged rainfall once again saw hundreds of millions of gallons of raw and partially treated sewage being dumped into Boston Harbor and South Shore waters. Yet, it has become increasingly clear that the legislature will do little to end this public health risk without a hue and cry from citizens properly outraged by this environmental affront.

Petitions are being circulated this week in coastal communities to tell the legislature that "the citizens of Weymouth, Hingham, Hull, and Quincy will not be ignored on this issue."

As a coordinator for the South Shore Coalition for Clean Water, I urge all residents to sign these petitions and contact your representatives and the legislative leadership by mail or telephone with your concerns on or before June 12th.

Sincerely,
William B. Golden

Rename Taffrail Rd.?

Taffrail Rd. in Germantown is a pretty short stretch of roads, streets and highways go. And, the lives of four young men who lived there were pretty short, too.

It's almost unbelievable when you think of it. John Granahan, Peter Landry, Gerald Peterson and Edward Gargano all had three things in common:

They were all U.S. Marines. They all gave their lives for their country. And, they all lived on Taffrail Rd.

John, Peter and Gerald died in the Vietnam War. Edward was killed by a sniper as a peace-keeper in Lebanon.

What other small street, or main one, for that matter, has had four of its boys serve their country and make the supreme sacrifice? Even if they had lived on, say, Hancock St. even that would have been hard to believe, too.

This unique distinction for Taffrail Rd. was brought vividly home last week at the dedication of a memorial to Edward Gargano, the other three Taffrail Rd. boys and four other Germantown boys who gave their lives for their country.

The latter four—Henry Grenier and Joseph Sullivan who died in World War II and Frederick Graves and Robert I. Caman who gave their lives in the Korean War. The granite monument across from the Snug Harbor School bears the names of all eight.

The unusual Taffrail Rd. connection sort of jumped out at those attending the ceremonies including keynote speaker Gov. Michael Dukakis as former City Councillor Leo Kelly read the names and addresses of the eight Germantown boys.

"While reading the roll call, I couldn't help but be overwhelmed by thinking of what one small road in Germantown Taffrail Rd. has contributed to each one of us here today," Kelly noted.

Four Taffrail Rd. addresses. "Maybe," said Kelly, "we should start to think about changing the name of Taffrail Rd. to honor these four young men who made the supreme sacrifice."

Quincy Housing Authority Director John (Jake) Comer, past State Legion Commander, agreed.

Apparently others thought so, too. After the ceremonies Dukakis said to Kelly: "Why couldn't you do something like that to honor those kids. Something should be done."

Employee health promotion programs at major companies are saving millions in health care cost. Even with the expense of gym and diet programs, companies find that keeping employees healthy costs less than paying bills for sickness.

Prescription "antagists" for arthritis is expected to be approved for over-the-counter sale. Clinical tests indicate that 200 mg. of ibuprofen is as good or as better than 650 mg. of aspirin for headaches and musculoskeletal pain.

Someone suggested "U.S. Marine Corps Drive."

Changing the name of a street isn't easy. Some people don't like change.

In Germantown, many of the streets have a nautical ring to their names: Taffrail Rd., Figurehead Lane, Binnacle Lane, Quarterdeck Rd., etc.

"But U.S. Marine Corps Drive would be keeping the nautical theme," says Kelly.

Most of the people present seemed to think a name change such as that would be fitting tribute to the four boys from Taffrail Rd.

Some suggested a contest to come up with ideas for a new name or a committee appointed to study the matter.

An appropriate name? How about something like "Semper Paratus St." or "Stars And Stripes St."

Maybe nothing will come of the idea of changing the name. But at least it could be looked into.

But, perhaps the best memorial of all to all eight Germantown boys who died in World War II, Korea, Vietnam and Lebanon would be the wish of U.S. Marine Corps Drive of St. Boniface parish who said at the ceremony.

"We pray we may never have to carve another name on this stone again."

Then, the eight whose names are now carved on it, would surely not have died in vain.

WOLLASTON'S Ed Spargo got one of the nicest surprises of his life the other day. It took 59 years to happen.

Spargo left Thayer Academy in 1925 to help publish the family-founded newspaper, the old Quincy Daily Telegram: when his father, William, died.

Ed had been the PR man for Thayer's undefeated 1923 football team. The only time he has been back to Thayer since leaving was last year when Sam Long and Sam and Dick Wakeman got him to return for a reunion of that team.

But, he hadn't been forgotten. The other day he received a letter from Headmaster Peter Benelli which said:

"After all the years of your performing vital and unselfish service to your fellow man, it gives great pleasure to do something for you."

Thayer Academy, your institution, is pleased to bestow upon you the enclosed diploma to elevate you to your rightful honorary status.

"Consider this a small token of the institution's high regard for your lifetime of concern for your fellow man and it is a small token well deserved."

Ed who is still on Chad 9, says it was worth waiting 59 years.

INCIDENTALLY, Ed reports, that he was at the Winfield House the night Mrs. Lena Strout, owner, was celebrating her annual 39th birthday. But she gave out the gifts.

She announced over the P.A. system that the drinks were on her. And, added kiddingly, "I hope you're all beer drinkers."

Solicitor Rules $75.8 M Budget Passed By Default

ing a breakdown among the budgetary classifications set forth.

"The City Council's vote did not fund for a full 12 months, as required by law, salaries of officers and employees fixed by law or ordinance.

"The City Council's vote did not fund 12 months of committed debt, as required by law.

"Most fundamentally of all, the City Council's vote constitutes an attempt by the Council to impose upon the city a one-twelfth or one month budget. The evident purpose was to buy time for bargaining with the Mayor over advisable levels of superior officer staffing in the Police and Fire Departments.

"State law, however, makes no provision for such a budget. Section 32 requires an annual budget. The Council's vote is at best an effort to intrude upon the Mayor's recognized authority with respect to the annual budget under the Municipal Finance Law."

Both McCauley and Sheets declined to speculate on where the city goes from here in the Mayor-Council impasse, although the next move appears to be up to the Council, perhaps through City Clerk Gillis.

"The city councillors, particularly those elected from the wards, are really the closest officials to the people," said Sheets. "I am going to continue the fight any way possible to make the people of Ward 4 aware that they are not properly protected and there is money available.

"The budget is only one mechanism through which the Council can fight."

"I have expressed my concerns to Councillor Sheets that the City Council might stymie other proposals by the Mayor," said McCauley. "The councillors I know wouldn't do this. I don't think that's the way Sheets does things. They will not take it out on the Mayor."

on the disposition of the votes that went to Bernard Reisberg.

Cheney outpolled Johnston by 324 to 204 in his home Precinct 5 while Johnston outdrew Cheney 225 to 201 in his home Precinct 6. So Cheney won Houghs Neck by 325 to 430.

But Johnston also ran strongly in Precincts 1, 2 and 3 (Merrymount, Germantown and Quincy Center) with 297 votes to 370 for the front runner Reisberg.

If Reisberg's votes go to Johnston in large numbers it could be a tough nut for Cheney to crack.

Reisberg wound up with 497 votes in the preliminary while two other candidates trailed far afield. Kevin Davis had 235 and Mary Crowley Gregoire 207. Both are Houghs Neckers.

Whoever is elected Tuesday will be the first candidate chosen in a special election in Quincy in nearly 50 years, since Thomas S. Burgin was elected mayor June 11, 1925.

The winner will succeed Leo J. Kelly, who resigned in January after being on the Council for 10 years, to take a job as project manager with the Quincy Housing Authority.

The city's Plan A charter that went into effect 25 years ago specified that Council vacancies be filled

Johnston Hits Unfair Rent Hikes For Tenants

Robert L. Johnston, a candidate for the City Council from Ward 1, has pledged to protect the rights of tenants around the city, since "adequate housing is a basic human need."

"I have listened to the concerns of many citizens about the inequity and unfairness of continuing rent increases," said Johnston.

"This results in young married people being unable to save money to buy a house and often results in single heads of household and older people on fixed incomes leaving the city to find more equitable rent."

Johnston recommended that the role of the Rent Grievance Board be strengthened.

"The Board needs to determine what a fair and equitable rent is across the city and then be given the authority to enforce appropriate increases."

"That the Board be given enforcement power is critical if the rights of citizens to decent housing are to be protected."

Davis Announces Support Of Johnston

Kevin B. Davis, who lost his own bid in the preliminary election, has announced his support for Robert L. Johnston for the Ward 1 City Council seat in Tuesday's final election.

Davis likened Johnston's "style" to that of former Councillor Leo J. Kelly, "which proved to be extremely successful in Kelly's record of accomplishment."

"This was a particularly difficult decision for me to make," said Davis, "and not one that I made in a short period of time. In fact, it took weeks due to my involvement in the community and my friendship with both Bob and Mike."

"My decision was based on what I believe to be the betterment of the community and not a personality decision."

Live Lamb At Bethany Sunday

A live lamb will be part of the 10 a.m. worship service Sunday, June 10, in Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Centre.

The lamb will be brought into the sanctuary by Brother Simon from the Glastonbury Abbey, accompanied by Bethany fourth and fifth grade students in biblical costume. All of this is part of the observance of Church School Sunday which marks the closing of Bethany Sunday School until next fall.

The service will focus on sheep and lambs, which are major themes and symbols in the Biblical story found in the Holy Scriptures.

The special Church School mission concern this year was "Share-a-Sheep." Nearly $400 has been contributed by the pupils and members of the congregation which is sufficient to purchase two sheep.

These will be given to poor farm families through Heifer Project International, which then monitors the animals' progress until a lamb is born which is then passed on to another needy family.

In this manner, the sheep represents both a living and a growing gift. The mission project coordinator in Bethany Church was Shirley Pyne who will participate in the dedication.

There will be a recognition ceremony for the entire teaching staff, including Gerard Capobianchi, superintendent, and Jean C. Smart, coordinator.

Hard cover copies of the Good News Bible will be presented to the following 13 second grade and newly enrolled students: Keith Briggs, Jason Buchanan, Kelly Burke, Debra Connors, Sharon Capobianchi, Philip Cosgrove, Kimberly Connors, Amy Devin, Bryan Johnston, Lori Managhan, Amy Rumbel, Larry Rumbel, Jr., and Rebecca Rumbel.

Students from the sixth and seventh grade class will lead the opening call to worship, a portion of Psalm 136, The Old Testament lesson, Psalm 23, will be recited in unison by the 2nd and 3rd grade class. Kelley Fallon will read the New Testament lesson from the Gospel of John 10:1-16.

A special Cub Scout award will also be made to Steven Fernald.

The offertory solo, "Memories" will be sung by Janice Beaudry. The Childrens Choir, under the direction by Peter E. Krasinski, organist, will sing "El Condo Pasa."

During the service, the sacrament of Christian Baptism will be administered to Scott Anthony Fernandez, son of Eugene John Fernandez and Lynne (Elias) Fernandez.

The Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, will have a special story for the children. The associate minister, Rev. Joel F. Huntington, will assist in leading the worship.

Following the service, a fellowship hour will be held in the Allen Parlor beginning at 11 a.m. Individuals and families from the community are welcome to come and share in the worship and fellowship.

For information about the program and ministry of Bethany Church, contact Pastor Arnold or the church office at 479-7300.

BOB JOHNSTON IS OLD-FASHIONED

When you elect your Ward 1 City Councilor on June 12, you want to be sure he has the qualities that really count.

We want you to vote for Bob Johnston because he's just a little bit old-fashioned. He believes in discipline, responsibility and respect.

A lot of "new ideas" have been talked about, but we think it's time to get back to some old values.

Be sure. Elect Bob Johnston your Ward 1 City Councilor on Tuesday, June 12.

EXERCISE AND WATER MYTH

MYTH: You should avoid drinking cold water during exercise because it will give you cramps.

To the contrary, water should be consumed before, during and after exercise to protect the body against heat exhaustion. Adequate water intake can also improve performance. NASA scientists found lower pulse rates and higher performance in men given one quart of water prior to exercising in high temperatures.

The water should be cold, according to physiologists. No matter what you drink, unless it gets out of the stomach, it's not going to do you much good. The colder the solution, within reason, the more rapidly it will be emptied from the stomach.

At Ohio State University, the football squad consumes 80 to 100 gallons of ice water during a practice or game. That averages out to at least a gallon apiece, but it's still not enough to totally replace all the body fluids lost.

City Clam Flats Closed By Pollution

Shellfish areas of Quincy Bay have been closed by the state due to possible contamination from partially treated sewage that has flowed into the waters from the overloaded MDC sewer system.

Environmental Affairs Secretary James S. Hoyte said the overflow of sewage was due to the severe storm.

Between 11 a.m. May 31 until 11 a.m. June 1 nearly 30 million gallons of sewage mixed with storm water flowed into Boston Harbor and another 60 million was released by 11 a.m. June 2.

Cheney Seeks Hazardous Material Ban

Michael Cheney, a candidate for the City Council from Ward 1, has asked the Council to consider an ordinance that would ban hazardous materials from school zones one hour before and one hour after classes are in session.

He would also require a police escort for the transportation of hazardous materials in Ward 1.

"This action is in response to a reality," said Cheney in a letter to President James A. Sheets.

"The chlorination building will be constructed on Nut Island and 16-ton trucks loaded with 38,000 pounds of chlorine will begin traveling down Sea St. sometime next year.

"Therefore it is critical that we have a plan to protect our children and our neighborhoods. In the event there was an accident and the tanks ruptured it would be a disaster."

Cheney said it is unreasonable to require the MDC not to make deliveries while children are going to or coming from school so a police escort should be required to reduce accidents.

"I know this process has worked in other communities and I am certain it will be successful here," he said.

Cheney also called for the use of motorcycle patrols for certain areas in Ward 1, particularly the Dike, LaBrecque Field and Heaton Park.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Heritage is an endowment given by previous generations. Sometimes it is cast aside, disregarded. When it is revered, untampered with and enlarged, progress and prosperity are usually assured. On the international scene, abused heritage has destroyed more nations from within than from without.

Our country has been blessed with rich, religious and political heritage. Together, they have produced the highest standard of civilization, freedom, prosperity and peaceful inclination. That heritage was costly. The price to maintain and pass on a greater heritage will be even more costly. Sacrifice and discipline will be needed. A nation not viable or virile enough to do so will leave little worth preserving. When our heritage is likened to a sanctuary whose spiritual strength is seen in scriptures of the past, our children and children's children will have a good heritage. Should we not therefore dedicate ourselves to properly use and not abuse the heritage given to us?

REAL ESTATE UPDATE
Steve Downing, Manager

THE SOLO ACT

QUESTION: My REALTOR suggested to me that he do a "solo act" when showing our house to prospective buyers. Wouldn't it be wiser for me to accompany them around?

ANSWER: One of the fastest ways to sell your house in a hurry is to keep out of it when it's being shown. First, tell the REALTOR everything that should be known about the house, then let the REALTOR do the selling. He or she is a skilled negotiator and knows how to close a sale without emotional involvement. If you must be around when the house is being shown, greet the prospect graciously, take the children and pets and retire. Note: Many prospects don't like pets. Why turn them off?

THE FASTEST WAY to sell your house is to let the Realtor show it alone.

'Proving God's Plan' First Presbyterian Topic

Elder Margaret Morris welcomed the congregation at the Sunday morning worship service at First Presbyterian Church.

Mr. John VanHanchan, student intern from Gordon-Conwell Theological School, gave the call to worship.

The Senior Choir, under the direction of choirmaster Lambert Brandes, sang "O For A Thousand Tongues" by N. Johnson.

The Pastor, Dr. Roger A. Kvam, chose as his sermon theme "Proving the Plan of God" based on Romans 12:2.

Communion was served with the following Elders distributing the elements: Deborah Kvam, Evan Gelo, George Stephen, Donald Murray, John Shuster, Douglas Degelman, Al Warmington, Donald Butman, Sherry Dalton, John W. McGowan and John Hill.

Richard Masson, Carol Mavor, William MacKenzie and Paul Karhu served as ushers. Eugene Kvam was the beadle and Douglas Murray was the acolyte.

Following the service, there was a coffee hour in Fellowship Hall to celebrate the 50th wedding anniversary of Dr. and Mrs. John M. McGowan who will soon be moving to Florida.

The annual meeting of the congregation and corporation of First Presbyterian Church was held recently with Dr. Roger A. Kvam presiding as moderator.

Kenneth Highfield and Richard Harris were elected and Margaret Morris, Deborah Kvam and Sherry Dalton were reelected as Elders for a three-year term.

Dick Masson, Eleanor Cochrane, Helen Morris and Louise Taylor were elected as Deacons for a three-year term. Colleen Thompson was elected to a one-year term as Deacon to fill a vacancy.

The following congregational members were elected to the Nominating Committee: Mildred Miller, Phyllis Brenner, Carolyn Thompson, Jeannie Fee, Shirley Shuster, Don Collins, Garrett Powell and Thomas Scibek.

James Cook and John C. Cocio were elected as auditors for the coming year.

No new budget was approved as the church's fiscal year ends June 30.

First Presbyterian has two worship services each Sunday: a morning service at 11 a.m. and an evening service at 6 p.m. Preceding the morning service, at 9:30 a.m. there are classes for all ages.

Information about the church can be obtained by calling the office at 773-5575.

SAILING SUNDAY at the First Church of Squantum included the S.S. Cabbage Patch, with a crew of Cabbage Patch dolls. Putting the finishing touches on the vessel were Blythe Bumpus, left, and Amanda Young.

Parade Of Sail At Squantum Church

Whether the tall ships were coming or not, the First Church of Squantum went ahead with its plans for "Sailing Sunday" last week-end.

Church pastor, The Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, explained, "Sailing Sunday is just a good time for us to have some fun together as a church family and to think about our Christian faith in terms of the sailing metaphor."

The annual celebration began with a shipboard breakfast sponsored by the young people of the church. The meal was served in Fellowship Hall which had been decorated to look like a ship.

There were brightly colored murals of sailing and tall ships on all the walls. The room-length paintings had been done by children in the Sunday School program including Kim Olsen, Marci Hurd, Kristen Reister, Lori Ogilvie and Ruth Adams.

On one table, there was a display of photographs from "Sailing Sunday" celebrations of previous years. On the floor were three filled wading pools in which children could sail the toy boats which they had been asked to bring to church with them.

Members of the congregation came to the service dressed as if they were going to go sailing that morning so there were no robes worn during the service.

Everyone who had a speaking part in the worship service is or has been a sailor.

The call to sail was given by Commodore Richard Hendry, past commodore of the Squantum Yacht Club.

Sailors Barbara Fluhr and her four-year-old daughter Kristen led the opening prayer. Sally Wainwright read John Masefield's poem, "Sea Fever".

The prayer for those who sail (the pastoral prayer) was given by Andrew and Lori Ogilvie, who are brother and sister. Charles Lester explained the geography of part of the journey of Paul and Timothy and then read Acts 16:12 "from the Log". Calvin and Gretchen Bumpus led the prayer of dedication.

The opening hymn was "Eternal Father, Strong to Save" during which children of the church, carrying sailboats, followed the choirs down the center aisle. This Parade of Sail was occurring at the same time that the Review of Ships was actually taking place in Boston Harbor. One addition to the liturgical procession this year was the little sail boat that followed the children down the aisle, containing a crew of Cabbage Patch dolls. That float was created by Amanda Young and Blythe Bumpus.

Other hymns sung during the service were "Jesus, Savior, Pilot Me", "I Feel the Winds of God Today", "Give to the Winds Thy Fears" and a special benediction written by the pastor.

Three choirs took part in the worship. The Junior Choir sang a sea song, "Jonah", by E. J. Bash. The Youth Choir sang a song for setting sail, "Go Into the World" by Natalie Sleeth. They were accompanied by sailor Mimi Hurd on the piano. The Chancel Choir sang "Send the Light" by Charles H. Gabriel. Mary Ruth Scott directed all three choirs.

Dr. Langevin spoke on the subject "Take a New Tack", basing his sermon on the text, "And when he had seen the vision, immediately we sought to go on into Macedonia, concluding that God had called us to preach the gospel to them." (Acts 16:10) In his sermon, which was in the church bulletin called "plotting our course" rather than a "sermon", the pastor used large sailing diagrams to explain "tacking" and his homily as well.

The prelude to the service was "Chantey", from Ernest Bloch's "Poems of the Sea". The postlude was a medley of sea chanteys.

Greeters for the service were Joan Hansen and her daughter Katherine. Ushers were Stewart Scott and Tore Wallin. The Fellowship Hour was hosted by Gloria Cutler and Renee Johnson.

After the service, during the Fellowship Hour, worshippers could watch the tall ships in Boston Harbor on any of the six television sets arranged along the wall on either side of Fellowship Hall. These two banks of sets were arranged by Robert Dixey, David Scott, Mimi Hurd and Robert Von Riegers.

The little children seemed to be more interested in sailing their boats.

This Sunday, the congregation will celebrate Pentecost. There will be only one service at the church that day, led by the young people of the church at 10:30 a.m. Visitors are welcome.

Benefits Friday, Saturday For Ruth Gordon Amphitheatre

Two benefit concerts for the Ruth Gordon Amphitheatre will be held Friday and Saturday at the Wollaston Theatre, Beale St.

The events will feature special screenings of the films "Harold and Maude" Friday, and "Where's Papa?" Saturday.

Each film will be followed by a performance by Drezniak, a Quincy based band.

Both shows will be held 7 to 10 p.m.

Tickets are available at Jason's Music Shop, Quincy Centre, and the Wollaston Theatre the night of the show.

The event is sponsored by the Quincy Tourism Association, Tri-Tech Audio, WBCN, Quincy Cable-systems, Paramount Pictures, Jason's Music Shop, United Artists and Nibelung Records.

Construction of the Ruth Gordon Amphitheatre began in July of 1977 through a federally funded CETA Public Works Employment Act. The project called for the complete renovation of Merrymount Park for all citizens of Quincy to enjoy.

Public Works Commr. Paul Anderson said that total costs of the project amounted to over $588,000, including salaries, equipment and supplies. The project created 117 jobs for unemployed residents of the city. Six months after the project had begun, work was stopped when the funds ran out.

Drezniak has received considerable radio airplay, appeared on MTV's Basement Tapes and performed in WBCN's 1982 Rock n' Roll Rumble. The group will soon release its vinyl debut.

The amphitheatre is estimated to need about $20,000 to be completed. When finished, it will host free concerts, art shows, dance performances and other events.

Donations may be sent to the Ruth Gordon Amphitheatre Fund, c/o Quincy Tourism Assoc., Suite 16, Southern Artery, Quincy, MA 02169.

Historical Society Major Exhibit

An exhibit, "Quincy From Settlement To City", a major event of the season for the Quincy Historical Society, is planned for Friday, June 22, at the society's Adams Academy Building, 8 Adams St., Quincy Center.

The society's staff and experts in many fields have been working for many months preparing the major exhibit.

The exhibit traces Quincy's development from settlement in 1625 to its incorporation as a city in 1888.

The gala opening is planned for Friday, June 22, from 4 to 9 p.m. The public is invited. Admission is free. Refreshments will be served.

A portion of the Quincy Historical Society's operating funds for fiscal year 1983-84 has been made possible with support from the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities, a state agency, and through a grant from the Institute of Museum Services, a Federal Agency in the Department of Education, which offers operating and program support to the nation's museums.

Take care of your own funeral arrangements now.
So your family won't have to later.

By not taking care of your own funeral in advance, you force someone close to you to do it for you.

For the person who accepts the responsibility, making arrangements at the time of need is likely to be filled with uncertainties. The uncertainty of not knowing what you really wanted. Your personal preferences. Perhaps, a favorite dress or suit. A special prayer. A clergyman with whom you are especially close. The uncertainties are endless.

The kindest thing you can do for your family is make your own funeral arrangements far in advance of need. That way everybody will know the kind of funeral you would like to have.

For more information on pre-arrangement or pre-financing, write for our free booklet, "No Greater Kindness for Those You Love."

If you have any questions, give us a call or stop by.

Water Rates To Increase With Usage

Public Works Commissioner Paul N. Anderson has announced that the city plans to adopt an increasing block rate structure for water usage under which the cost per unit rises as consumption of water rises.

Anderson called the new rate structure "a cornerstone of the city's water policy" in its attempt to encourage water conservation.

The new rates, which take effect July 1, will charge 95 cents per hundred cubic feet (ccf) semi-annually for the first 85 ccf, $1.05 for the next 915 ccf, $1.10 for the next 2,000 ccf and $1.20 for usage exceeding 3,000 ccf.

Usage of less than 23 ccf will be charged a minimum fee of $21 semi-annually.

"The city of Quincy," said Anderson, "has taken steps in creating a comprehensive management plan by establishing a leak detection and repair program, a water conservation device retrofit program and plans to develop a program for limiting water use in public buildings.

"The increasing block rate is a cornerstone of the city's water policy."

Anderson noted that the MDC water system, from which Quincy gets its water, can supply up to 300 million gallons a day but that usage has exceeded that amount for several years. Also per capita use has been steadily increasing.

"We not only use more water but we each use more water than we did 10 years ago," he said.

"Although the water supply is not currently severely impacted, it is important to conserve water now when a small amount per person will accumulate with interest to our future."

Work To Start On Town Brook Sewer

Mayor Francis X. McCauley has announced that work is about to begin on the Town Brook Relief Interceptor and the Force Main Project which is designed to relieve sewer problems in Southwest Quincy.

The $786,000 sewer project is scheduled to be completed in the fall and will tie into the $1.2 million Fort Square Pumping Station, which is down for completion in 1985.

Meanwhile, said McCauley, work is continuing on the Faxon Park-South Quincy Sewer Rehabilitation project.

The three jobs are part of a $3.2 million project financed by grants from the Federal Environmental Protection Agency and the State Division of Water Pollution Control.

Quincy supplies 10 per cent of the funding.

Raiders Tourney Hopes Dashed

The North Quincy baseball team's hopes of making the Eastern Mass. tournament went out the window Monday when it lost to Cambridge, 2-0, in a well-played game.

The Raiders, who needed wins in their last two games, finished 10-6.

The games with Cambridge and Milton were scheduled last week but the week-long rains washed the games out. It had defeated Cambridge, North would have played Milton on Tuesday but the game was cancelled after the Raider loss.

"This was one of the best played games of the year," North coach Charlie Bunker said. "Both pitchers were outstanding and there were some fine fielding plays."

John Comeau went all the way for North, giving up five hits, striking out five and walking one. Winning pitcher Tom Hoog held North to three hits, struck out nine and didn't give a walk.

Steve Hogan had a triple but was out trying to stretch it into a home run. Keith Smith had a double and Steve Higgins an infield hit.

"I feel we had a good season considering everything," Bunker said. "We lost Comeau for several games and I'm sure he would have won at least a couple of the games we lost. And Jack Bolster, one of our best hitters, also sat out several games with an injury and we missed his bat."

Comeau finished with a 4-2 mark, winning his first four games before losing a tough game to Suburban League champion Brockton and Monday's finale.

Quincy Girls Ousted By Dartmouth

The Quincy girls' softball team was ousted in the first round of the Eastern Mass. tournament Monday when it was wallopped by Dartmouth, 11-2, at Dartmouth, failing to get a hit.

Barbara Webster's First Ladies were not expected to do much when the season started with only one senior but they came along after a slow start to qualify for the tournament with an 11-6 record.

Nancy Perry was brilliant for Dartmouth as she pitched a no hitter and struck out 13. Kathy Thornton, who had a fine season for Quincy, pitched a much better game than the score indicates. She failed to walk a batter.

"Her pitching was just outstanding," Miss Webster said. "She was overpowering. But I'm happy with the season we had and, losing just one senior, things look promising for next season. All the girls did a fine job and I'm proud of every one of them."

Patriots Win East Coast Volleyball Crown

The Patriots, coached by Quincy's Ray Whitehouse and including several girls from Quincy, won the East Coast volleyball championship at the University of Delaware.

The 17 and under Mass. team, led by Capt. Christine Gallery of Quincy, finished its pool in first place with an 11-1 record.

This advanced the team to the playoffs and, behind the outstanding defense of Milton's Lori Hanley and Quincy's Karen Marnell, the Patriots won their opening match, 15-5, 15-7, over Eastern York, Pa.

In the semifinals the Patriots defeated Pepsico, N.Y., 15-5, 4-15, 15-8, and in the finals they topped Maplewood, N.J., 15-7, 15-9, for the title.

The Mass. players put on a show for the crowd, hitting balls to the floor and blocking shots. Kathy McGregor of Quincy played an excellent game.

The 15 and under Mass. Patriots, coached by Quincy's Chris Prendiville, took third place in their division.

In their opening matches the Patriots crushed a team from New York, 15-1, 15-1, and a New Jersey team, 15-7, 15-2.

The next round of games gave the Patriots tougher competition and they finished second in their pool with an 8-2 record.

The Mass. team advanced to the semifinals with a 15-6, 15-5 win over So. Orange, N.J., sparked by the defense of Pam Austin and the setting of Ginny Duggan, both from Quincy.

In a hard-fought semifinal match Pepsico, N.Y., which won the division crown, pulled out a 15-7, 16-14 victory. Capt. Marlo LeVangie and Terry Duggan, both of Quincy were outstanding.

In the match for third place the Patriots defeated Pottsville, Pa., 15-9, sparked by the play of Lauren Standing of Quincy.

The 13 and under team, coached by Brookline's Ellen Lewis, included four North Quincy players and won the division title with a 15-3, 15-4, win over So. Orange Blue, N.J., in the semifinals and a 15-11, 15-4 win over So. Orange Red.

Capt. Christine Venezia sparked the semifinal win and Eileen Campbell and Erin Murray were outstanding in the finals.

The next major event for the Patriots will be the USVBA Junior Olympics national championships starting June 19 at the U. of Rhode Island.

Quincy, North Happy Over Leagues Merger

The Quincy and North Quincy football teams will not have to worry about filling their schedules with non-league opponents starting this fall.

The Suburban and Greater Boston Leagues recently voted to merge for football to strengthen the schedules of their member schools.

Quincy and North were members of the Greater Boston League for many years before moving to the Suburban League in the early 1970s. Since that time they have retained several GBL rivals as non-league opponents.

Both the Suburban and Greater Boston Leagues have had only seven members, meaning the schools had to get four non-league opponents to fill out their 10 game schedules. Joint scheduling will mean maximum efficiency in filling these open dates.

Last fall Quincy played Fitchburg, New Bedford, and GBL members Revere and Everett as non-league foes. North Quincy played Milton, Catholic Memorial, Weymouth North (which had moved from the Suburban to the Old Colony League) and GBL member Somerville.

"It's very hard to fill a schedule if you don't have the league affiliations," said Marty Finnegan, Quincy High faculty manager, who attended the organizational meetings with athletic coordinator Carl Leone.

"Quincy has been playing Fitchburg and New Bedford. Those were long trips, expensive and not traditional rivals. I think the possibility exists that with this merger in football, schools might pick up non-league games with Greater Boston League teams in other sports. I don't think there were any dissenters in either league to the plan."

Both the Quincy and North Quincy coaches expressed their delight at the merger.

"I think it's a good idea," said Quincy coach Bill Mayer. "It would be better if we could play Weymouth North, Braintree, Milton, teams in our own area, but at least we won't be playing out of our class."

"I think it's a real good move," North coach Ken McPhee agreed. "It's getting tough finding opponents. We've played Somerville the last two years and this will make for some nice rivalries."

"Now, at least, we don't have to go all over trying to find games to fill out our schedule."

The unofficial Suburban/GBL plan calls for schools with larger enrollments in one league to play schools with larger enrollments in the other. Some opponents, however, will rotate every two years. No GBL school would like to play powerhouses Brockton and Wal-tham every season. And no Suburban League team looks forward to meeting Peabody and Medford every season.

Quincy plans to pick up three GBL opponents and go with a nine-game schedule this fall. North plans to play a full 10-game card.

Quincy will meet Revere, Everett, and Malden this year, while North, with Milton and Weymouth North already scheduled, will pick up Medford and Somerville.

Cunniff Has Outstanding Season At South Florida

Marcy Cunniff of Quincy, who had another outstanding season for the University of South Florida women's tennis team, recently reached her goal of playing in the national collegiate tournament at UCLA.

USF lost to third-seeded Texas, 8-1, in the nationals. USF was seeded 13th among the 16 teams qualifying for the national tournament.

Marcy, an Abq. Williams graduate and a junior at USF, competed in both the singles and doubles in the nationals. She played number-four singles and number-two doubles. In singles she was defeated in three sets by Vickie Ellis, 6-2, 1-6, 6-2. In doubles she and her partner lost in straight sets, 6-4, 6-3.

The nationals proved to be quite an experience for Marcy.

"Last year we weren't even ranked in the top 20, so I'm happy with the way things worked out this season," she said. "We had wins over Rollins, Florida State, Clemson, Princeton and Oklahoma State, all ranked in the top 20.

Marcy plays both baseline and net with equal efficiency. "I try to be aggressive but not overly aggressive, because it's too easy to make mistakes," she said. "My style is comparable to that of Chris Evert Lloyd. I also use a two-hand backhand."

The Quincy star is a member of both the Weymouth Tennis Club, owned by her sister Chris' husband, and the Randolph Tennis Center.

Crehan Wins State Javelin Title

North Quincy's Eileen Crehan continued to dominate the javelin as she won the state championship last Saturday with a toss of 130-feet in the state championship meet at Boston College.

The undefeated North star's throw was well below her record-breaking throw in the Eastern Mass. Class B meet but she still won by more than eight feet. North's Georgia Traficante placed fourth in the event.

North's only other scorer was Mary Ann Kelleher, who took sixth in the two-mile.

All three Raiderettes will compete in the New England meet Saturday morning at Boston College.

Julie Watts Wins MVP Honors

Julie Watts of Quincy was recently awarded team MVP honors in volleyball and special basketball recognition at Manhattanville College.

Watts, a 6-foot junior, led the Valiants in spikes and blocks in volleyball. Co-captain of the team, she was named All-Hudson Valley Conference for the second year in a row as she led the team to its second conference divisional title.

Watts also received recognition for her selection to the ECAC basketball weekly Honor Roll in March when she set a school rebounding record with two successive 20-rebound games. Averaging 8.1 points a game and a team high 10.5 rebounds a game, she was one of the major reasons the Valiants finished 19-9 and captured the ECAC Metro New York-New Jersey championship title.

Julie, a math major, is the daughter of George and Joan Watts and is a graduate of North Quincy High School where she lettered in volleyball, basketball and tennis.

Webster, Pratt Coach All Stars

Quincy girls' softball coach Barbara Webster and North Quincy coach Mary Pratt coached the second team stars against the first-team stars last Saturday in the Suburban League all-star game at Newton.

Quincy's Andrea Griffin, Kathy Thornton and Beth Veneto and North's Mary Holleran, Ann Sousa and Sheila Graham played in the game.

Maloney Wins Tennis Letter

Phil Maloney of Quincy earned a varsity letter with New England's top-ranked small college tennis team at Tufts University.

When Maloney, a junior, teamed with John Niceforo of North Andover to post an 8-1 record this spring, including six straight-set wins, as Tufts' top doubles pairing, he was just following in the family tradition.

"I've played a lot of doubles with my dad (Phil, Sr.), and at one time we were the top-ranked father-son team in New England," Maloney said.

He also followed in more recent family tradition when he won the New England

His older sister, Tracy, won the N.E. Div. 3 singles title for Tufts last fall. Tracy is moving on to Tufts Dental School next year, but her sister, Lynn, will fill her void as a freshman next fall.

WEEK OF: JUNE 7

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

A generally upbeat week, with relationships strengthening and self-confidence growing. One cautionary note: Be alert to opportunists and users at the workplace.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Long-term assignment is appealing, but be sure it's economically sensible. Imagination is lively and can be channeled into artistic expression. Visitors bring important news.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

High hopes are all changing their minds; it may be wise to get instructions in writing. Brainstorming session can lead to some worthwhile ideas for a vacation.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Office life becomes more satisfying and there are opportunities for making important contacts. Short trips can be longer and much livelier than expected. Weekend emphasizes elegance.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Possessive friend tightens his/her grip and it may be time for that frank discussion. Partnership activities accented. Loved one responds well to your small surprises.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Disappointing news heard recently may not be entirely correct. Partner is less mysterious, more relaxed. Financial insights are sharp. Unusual assignment may be worth exploring.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Canceled plans can lead to unexpected leisure time. Use the week to get ahead of schedule, or explore possibilities for volunteer work. Sense of self is strong on weekend.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Rearranged plans are shuffled one more time, but you're encouraged when financial picture appears to brighten. Thrifty friend becomes generous. Platonic relationship may be launched now.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

As spring draws to a close you're struck with a case of spring fever. Your whimsical mood proves infectious but your lack of concentration means putting in longer hours.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Financial activities dominate the week - you may be spending extra time balancing budgets. Your fine sense of design earns plaudits. Weekend offers opportunity for reconciliation.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

Friend becomes more revealing; you learn where you stand in an up-in-the-air relationship. Impulsive streak surfaces on the weekend. Plans are subject to last-minute revision.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Ideas that seem trivial have more substance than you think - don't abandon them too quickly. Joint ventures may hold some snags. Friend shares his very good luck with you.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

You love variety, travel, new faces, and are sometimes criticized for a lack of serious commitment. Your youthful approach to life combined with a more mature attitude toward obligation can lead to major personal/professional breakthrough by late '84.

DOWNED TREE and telephone pole threaten house at 75 Russell St., North Quincy, in aftermath of freak storm

North Quincy Cleans Up After Freak Storm

Workers from the Park and Public Works Department pitched in Tuesday morning to clean up debris left by a freak wind storm that struck a small area of North Quincy the night before.

No injuries were reported and there were no estimates of damage.

The sudden storm, with winds that topped hurricane force in gusts, uprooted trees and knocked down utility wires during 10 minutes of intense activity shortly after 5 p.m. Monday.

A trailer truck at the Jordan Marsh warehouse along the Neponset River was reported to have been flipped over by the strong winds and stones were blown off the roof of the Quincy Bay Inn, damaging cars below.

A tree and a telephone pole was blown over onto a house at 75 Russell St., the home of six nuns.

The area affected included East Squantum,

Russell and Tirrell Sts., Newbury Ave., and Billings and Wadsworth Sts.

Richard J. Koch, who heads the city's park and forestry operations, said his men used front end loaders to remove fallen tree limbs and branches.

"Fortunately," he said, "it was confined to a small area."

Some Complaints But:

Downtown Merchants Warm To Validated Parking

The general membership of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association had high praise for the month-old validated parking system Tuesday, although some complaints were heard.

Kenneth Fallon, executive secretary of the QCBPA, urged those who were lukewarm to the program to stop nit-picking and get behind it for the good of the future of downtown Quincy.

"In the two years that I have been aboard," he said, "we had a lot of complaints about parking tickets. Now we no longer have parking tickets."

"We have two cities outside Boston coming to Quincy to view the validated parking system. Some malls are taking a second look at validated parking."

"We used to have complaints about the mess in the parking lot. That has been fixed. The comfort station is going to be opened July 1. The elevator in the Ross garage will be working soon."

"We are in a 'go' situation. When the Burgin Parkway Extension gives us access to Route 3 you will have something going in downtown Quincy that you haven't had in 20 years. Take advantage of it."

The meeting of the QCBPA membership was called to discuss experiences with validated parking.

Board Continues Vote On McDonald's Parking

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
If you were looking forward to buying a McDonald's hamburger in North Quincy, you'll have to wait at least a little while longer.

The License Board voted Tuesday to continue to June 19 a limited hearing regarding parking at the establishment at 275-295 Hancock St. which was granted a license May 1.

The matter was continued so that the board could check figures on available parking at the site, and to honor a request by City Councillor Joanne Condon, said Police Chief Francis Finn.

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald said that information supplied by McDonald's stated there were 42 parking spaces available on land under the same ownership as the Otis Elevator Building where the restaurant will be located.

Only 39 spaces are required according to calculations by McDonald's said the Building Inspector.

Since the information did not bear an engineer's stamp and date, it would have to be verified, said MacDonald.

"We'll definitely have a vote on it next week," said City Clerk John Gillis.

Germantown Marshes Sprayed For Mosquitos

The Forestry Department sprayed the marshes and selected areas of Germantown with the chemical Malathion Tuesday in an effort to control the mosquito crop.

Richard J. Koch, who supervises the Forestry

Department, said the city had received many calls about mosquitos from the area.

The spraying started last Thursday, he said, but it was suspended for a while because the combination of the heat and the chemical would burn vegetation.

Previous spraying had been carried out in the Black's Creek area, Merrymount Park and Houghs Neck, marshlands where mosquitos breed in June, July and August.

Johnston Will Seek Recount Cheney Wins By 79 Votes

By TOM HENSHAW
Michael T. Cheney, 31, a diesel mechanic for the MBTA who had never run for public office before, put together a massive vote in his home precinct Tuesday and held on to win the vacant Ward 1 City Council seat.

But the margin of victory over Robert L. Johnston -- 79 votes -- was so close that Johnston said he will ask for a recount "only because it is possible to miss a block of 100 votes."

The final count was 1,588 for Cheney and 1,509 for Johnston, 51, headmaster of the Woodward School for Girls.

Cheney amassed a huge 503 to 298 margin in his home precinct 5, more than enough to overcome sizeable Johnston margins in the Quincy Center, Merrymount and Germantown precincts.

The total vote on a cool sunny day was 3,102, a hefty 38.1 per cent of the 8,142 voters registered in the ward. It was considerably more than 30 per cent turnout forecast by City Clerk John Gillis.

Cheney said he felt that the high level campaign that he and Johnston waged, helped to bring all the diverse sections of Ward 1 closer together.

MICHAEL CHENEY

"I would like to see this continue," he said, "Now is the time for all Ward 1 to pull together to resolve the important issues, public safety, Nut Island, open space and all the residents' individual concerns."

He said he supports the other eight members of the City Council in their battle with the mayor for a bigger public safety budget, although he won't be able to show that support at next Monday's meeting.

Five working days must elapse between the election and the time he is sworn in to allow Johnston time to file for a recount.

Council President James A. Sheets said that, unless some unforeseen happening intervenes, Cheney will be sworn in at a special ceremony in City Hall

N.J. Firm Low Bidder On Burgin Extension

Cruz Construction Inc. of Holmdell, N.J., was low bidder Tuesday when proposals for construction of the long-awaited Burgin Parkway Extension were opened in Boston.

The low bid was $9,478,000.

The Cruz Construction bid was regarded as informal while the State Department of Transportation determined whether or not the company was a claimed in the bid, minority or female owned.

The second low bidder was Marden Continental Construction with a bid of $9,925,000.

Sen. Paul D. Harold, who was present when the bids were opened at the Transportation Building in Boston, said construction is expected to get underway 40 days after the low bidder is qualified.

"It could be a year to a year and half before it is finished, depending upon the size of the company and the weather conditions," he said.

The Burgin Parkway Extension will run from the Route 3 ramps in South Quincy to Granite St., Quincy Center, giving travelers from the south better access to downtown Quincy.

$2 Million Bond Approved To Renovate Sears

The Massachusetts Industrial Finance Agency (MIFA) has approved two industrial revenue bonds totalling $3.6 million for construction projects in downtown Quincy.

One is a $2 million bond to be used by Messina Enterprises of Braintree to purchase and renovate the 88,000 square foot Sears building at 1591 Hancock St., vacant for four years.

The developer, Francis X. Messina, plans to refurbish the store front and divide the interior into several small stores. Plans also include an interior modern trian mall.

The second bond will be used by Simon-Kiley Realty Trust to construct a four-story, 20,600 square foot office building at 1150 Hancock St., a site now occupied by a car rental agency.

$300,520 In Wiring

Wire Inspector Thomas E. Purpura reports that his department issued 154 permits for wiring estimated to cost $300,520 during the month of May.

The major projects included four and three-unit condominiums at Marina Bay, Squantum, a new health club at 152 Parkingway and renovations to the Stop and Shop at 495 Southern Artery.

Also 15 four-family dwellings are being electrically upgraded for the Quincy Housing Authority in Germantown.

Purpura reported that his department collected $4,867.50 in fees and issued 66 certificates of approval to the Massachusetts Electric Co.

Swingles Quarry Drained, No Sign Of Youth's Body

Draining operations reached the bottom of Swingle's Quarry in West Quincy at 230 feet Monday, six and a half months ahead of schedule, but there was no sign of the body of Paul Gooch, 17, of Brockton who drowned there June 20, 1983.

"We checked the bottom," said Charles Levine of J.F. White Contracting Co. of Newton, "and we were not able to locate the body. It is very dangerous down there."

The quarry was thought to be almost 400 feet deep and the White company was given eight months in which to drain the water, but Monday at 230 feet only a couple of small puddles were left at the bottom.

Searchers, including the Gooch boy's father, were lowered into the quarry by bucket to look for the body. It was done gingerly since a new rock slide was feared.

The city had started draining the quarry last summer but the operation ended at 4 a.m. Sept. 30 when a large section of the quarry wall collapsed.

It was speculated that the Gooch's boy's body might be buried under tons of granite loosed in the collapse.

Searchers reported that, in addition to the loose stone, a number of cars were found in the depths of the quarry, some of them hanging precariously to ledges on the quarry wall.

The cars will be checked for ownership, in so far as is possible, to determine if they might have been dumped there in connection with insurance fraud schemes.

Once the Gooch boy's body is found, or if the search is given up, the White company will start filling it in with clean fill, paying the city $1.50 a ton for $1984 and at a decreasing rate in later years.

No Action Recommended In School Case

The School Committee voted last week that no further action be taken on a complaint brought against a high school official by a female student.

The vote was 4-3 with Committee members Frank Anselmo, Mary Collins, Christopher Kennedy and Joan Picard voting not to pursue the complaint any further.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley, Stephen Durkin and Nicholas Verenis voted to continue.

"The case is closed," said

McCauley, who is chairman of the School Committee by virtue of his office. "There will be no further action. It is dead."

The high school official has never been formally identified but School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Credon was represented at the meeting by Atty. Richard W. Barry.

"We are pleased that the matter is over," said Barry. "It was very distasteful to both sides."

The Committee met in executive session for about two hours and when it was over issued a statement saying: "On the basis of all the evidence presented no further action will be taken on this complaint."

Frightened Off

Thieves forced the front door of the home of Robert Young of 339 Southern Artery, Quincy Saturday but apparently were frightened off before anything was taken.

Several items were piled up by the front door ready to be carried off.

Money Stolen

Mrs. Thure Hissell of Rhode St., Houghs Neck, reported to police Saturday that thieves broke into her home through a front porch window and made off with an undetermined amount of money.

Quincy, MCAD Reach Pact On Affirmative Action Plan

The city of Quincy has reached agreement with the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination (MCAD) on improvements in the city's affirmative action programs on employment, housing, contract compliance and business opportunities.

The agreement has the effect of removing a cloud from nearly $3 million in state and federal funding due the city, including $1.2 million for construction of the Fort Square Sewage Pumping Station in South Quincy.

City Personnel Director Donald W. Hansen, who is also affirmative action officer, said the extent of the agreement will mean that the city will have to hire, with federal funds, an assistant for him at $15,000 a year.

Under the agreement, the city is required to produce a fair housing plan for the MCAD's approval on or before Sept. 28.

The Commission also directed the city to use "selective certification for Spanish-speaking persons and females" when making the appointments of seven new police officers, for which a Civil Service list was requested in March.

About half of the 16-page memorandum of agreement deals with fair housing in Quincy in which the MCAD found "patterns of underrepresentation of minorities and female heads-of-household."

The community profile showed that the population of Quincy is 1.6 per cent minority while the Boston Standard Metropolitan Statistical Area (SMSA) is about 10 per cent minority.

"There is a 1.7 per cent difference between the per cent female heads-of-household residing in the city of Quincy and the per cent of female heads-of-household residing in the SMSA," said the MCAD.

The MCAD noted that the city hired 55 new workers in the last six months of 1983 and the first three months of 1984 and "none of the new hires were minorities."

The agreement requires that the city "fully implement its affirmative action plan for each and every new hire" and that it "develop a recruitment plan for minorities and females" for MCAD review by Friday, June 15.

The MCAD found that, out of 174 contracts with a total value of $1.9 million awarded by the city in 1983, only four went to business firms owned by women and only two were given to minority-owned businesses.

The city was directed to "develop an outreach mechanism for MBEs (Minority Business Entrepreneurs), with specific steps and procedures to notify them of the contract opportunities with the city and solicit their participation."

Gillis Seeks State Advice In Budget Dispute

City Clerk John Gillis had a date yesterday (Wednesday) with Edward Collins, assistant commissioner of the State Department of Revenue, for guidance in settling the dispute between the Mayor and the City Council over the fiscal 1985 budget.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said he planned to send City Solicitor Dean Nicastro and Executive Secretary Peter Kenney to the State House with Gillis to explain why his $75.8 million budget should be certified, not the Council's $6.3 million one.

Meanwhile, petitions asking the Mayor to increase his $13.9 million public safety budget gathered 5,000 signatures in Wards 6 and 4 and was circulated in Ward 1 on election day by uniformed police officers and firefighters.

Council President James A. Sheets said the petitions were to be circulated in Ward 2 yesterday and today (Thursday) and in Ward 5 tomorrow and Saturday. Hopefully, he said, the petitions will be presented to the Council Monday night.

Gillis said last week that as far as he is concerned ... and at least for the time being ... the one-twelfth city budget passed by the Council is the certified and legal budget for fiscal 1985.

But, he added, "it's still up in the sky right now. No one I have talked to has been able to find a precedent for this. I should have something after I see Collins."

McCauley submitted a $75.8 million budget to the Council in April but the Council thought that the amount set aside for police and fire was insufficient.

The Council proceeded to pass a one-twelfth budget, enough to run the city for the month of July in a bid to have the mayor continue negotiations for a higher public safety budget.

City Solicitor Nicastro ruled, however, that the Council really did not take action on the budget for the full year as specified by law and therefore it had been passed by default.

McCauley sent the $75.8 million budget to Gillis for certification to take effect July 1 but Gillis has withheld certification pending legal advice.

"The whole focal point is on John now," said Mayor McCauley. "If he doesn't follow Dean Nicastro's opinion, then we've got a problem."

Historical Hearing Set On Changes

The Quincy Historical Commission will hold a public hearing Monday, June 25, at 7:30 p.m. in the Planning Department at City Hall to consider changes in some business properties in the historic district. Bolea-Buonfiglio Funeral Home, 116 Franklin St., is seeking to erect a new sign and make exterior renovations.

A Tribute To Bob Swain

Editor, The Quincy Sun

I cried when I was told of the death of Robert J. Swain who, for 29 of his 53 years, was building superintendent of Archbishop Williams High School. I have no doubt that he is living glory with the Creator, so, my tears were not for him.

My tears were selfish. With his death I have the personal loss of a colleague of 22 years. With this death the connection between the early days of the school and the present is now almost completely broken. There is but one person left on the faculty who can speak to the beginnings.

With his death, one of the most effective teachers and counselors at Archbishop Williams High School is gone. Besides teaching by example, he did something that most of us could not do: he made things work! He, better than most of us, lived "loving his neighbor as himself." His "crew," his student assistants, over the years are among our finest alumni: strong men whose home training was augmented and enhanced by his direction and encouragement.

Bob's devotion and fidelity to the Sisters of Charity of Nazareth has been documented countless times. Let anyone think that he did not play, let it be known that he out-polkaed most partners; he never hosted a party that was not a success; and his beloved sailboat was a great source of pleasure.

In summary, Bob Swain's love for the Archbishop Williams community, its students, its teachers lay and religious, its staff, its alumni, its parents and the very building itself has left its mark on the hearts of those who share that love.

He fought the good fight and ran the good race, to paraphrase St. Paul.

If Brownell Gets A Robe . . .

For most politicians and those who like to keep tabs on them, it's always election time.

Even if the election they're interested in is a year or two or more away.

Take the Second Norfolk District state representative for example.

Incumbent Thomas Brownell is unopposed this year for re-election.

Yet, at least five potential candidates reportedly are already thinking of running for the seat. If and when opportunity knocks. Like if Brownell is appointed to a judgeship.

The five names being mentioned as "quite interested" in succeeding Brownell as state representative are:

Former Ward 1 Councilor Leo Kelly, Councilor at-large Patricia Toland, Ward 5 Councilor Stephen McGrath, School Committee member Stephen Durkin, and Ronald Iacobucci who made an impressive but unsuccessful bid for a City Council at-large seat in his first try last year.

All of them live in the rambling Second Norfolk District area: Ward 1, Ward 5, part of Wards 3 and 4.

And, that's what you call looking ahead and being ready to answer the door if opportunity does come knocking.

The big key to touch off the scramble, of course, is Brownell.

And the big question: Will he get a black robe or another appointment to give up the seat?

MEANWHILE, Quincy businessman Bernie Reisberg who ran for the Ward 1 City Council seat, may have been bitten by the political bug.

Reisberg, who finished a respectable third in the five candidate field in the special preliminary election, says he might do it again. But not necessarily a city election.

REISBERG Maybe, he says, Norfolk County Commissioner next time around.

Merchants Warm To Validated Parking

Richard Stoller of T.J. Maxx Co. complained that many of their customers have been confused by the traffic flow in the parking lots and by the validation process.

"We have been plotting every day whether or not to join the validation system," said Stoller. "We want to be cooperative but our study shows that if we validate it would cost us $30,000 to $40,000 a year."

Nevertheless, said Stoller, "I'm willing to announce that T.J. Maxx will start validating soon. We're going to give it a shot."

Fallon said that 81 of the 150 members of the QCBPA are participating in the validation program and about 40 members — lawyers, accountants, etc. — are not considered to be likely candidates.

Paul Murphy of Child World said validation is going to cost his firm $15,000 to $20,000 a year minimum. He requires a $10 purchase to get the 20-cent validation sticker.

"We were running 23 per cent ahead until validation came in," he said. "Now we are behind the 1983 figures. Is it going to be worth it?" Fallon said he feels it is a mistake to put a minimum purchase limit on validation.

Stephen Gillig, president of the QCBPA, said that the association, along with Kinney and the city, are planning to launch an advertising program in two weeks promoting validated parking.

Bernard Reisberg, a former president of the QCBPA and a long-time backer of validated parking, also urged fellow merchants to get behind the system.

"A great deal is up to us merchants to make this a success," he said. "A lot of us have had-mouthed validated parking. We are married to the system for five years. If we had-mouth, the only ones we're hurting are ourselves."

"Customers are not getting parking tickets. They don't feel like criminals. The lots are cleaner, safer and easier to walk in. Almost everything is a plus."

"We have got to sell this or it is doomed day for us."

VI, incidentally, some time ago painted a nice portrait of Gillis. And recently completed a self-portrait which she presented to him on his birthday. It hangs behind his desk at City Hall. It's entitled: (for fun) "Behind every great man is a great woman."

QUINCY'S SAM MELE will be inducted into the New York University Athletic Hall of Fame Nov. 1. Sam, a special assignment scout for the Red Sox, was an outstanding baseball and basketball player at NYU in the 1940s. He scored 26 points against Notre Dame when that rivalry was one of the best in the country. Sam was due to be inducted a year ago, but because of his duties with the Red Sox, had to decline.

IN CASE YOU'RE wondering whether Rep. Michael Morrissey is running for re-election this year — he is. A campaign kickoff is set for Friday from 8 p.m. to midnight at the National Fire Protection Assn. headquarters, Batterymarch Park, West Quincy. Buffet, music by "Touch of Class". Tickets $7.50 are available at the door or by calling Ellen Connors 328-0004.

SPEAKING OF Morrissey, he was startled when he arrived at his Holyoke St., North Quincy home Monday night. Mail, papers and other items were scattered around the house. "We've been robbed," was his first reaction. But after checking and finding the color TV set was still there, he figured it out: he had left the windows open that morning. The wind from the sudden squall that night blew everything around the house.

ON INCLUDING EXTRAS

QUESTION: When selling a home, is it a good idea to leave a lot of personal items for the new buyer as freebies. Drapery, cake or do you advise selling personal items that you really don't need?

ANSWER: Frost the cake! It's a good idea to include as many extras as possible. Drapery, cake or do you advise selling personal items that you really don't need? Whatever you do — do not try to sell such items to the buyer. The sale of a home is a big enough negotiation without muddying the water.

INCLUDING "EXTRAS" will make a buyer happy — but do it right!

16 Years Later, A Question: Who Killed Robert Kennedy?

(Edgar F. Tatrow, an English teacher at Quincy High School, has been investigating the assassination of President John F. Kennedy since it happened in 1963 and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy since he was shot five years later. He teaches a course in the John F. Kennedy assassination at Quincy Junior College.)

By EDGAR F. TATROW

This month marks the 16th anniversary of the assassination of Senator Robert F. Kennedy.

Hundreds of books and thousands of articles including much of my own research have been published concerning the conspiratorial aspects of President John F. Kennedy's assassination, but very little information pertaining to the second gun involved in the murder of Bobby Kennedy has been disseminated.

The official story is a simple one. The convicted assassin, Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, alone, shot and killed RFK and wounded five other bystanders with his eight shot revolver. However, a meticulous inspection of the evidence and testimony reveals a much different scenario, one which indicates that the official conclusion was as much a fairy tale as was the Warren Commission Report some five years earlier.

Although it is clear that Sirhan fired his gun that night, there is substantial reason to believe that his bullets did not kill Robert Kennedy and many RFK researchers firmly believe that they can identify the actual assassin. Their assertions, which are compelling, have essentially been ignored by California officials and federal law enforcement agencies. It is time to set the record straight.

Robert Kennedy was shot three times, twice in the right underarm and once fatally behind the right ear. All the witness places Sirhan two to six feet in front of Senator Kennedy throughout the nightmare. However, forensic pathologist, Dr. Thomas Noguchi, better known as "the coroner to the stars" and the role model for the television series "Quincy," and noted ballistics expert, William Harper, both emphatically testified that RFK was shot three times from back to front, bottom to top, from one to three inches from the back of his head and underarm. If the observations of the witnesses are correct, then Sirhan was never near enough not in a proper position to fire the fatal shot.

Later, the Los Angeles Police Department failed in their attempts to fire both Noguchi and Harper from their jobs once their testimony contradicted the official myth and there was a shooting attempt on Harper's life one day prior to his testimony before an aborted 1975 re-investigation.

Who was in a position to shoot RFK? A moonlighting security guard named SNAP-ON TIE lost by Thane Eugene Cesar lies beside body of stricken Sen. Robert F. Kennedy after he was shot down in kitchen of Los Angeles hotel while campaigning for president in 1968. Edgar F. Tatrow, an English teacher at Quincy High School, believes Kennedy may have been shot, not by Sirhan Sirhan, but by Cesar.

Thane Eugene Cesar was witnessed by many observers with his gun drawn and positioned to the right rear of Robert F. Kennedy. One news reporter, Donald Schulman, testified that Cesar fired his gun. Schulman assumed that Cesar was shooting at Sirhan and accidentally hit the senator. Cesar admitted that his position was to RFK's right rear and that he removed his gun, but denied firing any shots. California officials considered Schulman a mistaken witness.

Cesar also admitted to owning a pistol similar to Sirhan's but told authorities that he had sold it three months prior to the RFK assassination. Researchers discovered the purchaser of the gun, Jim Yoder. I have a copy of the sales receipt which clearly indicates that Cesar sold the gun to Yoder three months after the assassination, not before. The pistol has since been stolen from Yoder's home which prevented crucial ballistics comparisons. Was Cesar's misstatement a simple error or a blatant lie?

Also Cesar lost his snap-on tie that night. It can be seen lying beside the mortally wounded senator in several assassination pictures. Was Robert Kennedy's last dying act an attempt to grasp his killer?

Thane Eugene Cesar, a self-avowed anti-Kennedy, anti-Castro anti-Communist right winger may hold the solution to the evidentiary mysteries before us, but his whereabouts, assuming he is still alive, have been unknown for years.

Many people cite the futility of assassination re-investigations but there is no legal or moral statute of limitations in any murder case and the political ramifications of RFK's death were and still are gargantuan in nature. Time may numb, but does not necessarily heal all wounds.

Still other citizens question if the physical evidence would still be viable after 16 years. The answer is a resounding yes provided it still exists, but, as incredible as it may sound, the LAPD authorities saw fit to destroy almost everything within a year of the assassination.

Remember that Sirhan's gun held eight bullets and that seven bullets were recovered from the six victims that night. One bullet entered the ceiling panels causing two holes and was not found.

However, there are official FBI photographs of four other bullet holes in door jambs in addition to a bullet hole in a stage door frame. There is also a bullet ricochet mark on a door hinge and a torn away piece of material from a door panel which witnesses corroborate held a bullet.

In short, there is physical evidence of at least 12, if not 15 bullets fired that night and two ballistics experts Herbert MacDonald and Lowell Bradford testified in 1975 that one bullet removed from RFK and another from William Wesel were fired from two different guns. Those men were bureaucratically ignored also.

All of the materials, the ceiling panels, the door jambs, the door frame, the door paneling, a crucial test firing pistol and oddly enough even the allegedly undamaged left sleeves of RFK's suit-coat and shirt were destroyed by the LAPD. Would it be unpatriotic to ask what was the motivation for the annihilation of these vital historical exhibits?

There is more incriminating evidence such as the film of the mysterious, still unidentified, black man giving suspicious hand signals from the stage prior to the assassination while the senator gave his victory speech; the unscheduled change in directions of the entourage through that fateful kitchen; the improper identification of a serial number allegedly belonging to the aforementioned destroyed ballistics test fired gun; the murders of key figures related to the case, in particular, the assassination of New York Rep. Allard Lowenstein who had valiantly attempted to force a re-opening of the RFK investigation; and, various Sirhan-organized crime Jack Ruby links which deserve more careful attention since they suggest a possible association between the assassinations of the Kennedy brothers,

Mothers Press For Water Pressure In Germantown

Angry Germantown mothers threatened to march on City Hall if nothing was done about inadequate water pressure that was blamed for turning a small fire into a general alarm blaze that destroyed 301 head of livestock on George Hodgkinson's farm.

"They (the city) are waiting for a life to be lost and we are not going to wait," said Mrs. Claude B. Roundy of 100 Shed St., the spokesman for the mothers. "We aren't taking it anymore."

Hodgkinson, who lost property valued at $75,000 in the blaze on his Bicknell St. farm, echoed the mothers' sentiments.

"They (the city) had a whole year since the last fire to do something about the water pressure but they haven't," he said, referring to a $25,000 fire that ruined a barn at nearby Sailors Snug Harbor on July 28.

A spokesman for the City Water Department said he knew of no reason why water pressure in Germantown should be inadequate when in fact the pressure in that area was 80 pounds per square inch, higher than other parts of the city.

DEWEY NOMINATED

A mock election held by the Republican City Club and the Young People's Republican Club gave New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey 35 of 96 votes for nomination as the Republican candidate for President in the fall election.

House Speaker Joseph Martin got 16 votes, Sen. Leverett Saltonstall 14, Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan 11, Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio six, former Gov. Harold Stassen of Minnesota 12 and Gov. Earl Warren of California two.

"I feel the results of this mock election are sufficiently interesting to me to reveal them to my colleagues at the Republican convention," said Rep. Charles W. Hedges. "I believe they express a general consensus of Quincy voters."

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK
We all know that there are many different sides of being a father...

BEING A FATHER is Atlas supporting two worlds on his shoulders; A competitive nonsense world with cash rewards and the warm private world offering dividends of love, laughter, heartache, and memory.

BEING A FATHER is Moses, handing down the laws of the family, weighing the fate of those who dare to break the laws, and then melting out a just punishment.

BEING A FATHER is handing down knowledge. Though it would be much easier to do it himself, how will a son learn unless he works along side of his dad?

BEING A FATHER is the suffocating seizure that hits when his tom-boy daughter walks into the room a vision of love/henry in her prom dress.

BEING A FATHER is an aging process, a miracle of mellowing and maturing, and when his children marry, there is no shame as a few tears spill down an undeniably masculine cheek.

And so, to all you fathers, on this very special day, may we say, "Thanks for BEING YOU!"

New tooth-filling material, a ceramic-resin composite, is said to be as tough as silver amalgam. Using the new composite and cement requires less drilling and so leaves the tooth stronger, dentists say.

Cryosurgery, applying liquid nitrogen to freeze skin cancer, offers a number of advantages over other methods, says a medical journal report. It isn't painful, can be done in a doctor's office, and results in a superior cosmetic effect.

More accurate test to pinpoint herpes infection has been released for marketing by the FDA. Test takes only 2 days, and detects both herpes 1 and herpes 2.

Who's got a sore throat? When family members get repeated sore throats even after antibiotic treatment, the problem may be reinfection with bacteria carried by a household pet. Cure: antibiotics for the pet.

Early testing shows great promise for a group of chemicals called cycloimides. They can reduce the level of cholesterol and other fatty substances in the blood by as much as 60 percent. Further studies are expected.

Commissioning Service Held At Glad Tidings Church

A special commissioning service was held recently at Glad Tidings Church, Quincy, for David Lungari of Braintree who will spend eight weeks working with Assemblies of God Home missionaries in Boston.

Working as a volunteer through the Assemblies of God Mobilization and Placement Service (MAPS) program, Lungari will use his skills to enhance the missions project in the greater Boston area.

A graduate of Braintree High School, he has a B.S. degree from Northwestern University and is enrolled in Zion Bible Institute, Providence, R.I.

The MAPS program allows members of the denomination to become involved in evangelism and missions. It places printers, nurses, secretaries, teachers, radio and television technicians, and other skilled individuals in supportive roles at home and in foreign missions stations.

In addition, students serve with career missionaries during the summer months, and construction workers fill two to three week assignments building churches, parsonages, Bible schools, and other facilities.

All MAPS appointees raise their own support and travel fare, usually through offerings from their local churches, relatives, and friends.

The Assemblies of God has a staff of 1220 missionaries in 110 countries, in addition to 306 home missionaries who work with American Indians and other groups in the United States. The denomination's worldwide constituency now totals more than nine million.

"Your Community Church"

Take care of your own funeral arrangements now. So your family won't have to later.

By not taking care of your own funeral in advance, you force someone close to you to do it for you.

For the person who accepts the responsibility, making arrangements at the time of need is likely to be filled with uncertainties. The uncertainty of not knowing what you really wanted. Your personal preferences. Perhaps, a favorite dress or suit. A special prayer. A clergyman with whom you are especially close. The uncertainties are endless.

The kindest thing you can do for your family is make your own funeral arrangements far in advance of need. That way everybody will know the kind of funeral you would like to have.

Ramadan Services At Islamic Center

Imam Talal Eid, religious director of the Islamic Center of New England, 470 South St., Quincy Point, is conducting special services during the month of Ramadan.

Ramadan, is the holiest month in the Islamic calendar (Lunar month). It is a month of devotion and fasting. Muslims everywhere will fast from dawn to sunset, abstaining from food, drink and all things pleasurable.

Fasting in Ramadan is a spiritual exercise and a religious duty. It is one of the five fundamental articles -fourth pillar- upon which Islam stands.

Fasting is a universal institution as much as all the religions in the World, and all the great religious personality adopted fasting as the principal method of controlling and destroying passions.

In the Holy Qur'an God Almighty said in Sura (chapter) #2, Verse: 183: "O ye who believe, fasting is prescribed to those before you, that ye may (learn) self-restraint."

Fasting in the month of Ramadan is obligatory for every adult muslim, man and woman. It is not meant to be simply a denial of pleasures, liking eating or drinking. But the virtue of fasting is to monitor needs and the person, to put desires under control, to be patient, and to control urges and anger. It is the month of self-training, self-education, and self-discipline.

The virtues of fasting help the Muslim to meet the challenges of life and to arm him with sufficient immunity from weakness and despair. Because of these values, God has required fasting from every able Muslim during the month of Ramadan, year after year, so that Muslims would renew strength of will, and make this will power an integral part of their life routine.

Fasting has many spiritual meanings. It teaches man the principle of sincere love, because when he observes the fasting he does it out of deep love for God, and the man who loves God truly is a man who really knows what love is. He will feel stronger as a person, morally high, and pure inside his soul. He will have the sense of doing something special for the Almighty God, because he is fasting for him out of respect and dedication to His commands. Fasting teaches sympathy for the hungry man in the mind of the rich. Thus this sense engenders a spirit of kindness to the poor and to the distressed.

The Prophet Muhammad (Peace Be Upon Him) said: Whoever fasts in the month of Ramadan with good faith and with a wish for a reward from God, then all his previous sins will be forgiven.

Questions Over Robert Kennedy's Death

but I believe I have made my point.

There is a plethora of ignored testimony, mutilated evidence and irrational law enforcement behavior which spells conspiracy and cover up in the assassination of Robert F. Kennedy.

The reader should also keep in mind that this wholesale destruction of evidence and mockery of justice which changed the course of history was perpetrated during a 1968 Ronald Reagan gubernatorial administration in California. There's food for thought.

George Orwell in his satirical masterpiece 1984 warned the peoples of the world to avoid believing that they live in the best of all possible worlds. Recently C. Gordon Liddy, the Watergate trickster, said that the greatest weakness of the American people was their firm belief in the Easter Bunny, an illusion which keeps them from facing the harsher realities of life.

One must speculate that perhaps David Kennedy's psychological disintegration and drug-related death may have stemmed not only from the death of his father, but also from the lack of justice afforded RFK's memory after the senator's demise.

America is still haunted by 16 year old sins of the past.

An American flag flown over the U.S. Capitol Building in the Bi-Centennial Year of 1976 and presented to the Koch Club by late Congressman James A. Burke will be raised in the special flag raising exercises Thursday, June 14, at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The 33rd annual Flag Day Parade will precede the stadium ceremonies starting at 6:15 p.m. at the Vocational Technical School parking area on Coddingdon St. proceed along Hancock St. to the stadium. The North Quincy High School Band will lead the 1500 expected marchers and will be joined by the Hull High School Pirates Band.

Highlighting the parade march will be the pause at the Church of the Presidents for wreath laying at the crypt and tombs of the second and sixth United States Presidents John Adams and John Quincy Adams. The parade will stop again at the John F. Kennedy Health Center on Hancock St. where a wreath will be placed at the plaque in the foyer to recognize the 35th President of the United States.

Each boy and girl participating in the line of march will be provided a 12 inch by 18 inch American Flag to carry along the route and retain as a memento of the occasion upon the completion of the program.

The flags are donated by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, the Quincy City Club and a number of indiduals.

All youth and adult organizations from Quincy and the South Shore are invited to participate and may contact Richard J. Koch, Sr., parade co-ordinator, 241 Newbury Ave., North Quincy for assignment in the line of march.

The colorful spectacular is one of the only parades conducted annually where the major attraction in the line of march are boys and girls from Quincy and the South Shore.

Veteran and adult groups are welcome to join with the youth in its salute to Old Glory as marchers or spectators. Additional musical units are requested and invited to volunteer and participate in the Flag Day splendor.

The State Budget

The Massachusetts House of Representatives after almost 5 weeks of continuous debate passed its version of the state budget which included provisions for 2 income tax breaks, 1 supported a deduction of up to $2500 for mortgage payments on the homeowner's principal residence, and for taxpayers over 65 years of age, a gradual phase-out of the rate differential between earned and unearned income which would ultimately allow up to $11,000 of unearned income to be taxed at the lower rate for earned income. While it is still early in the session, it is expected that the Senate version of the state budget could contain a tax cut which would be different from the House. The 2 branches will then appoint a Conference Committee to work out the difference between each branch's version of the budget. The new fiscal year begins July 1 and it will probably be the end of June before a compromise is finally reached.

Also, the Legislature is currently working on a bill to revamp public education in Massachusetts. The bill originally numbered H5000 has been re-drafted to H 5704. Its provisions include basic skills testing early childhood education, long range school plans, graduation requirements, and many changes in teacher certification, pay, training and evaluation. The bill is slowly winding through the process.

The Housing and Urban Development Committee is expected to hold a hearing on the Governor's proposal for a separate sewer and water authority for the M.D.C. The hearing has tentatively been set up for Tuesday June 19, 1984 in Gardner Auditorium of the State House. The hearing will start at 11 a.m.

If I can be of any further assistance please don't hesitate to call me at home 328-0900 or in the State House 722-2470.

• Legion Baseball Morrisette Bombs Carter In Opener

By TOM SULLIVAN
The Morrisette Legion baseball team, defending division champion in Zone 6, got off to an auspicious start Sunday when it bowled over Carter Post of Dorchester, 12-4, at hot and steamy Adams Field.

Morrisette faced Holbrook last night, will host Quincy Friday night at 8 p.m. at Adams Field and will play at Weymouth Monday at 6. In other Legion games Wollaston will be at Weymouth Sunday at 2 and will host Carter Post Monday at 8 at Adams. Quincy will be home to Milford Tuesday night at Kat Adams.

Jack Outerbridge, who pitched for North Quincy High this spring, was outstanding as he weathered the sweltering heat to pitch six-hit, one-run ball for six innings before being given a rest. Paul Marshall finished up.

Morrisette pounded out 12 hits, five for extra bases. Dan Shea had two triples and an RBI. Chris Bunker a triple, single, sacrifice fly and two RBIs and Tom Ryan three singles and two RBIs. Jack Bolster, Scott Mele and Dennis Cronin also had run scoring hits.

The defensive play of the game was made by 15-year-old Chris Marshall, who made a diving stab of a line drive with two runners on for the final out of the game.

Morrisette has a solid nucleus of veterans with 11 players back from last year's squad that won its division in Zone 6 but lost to Braintree in the playoffs to decide the overall Zone 6 title.

"Our big question mark is the pitching," said veteran coach Ray Cattaneo, in his 15th year of coaching. "We have some promising pitchers but they have to prove themselves. Outerbridge did an outstanding job in Sunday's heat and if he and the others can come through, we should do all right. We have a lot of experience at the other positions, have some good hitters and we should be strong defensively."

Other pitching hopefuls are John Christiani, and Paul Marshall from B.C. High, Paul Ratti from Xaverian High, Mike Joyce from Xaverian, who also plays the outfield, and Rick Kelley of Quincy, also an infielder.

Cattaneo has two fine catchers in North Quincy's Rich Brooks and Mike Ginn.

The infielders are Chris of Thayer Academy, Mele of Abp. Williams, Kelley, Chris Marshall of B.C. High, who also plays in the outfield, Ryan of Xaverian and Shea of B.C. High.

Bunker of North Quincy, who led the Suburban League in batting for the second straight year, is in centerfield and the other outfielders are North Quincy's Bolster, the number four batter in the Suburban League this spring and runnerup to Bunker a year ago; Tom Connolly of Abp. Williams, Joyce, Chris Marshall and Dan Kelley of Abp. Williams.

The only newcomers this season are Brooks, Christiani, Joyce, Chris Marshall, Ratti and Shea.

Cattaneo once again has Connie Carozzi and Bill Corcoran as his assistant coaches. Frank Osborne is the athletic officer.

Merrymount Middle School Champs

3 New City Summer Sports Camp Programs

The Quincy Recreational Department has added three new offerings to its popular Summer Sports Camps and Instructional Workshop Program.

The new additions are Cheerleading, Volleyball, and Tennis and bring the total offerings up to 10 camps for the summer of 1984.

Recreation Director Barry J. Welch said: "These camps have been designed to give Quincy residents a low cost alternative for youngsters who desire specialized instruction in sports, without the high cost of residential sports camps. The week long programs are under the direction of highly qualified coaches and staff from the area and will feature individual instruction and an approximate ratio of one to ten."

"The programs are offered on a self-supporting basis, and in the two previous years have provided many memorable recreation experiences without additional tax support."

Registration for all of the 1984 programs will begin Monday, June 18 at 8:30 a.m. and continue weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Recreation Department Office at 100 Southern Artery. Enrollment is taken on a first come first serve basis and is limited.

LIQUID FIRE

Hot liquids can inflict burns as serious as any flame burn. A recent study of burn injuries in Boston found that scalds represented 44 per cent of all burns reported and that 24 per cent of the scald injuries required hospitalization. Flame burns accounted for only 27 per cent of the reported burns.

The key factors determining the seriousness of a scald are water temperature and the duration of exposure. A less hot liquid in contact with the skin for a longer time results in as severe a burn as a very hot liquid in contact with the skin for a shorter time. That is why scalds from hot water systems, where the temperature may range up to 175 degrees, can be as serious as scalds from hot grease at 400 degrees.

Bathing scalds more often require hospitalization than scalds from hot liquids in the kitchen because the whole body is involved. The surest way to prevent bath scalding is to adjust the water-heater temperature to between 135 and 140 degrees - hot enough to wash, but not hot enough to burn.

WEEK OF: JUNE 14, 1984

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19
Week offers financial gains, renewed friendship, and the birth of a new and potentially profitable idea. One warning: Watch uncommon tendency to be blunt and uncompromising.

PISCES - February 20-March 20
Mutual respect is enhanced between you and favorite friend. Week features gradual financial expansion. In fact, gradual is the current byword in all your various endeavors.

ARIES - March 21-April 20
Lots of options are sprinkled through the week and your greatest problem lies in the choosing. A popular friend looks forward to your company much more than you may believe.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22
Good week to launch a campaign or become involved in political activities. Recent statement may return to haunt you, this time, choose every word with meticulous care.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21
Romantic misunderstanding can easily turn into romantic entanglement; don't make light of a serious situation. Creative skills are sharp. Consider, perhaps, teaching a class.

CANCER - June 22-July 22
Most innocent remarks take on shades of meaning by several friends. Changes in home setting - from a move to a new decor - are generally accentuated through this period.

LEO - July 23-August 22
Feelings of doubt linger till Saturday, but confidence is stronger than ever by the weekend. Don't look back. Proceed with new projects, new vigor, and a new look.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22
It's important to speak your mind, but equally important to know your audience well. Aggressive neighbor or coworker is easier to live with. Intellectual activities are spotlighted.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22
Your sense of humor can pierce the tensions that hang over this week. Then, summer's off to an official start. Youngsters benefit from your encouragement.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21
It's not too late to catch up on ancient correspondence, obligations and the like. Planning ahead is important; purchase tickets or make reservations before you're too late.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22
It's unlike you, but this week you're heeding everyone's advice but your own - and that can be a problem. Your ideas may not be popular, but they're more effective than you believe.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20
Correspondence received now holds a bundle of news and demands prompt action on your part. Social life perks up as you learn to accentuate your very unique strengths.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
People often think you have psychic powers, which may relate to the fact that you're so sympathetic to the feelings and needs of others. New influences that enter your world lead to definite improvement in important relationships by late summer or early autumn.

BORN THIS WEEK

Cheney Wins, Johnston To Seek Recount

Tuesday, June 19, at 5 p.m.

"The first thing I will introduce into the Council is an ordinance that would restrict chlorination trucks from passing through school districts one hour prior to and one hour after school is in session," Cheney said.

"In addition, I would like to see an MDC police escort of the 16-ton chlorine trucks carrying 38,000 pounds of liquid chlorine to Nut Island. If a truck should overturn and rupture it would be a disaster for Ward 1.

"I would like to work out additional safety precautions with the MDC. If a truck were to rupture there is no escape route established for school children or anyone in Ward 1."

The vacancy in the Ward 1 Council seat came about Jan. 13 when Leo J. Kelly resigned after 10 years in the post to take a $25,000 job as a project manager with the Quincy Housing Authority.

Kelly said he offered both the candidates his help in showing the winner the City Council ropes and he renewed the offer following Cheney's victory. Kelly did not support either candidate.

"There were five good-looking candidates in the preliminary election and two of them went to the final," said Kelly. "The close election showed that the people weighed both candidates and found them equally qualified."

Johnston came out of the May preliminary election with an eight vote margin over Cheney. Bernard Reisberg, Kevin Davis and Mary Crowley Gregoire were eliminated in that order.

Cheney's victory in the final election preserved an odd tradition in Ward 1. Over the past 20 years, every time two newcomers have faced each other in a Council election, the winner of the primary has lost in the final.

The vote by precinct:

Ward 1 Recount Set For June 25

A recount of ballots in the June 12 election for Ward 1 city councillor will be held Monday, June 25, at 9:30 a.m. in the City Council Chamber at City Hall.

In the original count, Michael T. Cheney defeated Robert L. Johnston by a scant 79 votes in the race to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Leo J. Kelly.

Johnston formally requested a recount

Monday, turning in papers with 23 valid signatures, more than twice the required 10.

City Clerk John Gillis said the recount will require the services of 13 people working for two or three hours. The cost to the city will be about $300.

Council President James A. Sheets said the new councillor probably will be sworn in sometime between the recount and Thursday, June 28, the probable date of the final Council meeting of the fiscal year.

"We will leave the decision up to the new councillor so that he can invite his family and friends," said Sheets.

The Council has been operating with eight members since January when Kelly announced his resignation to accept a $25,000 a year post as project manager in the Quincy Housing Authority.

$30 Million

Luxury Apartment Complex Planned

By TOM HENSHAW

Investors Management Groups Inc. of Boston has announced plans to construct a $30-million luxury apartment complex with 596 rental housing units on a 21-acre site off Quincy Ave., behind President Plaza.

Jeffrey A. Kosow of Investors Management, whose family has owned the former quarry area for 15 years, said the five-building complex will be built in two phases over the next three years.

Kosow said the complex, which will be called "The Ledges," will have to get state environmental approval as well as planned unit development permits from the City Council.

"We believe this project will have a number of benefits for the area and for the city," said Kosow.

"It will contribute desperately needed property tax dollars, improve property values in the area, landscape and beautify the property and help improve vehicular access to President Plaza and nearby residential streets."

The Planning Department will hold a public meeting on the proposed development Wednesday, June 27, at 7:30 p.m. in the second floor conference room at City Hall.

Planning Director James R. Lydon said Mayor Francis X. McCauley "is aware of the project and supports plans for new housing that creates economic development."

Dennis Harrington, local attorney for the project, said preliminary environmental impact forms will be filed with the state and the Conservation Commission tomorrow (Friday).

"We are anxious to work with area residents and city officials to develop a project that will help the city fill its need for apartments while improving the existing roadway and traffic access to the area," said Harrington.

The project would consist of five eight-to-10 story apartment buildings with 596 one and two-bedroom apartments. About two-thirds of them will have one bedroom.

Tennis courts, a swimming pool and clubhouse and parking for tenants and guests are included in the plans.

Other participants in the plan are the law firms of Barry, Materson and Harrington of North Quincy and Bingham, Dana and Gould of Boston.

Also the architectural firm of Vitols Associates of Boston and the engineering firm of H. W. Moore Associates, also of Boston.

"We decided to build apartments on this site," said Kosow, "because with a vacancy rate of 1 per cent, Quincy urgently needs more, top rate, residential rental units."

Parking Approved For N-Q McDonald's

A new McDonald's restaurant in North Quincy should be opening up in the fall now that all of the requirements have been met to the satisfaction of the License Board.

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald told fellow board members at Tuesday's meeting that the restaurant proposed for 275-297 Hancock St. has the required off-street parking on land under the same ownership as the building.

The board had granted McDonald's a license May 1 subject to a ruling by a law department regarding parking and other legal technicalities.

As a result, a limited hearing was held last week. The matter was continued so that MacDonald's figures regarding parking could be verified.

MacDonald said this week that the Otis Elevator Building, which will house the restaurant on the first floor and offices in other parts of the building, has 39 parking spaces.

According to the zoning ordinances, explained MacDonald, the restaurant, which is considered a place of assembly, is required to, have one parking space for every 10 seats.

Since the restaurant will have 104 seats, 10 parking spaces out of the 39 will be required for the restaurant, said MacDonald.

City Councillor Joanne Condon, an opponent of the restaurant's North Quincy location, had a sometimes heated discussion with the building inspector on the adequacy of the required parking.

Gas Station Robbed Twice

The Old Colony Gas Station on Franklin St. was robbed twice in two days.

About 5:30 a.m. Friday someone kicked in the front door and made off with 70 packages of Marlboro's valued at $70 and 14 Bic lighters valued at $30.

Shortly before midnight Saturday, the attendant was counting money when a man walked in and asked for cigarettes. The attendant refused him and he pulled a blue steel handgun and fled with $67.

The man was described as

He was wearing faded jeans and a black T-shirt wearing the letters, "DOOR."

The number is 329-5070.

School Committee To Resume Discussion Of Creedon Case

The School Committee will have an opportunity Wednesday, June 27, night to turn over to the district attorney the allegations under fire, agreed that it would be the best way to settle the case.

The motion to refer the case to the district attorney was made by Committee Vice Chairwoman Joan Picard last week and Creedon, acknowledging that he is the school official under fire, agreed that it would be the best way to settle the case.

"I am pleased with the motion to have the matter referred to the proper judicial authorities because that is where all such matters of this kind belong," Creedon told the Quincy Sun.

Last week, however, the motion was tabled on the objection of Committee member Christopher Kennedy, a move that postponed any debate and vote until the next meeting.

Meanwhile, a petition drive continued in an effort to force the School Committee to hold a formal hearing into charges that Creedon touched the girl's breast while visiting an art class in the high school.

Gini Kurtzman of Wollaston, one of the leaders of the petition drive, said some 40 or 45 people are collecting signatures but she would have no precise figures until the weekend.

"We probably have a few thousand right now and that's a conservative estimate," she said.

Kurtzman said the goal is to collect 10,000 signatures that can be used to force a citywide referendum on whether to go ahead with a formal hearing even if the School Committee refuses to hold it.

The School Committee voted 4-3 on June 6 not to hold a formal hearing, then moved to reconsider by 6-1 vote after the petitioners marched on the June 13 Committee meeting.

In addition to the move to refer to the district attorney, the School Committee also will vote next Wednesday on whether to continue with a formal hearing.

The motion to reconsider was made by Kennedy, one of the four who voted earlier to take no further action. The vote to reconsider was 6-1 with Frank Anselmo voting in opposition.

Then Picard moved to refer it to the district attorney but Kennedy objected, ending discussion for that meeting.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley, who chairs the committee by virtue of his city office, said he will not support the Picard motion when it comes up for a vote.

"That's a way of getting us off the hook," he said. "That is the student's right. It is not for us to decide. We are responsible for dealing with the situation now."

The School Committee has held two executive sessions on the matter, lasting a total of six and a half hours.

Voting to take no further action at the June 6 meeting were Kennedy, Picard, Anselmo and Mary Collins. Voting to continue were McCauley, Nicholas Verenis and Stephen Durkin.

Vandals Topple McIntyre Memorial

Vandals over the weekend toppled the nearly one-ton granite Capt. William F. McIntyre Memorial from its foundation on McIntyre Mall near City Hall.

The monument was undamaged and Cemetery Department workers righted it Monday morning.

The memorial, dedicated Oct. 25, 1981, honors the memory of the father of the late James R. McIntyre, former mayor, state senator, state rep, city councillor and senate counsel.

Delay New Weapon In Budget Battle

By TOM HENSHAW

The City Council Monday night brought out a new weapon in its war of harassment with Mayor Francis X. McCauley over the public safety budget for fiscal 1985.

Councillors simply objected to every appropriation order brought in by the Mayor during the final regularly scheduled Council meeting of fiscal 1984.

The objections have the effect of postponing debate and decision on the appropriation orders until the Council meeting.

The next regularly scheduled Council meeting is Tuesday, Sept. 4, but Council President James A. Sheets said it will be proper to deal with the orders at a special meeting before the end of June.

The Council's strategy became apparent with the first item on Tuesday's agenda --- a $6,940 appropriation to replace the 20-year-old boiler at the North Quincy library, which quit the first week of April.

"We still have an issue of public safety," said Councillor John J. Lydon, Jr. "I wish the Mayor was as sensitive to public safety as he is to the library. I object to the order."

Eleven other orders on the 16-item agenda also were postponed by objections.

The only financial order to pass scrutiny was one of $10,082 to replace the tar and gravel on the roof of the police station, which leaks badly during periods of heavy rain.

Other financial items to fall before the barrage of objections included:

---$20,000 to paint the Central Fire Station on Quincy Ave.

---$711,678 to replace a 98-year-old water main on Hancock St. from the Neponset River Bridge to Wollaston Center.

---$526 for the purchase of an air conditioner for the Public Works Department.

---$56,342 to pay street lighting bills, some of them dating back to 1974 and 1975.

---$5,000 for the Fire Watch Detail Account to pay for details worked by fire fighters.

---$65,000 to purchase eight compact sedans for various departments.

---$5,000 for assessors to update Building Department records.

---$3,200 for training in the assessor's office.

---$50,000 for the assessors to update personal property values.

Council Appropriates $10,082 To Repair Police Station Roof

The City Council Monday night appropriated $10,082 to buy what Council President James A. Sheets called "a blow out patch" for the roof of the police station.

"It's embarrassing; everytime it rains the police have to work with water running down the walls," said Councillor Theodore P. DeCristofaro in support of the order to replace the tar and gravel roof.

"This is emergency money," said Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson. "Water coming down the walls can affect all the electrical connections in the building."

Councillor Joanne Condon said she can think of a number of other improvements that could be made at the police station and suggested that "we should recess and go down and look at the station."

"Would we not be better off to look seriously for a new building?" suggested Councillor Stephen J. McGrath and Anderson said Planning Director James Lydon has been seeking federal funds for it.

"We are about 1 per cent along the way," he said. "We have recognized the need for a new station."

Sheets said the initiative for obtaining federal funds for a new police station should come from the Mayor.

"I'm not going to continually purchase blow out patches for a worn out tire," he said.

The Council voted 8-0 to purchase at least one more blow out patch.

State Opinion Awaited

The budget dispute between Mayor Francis X. McCauley and the City Council now awaits a recommendation from Edward Collins, the state's deputy commissioner of revenue.

Both sides in the dispute met with Collins in the State House June 13 to elicit an opinion from him on which of the two budgets will be legally in effect July 1.

Council President James A. Sheets said that Collins, who is currently attending an auditors' convention on the Cape, plans to confer with McCauley and Sheets before sending a written recommendation.

Sheets said the conference may be done by telephone to speed the process along.

City Clerk John Gillis met with Collins last week to explain why the legal budget is the one-twelfth budget of $6.3 million passed by the Council and certified by the city clerk.

City Solicitor Dean Nicastro and Executive Secretary Peter Kenney also were at the meeting in support of Mayor Francis X. McCauley's original $75.8 million budget.

McCauley, armed with an opinion from Nicastro, says he feels that budget passed the Council by default and should be certified as the legal one by Gillis.

The Council balked at passing the $75.8 million budget because councillors feared that the $13.9 million police and fire budgets were not enough to insure public safety.

Sheets said a petition drive to collect signatures urging the mayor to increase the public safety budgets has secured in excess of 7,000 names.

And the Council continued to keep pressure on the Mayor by refusing Monday night to pass appropriation orders and transfers to enable the city to balance the fiscal 1984 books.

Sheets said, however, that the Council will probably reconsider them at the final meeting of 1984, probably Thursday, June 29.

Morrissey Urges MDC Buy Goldie's Junkyard

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey has urged that the MDC purchase the site of Goldie's junkyard adjacent to the Blue Hills Reservation to forestall construction of two multi-story office buildings.

"This type of development will not only destroy the aesthetic value of Quincy's gateway to the Blue Hills but it will also present severe traffic and safety problems to already congested roadways," he said.

"By acquiring this land, the MDC will help preserve the true beauty of the Blue Hills Reservation and limit future traffic flow in the Willard St. area.

"Future development in this area will pose major problems to an already overburdened sewerage system.

"Since the amount of open space is limited, why not maintain as much as we possibly can for the residents of Quincy."

Morrissey's remarks were contained in a letter to MDC Commissioner William Geary.

The Adams Realty Trust has proposed construction of two office buildings, each with 125,000 square feet of floor space, at a cost of $20 million on the site near the Braintree line.

Bill Reinstates Illegally Fired

Public employees who are fired at illegal meetings can be ordered reinstated with full benefits. Sen. Paul D. Harold notes.

Under an amendment to the Open Meeting Law now in effect, a judge who rules such a meeting or hearing in violation of the law can order a discharged employee reinstated with back pay, s. minority, tenure and other benefits.

The Open Meeting law, which governs most public boards, also allows the judge to invalidate any other action taken at an illegal meeting, and order the records of such a meeting to be made public, Harold said.

Suits under the Open Meeting Law can be brought by the attorney general, district attorney, or three registered voters.

The Creodon Case

The misconduct complaint against School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creodon has mushroomed to a stage where you wonder if justice is really going to prevail in the end.

The complaint, brought by the father of a high school female student, has triggered strong emotions, wild stories, fighting between school committee members and behind-the-scenes attempts to force Creodon's resignation.

He was originally cleared by a 4-3 School Committee vote not to take further action on a charge that he touched the student's breast.

There are many sincerely concerned fathers and mothers — some of them signing or circulating petitions — who want a second hearing on the matter.

But there are also Creodon enemies who are at work fanning the flames hoping to topple him from what they sneeringly call "Creodon's empire".

He has his share of enemies. Some are irritated by his $55,000 salary which makes him Quincy's highest paid official. Some find his self-confidence overbearing. There are even those who dislike him because of his natty attire.

Whatever the reason, there are a lot of people in Quincy, to put it plainly, who would like to see him fall flat on his face. And, if they can help with a push or a shove, they're not going to miss out on the opportunity.

Right now — with emotions and feelings running high in the city — it might be a good time to ask a question:

Isn't the accused presumed to be innocent until proven guilty?

Creodon, so far, has been tried in the press — particularly in the Patriot Ledger. And, to many who have read the accounts, he stands convicted.

In its first series of Page 1 stories on the case May 31, the Ledger reported that the School Committee met 4½ hours behind closed doors "to discuss the possible disciplining of a high ranking school department official for alleged misconduct involving a female student."

The Ledger did not directly identify Creodon at that time but pointed the finger at him with this paragraph:

"In an unusual move, the committee appointed John Osterman acting school superintendent for the closed session even though Superintendent Lawrence Creodon was in attendance."

Most readers quickly put one and one together to identify the official as Creodon and then many jumped to the conclusion that he must be guilty because Osterman was appointed acting superintendent. They must have a lot on Creodon, many reasoned, because he was relieved of his duties as superintendent.

But the story was in error.

Osterman was not appointed acting superintendent. He was appointed acting secretary to the School Committee for that executive session because the subject pertained to Creodon. As superintendent, Creodon serves as secretary to the School Committee.

The School Committee did not go into executive session "to discuss possible disciplining" but to decide whether or not further action should be taken.

But to many, Creodon was guilty then and there — without trial.

On June 6, the School Committee voted 4-3 not to take further action. Voting to close the matter were Committee Vice Chairwoman Joan Picard, Frank Anselmo, Mary Collins and Christopher Kennedy.

Mayor Francis McCauley, as committee chairman; Stephen Durkin and Nicholas Verenis voted for further action.

The girl's father was then quoted in the Ledger June 8 as saying that the School Committee's investigation of the misconduct complaint was a "whitewash".

On June 13, after more than 100 persons marched from McIntyre Mall to the School Committee meeting protesting the earlier "no further action" vote, the committee voted 6-1 on a motion by Kennedy to reconsider. Anselmo was the lone dissenter.

KENNEDY

Some people believed in ancient times that stars were tiny lights on the inner side of a great, hollow globe.

Vice Chairwoman Picard then moved to refer the case to the District Attorney's office for "evaluation and investigation."

Kennedy blocked immediate action on that motion by tabling it until the June 27 meeting.

Meanwhile, Anselmo is reported in the Ledger as charging that McCauley and Vernis are trying to "railroad" Creodon out of office.

McCauley is quoted as responding: "That's ridiculous" and Vernis as saying Anselmo is "making no sense" and calling him "daffy".

Anselmo also claims McCauley "orchestrated" the 6-1 vote to reopen the case.

The petition drive has been resumed to seek a formal hearing.

But with School Committee members who would conduct that hearing firing salvos back and forth and all the behind-the-scenes maneuvering going on, would that hearing be a fair one?

Besides that, does the School Committee really have the expertise to conduct an investigation? Do committee members know how to examine and cross-examine witnesses?

Would Creodon get a fair hearing — free of politics and personalities.

Have the events in the case been fair so far?

Creodon has been identified as "the high ranking school department official" on information leaked out of School Committee executive sessions and his name headlined all over Page 1.

But the identities of the father of the girl and the girl herself have been protected in those same executive sessions.

Creodon has not been officially identified in the matter so far. Yet, everyone in Quincy knows it is him. But few, outside of school officials, know the identity of his accuser or the actual evidence against him.

But in the minds of many, Creodon's guilty anyway — without trial.

The father called the School Committee 4 to 3 vote not to take further action "a whitewash".

If a second hearing should be held and Creodon is cleared on a majority vote, would that be labeled another "whitewash"?

Considering the events, the accusations, the infighting, the emotions, Committee Vice Chairwoman Picard has the right idea: refer the case to the District Attorney's office for evaluation and investigation.

The best place for this case is a courtroom.

In fairness to all — Creodon, the father, the girl and the people of Quincy — the matter should be aired without emotion in a courtroom with all involved testifying under oath and the laws of evidence intact.

A step in the right direction would be to pass Mrs. Picard's motion.

The father of the girl could have gone to court himself to get a complaint but has not done so — so far. He could still do it if he were not satisfied with an investigation by the District Attorney's office.

There just has been too much written and too much said in this case to allow the School Committee to conduct a no-politics, no-personalities impartial hearing.

The case belongs in the hands of proper investigative authorities and — if evidence warrants — in a court of law.

It's a serious case and should be weighed on evidence — not on politics, emotions and leaks from executive sessions.

If the School Committee conducts a second hearing and a majority of the members make a final determination of innocence or guilt, there will always be a cloud called "whitewash" or "railroad" hanging over it.

The air could — and should — be cleared with a full and proper investigation by passing the Picard motion.

Hundreds March In Koch Club 33rd Flag Day Parade

The skies cleared for the 6:15 p.m. starting time as the Koch Club Flag Day Parade stepped off for its 33rd annual Flag Day Parade in the City of Quincy as hundreds of boys and girls carrying flags marched down Hancock St. to Veterans Memorial Stadium for the brief flag raising ceremonies.

Quincy Police and Fire Department Color Guards led the parade and were joined by a U.S. Army Color Guard and U.S. Marine Color Guard present to commemorate the 209th anniversary of the establishment of the U.S. National Army.

The North Quincy High School Band provided the musical beat for the opening division while the Hull High School Pirates Marching Band provided a series of special selections and demonstrations along the parade route.

Joining the four city Koch Club units in the parade roster were the Quincy Track Club, St. Ann's Baseball League, the Camp Fire Girls, Girl Scouts and Brownies.

George F. Bryan VFW Post senior color guard participated in the annual event joined the first division during the parade and raised the flag in special flag raising ceremonies at the stadium. The Quincy High School ROTC Color Guard and marching unit joined in the line of march as well as members of the Civil Air Patrol.

At the stadium ceremonies, Richard J. Koch, Sr., master of ceremonies, introduced the guests including Stephen W.

Nease, president of Eastern Nazarene College, Rabbi Jacob Mann of Beth Israel Synagogue and Rev. Cornelius J. Heery, Pastor of Sacred Heart Church. Each offered a prayer during the exercises.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley provided a Flag Day Proclamation to the Koch Club designating June 14th as Flag Day in Quincy to coincide with the national recognition of the day.

Councillors at-Large Patricia Toland and Richard J. Koch, Jr. attended as platform guests along with Ward 2 Councillor Theodore DeCristoforo.

The following Koch Club Scholarship Award winners were presented $100. scholarships each from Committee Chairman Anthony T. Delmonico. North Quincy High School winners were Kathy Anne Hegarty and Stephen W. Warren.

Quincy High School students chosen were Cynthia L. Morrell and Eric Jolley.

The Quincy Vocational Technical School winners selected were Susan P. Zeiba and Michael Hussey.

The hundreds of American flags presented to the boys and girls participating in the Flag Day Parade were provided by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and the Quincy City Club.

Koch estimates that approximately 50,000 flags have been used during the past 33 years by the boys and girls participating in the annual event and retaining the patriotic symbol as a memento following the observance.

Stronger Bicycle Reflectors Needed

Bicyclists will need stronger headlights and taillamps when riding their bikes at night under new legislation now in effect, Sen. Paul D. Harold reports.

The new law, amending bicycle safety rules for the first time in 10 years, requires the bicycle to have a headlight visible for at least 500 feet, and a taillight or reflector visible for at least 600 feet in the beams of auto headlights.

Senator Harold noted that the former law required only a white reflector on the front of the bike visible for 100 feet, and the rear reflector had to be visible for only 100 feet.

The new law also requires reflectors on the bike pedals, or reflective material around the cyclist's ankles, visible for 600 feet, Harold noted. The old law required visibility for only 200 feet.

The penalty for violation, the same as under the old law, is a fine of up to $20, but the law also provides that the bicycle may be impounded for up to 15 days when the violation is committed by a minor.

Syndrome (FAS).

vides training, consultation and technical assistance to groups and the general public who are interested in the prevention of alcohol abuse.

There is no fee for the program.

Collins Withdraws Resignation As NQHS Principal

The School Committee met in executive session with James S. Collins and when it was over Collins announced that he was withdrawing his resignation as headmaster of North Quincy High School and would not accept a lesser paying job in Hingham.

Collins was reportedly upset when he was denied a raise in his $4,000 a year salary because the School Department could not afford it while at the same time James Carter was hired as physical education director at $4,500 a year.

A group of North Quincy parents met at the home of Mrs. Hubert Frazer in Squantum and voted to ask the School Committee to "use every influence to retain the services of this valued man and remove any obstacle that may be in his way."

The School Committee, meeting behind closed doors with School Supt. James N. Muir in order to discuss "personalities," voted on the motion of Committeeman George W. Abele to request that Collins withdraw his resignation.

PARKING PLAN FAVORED

Led by Frank E. Remick of the Retail Merchants' Bureau and President Thomas C. Johnson of the Quincy Chamber of Commerce, proponents outnumbered opponents at a hearing on a plan to have the city purchase the parking area to the rear of Hancock St. stores.

Remick pointed out that business property in downtown Quincy pays 10 per cent of the taxes in the city and that there is a definite relation between the adequacy of the parking and the amount of business done by Quincy Center stores.

CONTRACT PROTEST

Quincy shipbuilders joined with those from Camden, N.J., in protesting the award of two contracts to build 35,000-ton battleships to U.S. government shipyards when President Franklin D. Roosevelt ruled the private contracts were too high.

PAY HIKE SOUGHT

Chauffeurs in the various divisions of the Quincy Public Works Department petitioned the City Council to set their rate of pay at $36 a week. The petitioners said some of them were getting $30, others $33 and a few $36 a week.

Ground Broken For Willard Office Building

They called it a ground-breaking but actually the ground had been broken in 1891.

Dickinson Development Corp. and the Grossman Companies, Inc., held the ceremony Wednesday to inaugurate the redevelopment of the old Willard School in West Quincy as a four-story office building.

The partners purchased the 93-year-old elementary school from the city for $916,500 and will spend a little less than $2 million to ready it for their first tenants by Dec. 15, 1984.

"For years Quincy children were educated here," said Planning Director James Lydon. "Now Quincy workers will be employed here."

Mayor Francis X. McCauley noted that the $916,500 purchase price was the most money the city has obtained for any of the abandoned school houses.

"It's exciting to me that they do not have to tear the building down," said the mayor, who lives in Houghs Neck. "They tore down two of the old schools in my neighborhood and it is a sad thing."

Architect John Sheskey said the building will retain its exterior appearance and the partners have applied for historic designation, which will mean investment tax credits for the building.

REAL ESTATE UPDATE

THE GREAT INFLATION HEDGE

QUESTION: Why does everyone say that home ownership is one of the great hedges against inflation?

ANSWER: For one thing, your monthly installment payments never change (unless you have a "rollover" mortgage). Also, your investment grows as the value of your home increases with rising prices. On top of that, you enjoy some fine tax advantages, especially the property tax and mortgage interest deduction. There is no better inflation hedge than the ownership of a home. And, most importantly, real estate values have always increased faster than the cost of living.

THERE'S NO BETTER HEDGE against inflation than ownership of a home. For Complete Professional Service or Complimentary Market Analysis of your home, Call or Write:

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

"America, America, God shed His grace on thee - and crown thee good with brotherhood, from sea to shining sea" . . . The song is sung daily throughout our country . . . The words are beautiful . . . We continually proclaim the goodness of brotherhood in song and speeches, but in national analysis, can it truthfully be said we practice it? . . . Even the most compassionate optimist would have to say 'No' to the question . . .

Cain's cynical question, "Am I my brother's keeper?" is reflected daily in today's life style. Self interest comes first. Rivalry is rampant. Crime, hate and despair are seen in too many segments of our society. Man-made laws to create brotherhood have proved to be useless no matter what decisions our Supreme Court dictates. Man-made laws cannot and never will generate brotherhood . . . Is it not obvious that brotherhood can only come about when men replace hate with love; replace doubt with faith; and show respect instead of disrespect for a fellow man? . . .

PHARMACY TOPICS

By Edward David R.Ph.

Major health insurers are beginning to offer "substance abuse" benefits to cover treatment for alcoholism and other drug-abuse problems.

First aid for sunburn: the oil in a vitamin E capsule. Cover the burned areas thoroughly, and rest.

Improved pneumonia vaccines now available cover microorganisms responsible for over 90 percent of pneumococcal disease in the United States. Revaccination is not recommended, though, if you've had an earlier vaccine.

Traveling overseas? One health insurance policy refers subscribers to more than 1,000 doctors world wide and hospitals in 130 countries. Referral centers overseas will also fly them home if necessary.

Eye surgeons will someday correct vision by sewing into the eye a "living contact lens" made from a donated cornea. That report was offered at a meeting of the American Academy of Ophthalmology.

Bethany Church To Celebrate WJDA Sunday

Each Sunday morning the congregation of Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear Sts., Quincy Centre, literally increases by thousands with the addition of the radio audience listening over station WJDA.

These regular broadcasts began in June 1962. Since that time, over 1100 services have originated from Bethany Church.

The Rev. J. William Arnold, senior minister, commented: "The significance of this radio ministry basically is two-fold. First, it enables the church to maintain contact with the sick and confined and for those persons to share in the weekly worship experience.

Secondly, the Christian Faith is shared and the gospel is consistently proclaimed to a wide audience, not only on the South Shore, but in places as far as Connecticut and Maine."

This coming Sunday, June 24, has been designated "WJDA Sunday" at Bethany. There will be a special worship service beginning at 10 a.m. in the sanctuary.

The 22 year relationship between Bethany and WJDA will be honored and celebrated.

The president and general manager of the radio station, James D. Asher, Jr., and Win Bettinson, retired program director and Bethany member, will both make brief remarks.

Pastor Arnold will preach the sermon entitled, "Ephphatha: Opening Up Communications," based on the Gospel of Mark 7:31-37. The scripture lesson will be read by Barbara A. MacFarlane. The associate minister, the Rev. Joel F. Huntington, will be liturgist and offer the pastoral prayer.

The Chancel Choir under the direction of Peter E. Krasinski, organist, will present as the offertory anthem, "With a Voice of Singing" by Shaw. Jean and Win Bettinson will sing as a duet, by request, the Gospel number "Ivory Palaces."

Individuals and families in the community are welcome to come and share in this worship celebration.

Those who listen to the services over WJDA are especially invited to attend Bethany Church "in person" for this special Sunday.

Pastor Arnold said, "Hopefully, this will be an opportunity to meet some of our 'unseen' audience and acknowledge them during and after the service."

Arrangements to attend are being made for persons who are shut-ins at home or in nursing homes. Transportation is being provided by car or by wheelchair van for those desiring assistance.

There is a ramp at the church and a pew has been removed in the center of the sanctuary to accommodate wheel chairs.

Those interested in attending may call the church office at 479-7300 if they need assistance with transportation or additional information.

Nursery care will be provided during the worship for babies and toddlers. Following the service, there will be a time for fellowship and refreshments in the Allen Parlor.

Krasinian Father Topic At Squantum Church

Members and friends of the First Church of Squantum celebrated Father's Day Sunday with a Father's Day Breakfast served by the children of the church and a special Father's Day worship service.

Church pastor, the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, preached on the topic, "What Does a Christian Father Do?" His text came from the Sermon on the Mount: "Or what man of you, if his son asks him for bread, will give him a stone? Or if he asks for a fish, will give him a serpent?" (Matthew 7:9,10)

The offertory anthem "Thanks Be To Thee" by G. F. Handel was sung by the Youth Choir and the Chancel Choir combined.

Assisted by Patti Hurd, representing the church Board of Christian Education, choir director Mary Ruth Scott presented choir pins to the members of the Youth Choir for their faithful performance during the past year. Receiving pins were Chris Dixey, Robert Dixey, Mindi Hurd, Sarah Midlman, Karen Reister, David Scott, Susan Scott, Deborah Stohberg and David Williams.

Hymns sung during the service included "God of Our Fathers," "Whose Almighty Hand," "This is My Father's World," "If Thou But Suffer God to Guide Thee" and a special musical ending.

Pastor Langevin paid tribute to all those who worked so hard on the church Flea Market and Craft Show the day before. He showed and read a portion of a giant-sized copy of a comic-book page featuring "The Hulk," a comic-book character who, in times of emotional stress, becomes tremendously powerful and able to take on all challenges. Hazel Mayne, Sue Abbe and Janet Sumner were co-chairmen of the Flea Market and Craft Show but Si Porter, Patti Hurd and David Williams were also cited for service beyond the call of duty.

Greeters for the morning were Eva Martin and Helen Miller. Ushers were Tore Wallin and Stewart Scott. The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Ruth Swenson and Barbara Frazer.

This Sunday there will be only one service and, changing to the summer schedule, it will be at 9:30 a.m. The sermon will be entitled, "Soul Liberty: the Heritage of Roger Williams."

RUBBER SWEATSUIT DANGER

Don't believe the myth that a good way to lose weight and get in shape is to sweat off fat in a rubber sweatshirt. Case in point:

"We were trying to melt some fat off," explained a high school football coach after one of his players died of heat exhaustion on the field. The boy had been wearing a rubber sweatshirt under his football uniform.

"You can't melt off fat," says Dr. Nathan J. Smith, professor of sports medicine at the University of Washington Medical School. "Sweatsuits can be very dangerous, especially the rubber ones. The body eliminates excess heat by evaporation of sweat from the skin. You need as much skin exposed to the air as possible to allow the heat to dissipate. If the heat isn't eliminated, you could suffer catastrophic heat exhaustion."

You have to use up 3,500 calories to lose one pound of fat. Losing water won't do it, because water losses must be replaced.

Malvesti Wins 11 Medals In Senior Olympics

Perfect weather prevailed Saturday and Sunday as more than 160 men and women competed in the second annual Quincy Senior Olympics at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

For the second year in a row John Malvesti, 71, was selected the outstanding participant as he won 11 medals, placing first in eight events and third in three.

Former Dist. Atty. George Burke won six medals and many thought he would be named the top male competitor but a smiling Burke said, "No way, not with John Malvesti in this thing, too."

Dorothy Skeets was named the outstanding female entrant. Mary Lunds, 56, "had a ball" in the one-mile walk and, the previous week the bowling and swimming events.

Mary, who walks with a crutch, won the Mayor's Trophy for outstanding competitor. And Alfred Benedetti won the trophy for being the oldest competitor. Benedetti, 90, is five months older than Katherine Mahoney, who lighted the Olympic flame at the stadium.

Burke and Mayor Francis McCauley competed in the one-mile walk. Burke finished fourth and McCauley fifth.

The two formerly served together on the city council, prompting Burke to tell McCauley after the race, "It's just like the old days on the council, Frank. I'm still a step ahead of you."

Malvesti takes the Senior Olympics seriously, having begun training for them three weeks, even borrowing a javelin from Quincy High School to brush up on his technique.

"I've been participating in track since I was about 15," he said. He will go to Providence Sunday to compete in the N.E. Senior Olympics at Brown University.

In the Quincy Olympics Malvesti two weeks ago won the bowling and finished second in swimming. Saturday he won four events in his age category, the javelin, shot put, standing jump and softball throw. Sunday he added wins in the half mile and mile walks and the running jump and took second in the 100.

Donald Strong, organizer of the Olympics, said they have already earned a permanent spot on the local calendar and that the level of competition this year was much better than a year ago. Contestants were divided into four age categories for most races with older competitors sometimes outperforming younger ones.

Ann Leonard, 70, of Cohasset earned nine medals but admitted competing in the games took its toll. "My legs are a little bit stiff," she said. She works out regularly at the Beechwood Community Life Center, which sponsored the event with the Quincy Recreation Department. Recreation Director Barry J. Welch supervised the races.

Morrisette Seeks 4th Straight At Milton

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Morrisette Legion baseball team is off to a fast start and takes a 3-0 record into Friday's game at Milton.

Morrisette plays at Milton and Quincy at Braintree Friday at 6 o'clock and Wollaston hosts Holbrook at 8 at Adams Field. Monday Morrisette hosts Mass. Truck at 6 and Quincy faces Wollaston at 8 at Adams. Tuesday Morrisette plays Wollaston at 8 at Adams and Quincy plays Randolph at 6, also at Adams. Wednesday it will be Hingham at Morrisette at 8 at Adams and Wollaston at Randolph and Quincy at Canton at 6.

Morrisette's game with Weymouth Monday night was rained out. Last Friday Coach Ray Cattaneo's team ended a perfect 3-0 week with an 8-3 victory over Quincy.

Paul Marshall scattered five hits over six innings and Jack Outbridge pitched the seventh for Morrisette.

Morrisette scored three runs in the first on singles by Dan Shea, Chris Bunker and Jack Bolster, two Quincy errors and a wild pitch.

It added three in the fourth on an RBI double by Dan Kelly, an RBI single by Rich Brooks and an error. Morrisette added a run in each of the fifth and sixth innings. In the fifth Scott Mele doubled and scored on Tom Ryan's double. In the sixth Kelly reached on an error and scored on Bunker's long triple to right-center. In three games Bunker is 8-for-11 with eight RBIs.

Earlier in the week Morrisette defeated Holbrook, 11-5, with Mike Joyce pitching six innings of two-hit relief in his Legion debut. He relieved starter Paul Ratti with the bases loaded and no outs and Holbrook leading, 4-2. He struck out two and the other grounded out to end the threat. He struck nine and walked just one.

Bunker again sparked the offense as he went for 4-for-4, including a three-homer and had four RBIs. Kelly had two doubles, Shea two singles, Brooks a single and two RBIs and Denis Cronin an RBI single.

Morrisette had started the week off with an easy win over Carter Post of Dorchester.

Quincy came in from behind to defeat Weymouth, 10-8, but lost to Hingham, 7-2, and bowed to Quincy, 8-3.

Quincy, behind the pitching of Mike Kubera, overcame a 6-2 deficit to topple Weymouth. Kubera pitched the complete game and he, Vic DiGravio, Dan DiGravio and Mark Chambers paced the attack with two RBIs each. Pat O'Sullivan and Mike Dracchio had two hits each and Dracchio also had an RBI.

Nick Gelsomini pitched all the way in the loss to Hingham and did well, giving up four earned runs. Joe Ciardi had two hits and an RBI and Dan DiGravio drove in the other run.

Errors played a prominent part in the loss to Morrisette. Chris Connolly pitched well, striking out four, while Gerry Arroyo drove in one run with a triple and O'Sullivan drove in another.

Coach Vic DiGravio is optimistic. "The pitching has been good so far," he said. "In three games the starters did a fine job. Errors killed us, though. I think we'll surprise some people if we play good defense and continue to get good pitching. We're young and we should improve as the year goes along."

DiGravio has his starting infield back from last year and Ciardi, a junior at Quincy High, once again is the starting catcher. Vic DiGravio from North Quincy High, is at first base and might also see some time in the outfield. Jerry Arroyo from B.C. High is the second baseman and the leadoff hitter, Dracchio of Quincy High is at shortstop and Quincy's Pat Calabro is at third.

The starting outfield consists of three first-year players, Chambers of Quincy High, Dan DiGravio, a freshman at Thayer Academy, and O'Sullivan, of B.C. High.

Cable Wins Pair In St. John's Farm League

Quincy Cable won two games in St. John's Farm League with outstanding pitching from John Fraser and Shawn Todd.

Cable blanked Reilly and Reilly Insurance, 5-0, with Fraser pitching. Todd, Greg Collins, Fraser, David Palmiero, Bernie Sharp and Robbie Wilkosky had big hits and Keith Triandafilos had a home run. For Reilly and Justin Silverio and David Cooper had two hits each and Marc Thibadeau Pitching depth, a problem last year, should be more than adequate this season. Returning are Gelsomini and Jim McNamara of North Quincy High, Connolly, Kubera and Teddy Shionis, all from North, round out what should be an improved staff.

Greg Knight from North Quincy and Paul Canavan from B.C. High, other returnees, will be valuable role players both in the outfield and the infield.

Denis Downing from Quincy High and Jimmy Arroyo from B.C. High also will play important roles.

In July the Quincy team will travel to Cooperstown, N.Y., to visit the Baseball Hall of Fame and play against the Legion team from Cooperstown. They will play at Doubleday Field, site of the annual Hall of Fame game.

"The whole team is really looking forward to the trip," DiGravio said. "It should be a great experience for everyone. It's a beautiful area and we are going to play on a field that the major league teams play on. The first day we are going to visit the Hall of Fame and then play on the second day."

"This is just another step in our efforts to rebuild the baseball program at Post 95. We also have road jerseys for the first time this year. We realize that trips and new uniforms don't make a program successful. First and foremost we have to be competitive on the field and I think we will be this year."

Wollaston topped Weymouth, 9-7, with Keith Smith driving in three runs with two hits and Brian having four RBIs with three hits.

one. Silverio scored the lone run. John Svadgis played strong defense.

Cable also topped Sweeney Funeral Home, 5-0, scoring all its runs in the third inning. Todd was the winning pitcher. Tony Sansevero had a single and double, Wilkosky and Todd doubles, Collins a triple and Triandafilos a single. Triandafilos, Fraser, Todd and Brian Curreri looked good defensively.

Openings For Coaches

There are openings for girls' swim head coach and assistant girls' volleyball coach at Quincy High School. The swim coaching position pays $1336, and the assistant volleyball coach

Golden Continues

Support For Commuter Rail

Richard D. Golden, a candidate for the State Senate, recently attended a meeting of the Metropolitan Area Planning Commission (MAPC) and reiterated his support for commuter rail service to the South Station.

The MAPC, along with the MBTA and the MDC, presented preliminary findings from a commuter rail feasibility study in which they are currently engaged.

"Information provided during this meeting only strengthens my resolve to realize commuter rail to South Station," said Golden. "Commuter rail is proving a feasible and attractive alternative for the ever increasing transportation needs of the South Shore."

Golden challenged statements he said were made by Sen. Paul D. Harold that rights of way were "decided out" for Quincy and bridging the Neponset River would be prohibitive.

He said the panel presenting the study at the MAPC meeting concluded that bridging the Neponset River would cost less than half of what Harold conjectured and verified right of way options in Quincy.

"My opponent's position with the transportation committee is not resulting in progressive transportation policy for our district," said

Golden. "Little need be said for the Red Line or the Expressway, except that they are inadequate."

"I would work for commuter rail because the future of our transportation needs must be initiated now."

"I support commuter rail to allow the relief needed to restore Red Line service to an acceptable level. I could reduce traffic on the Expressway and promote business opportunities on the South Shore."

"Commuter rail can be a reality with supportive legislators. I am running because the needs of our district deserve to be heard on the floor of the State Senate."

"Quincy: From Settlement to City", a major exhibit of the Quincy Historical Society, will be held Friday, June 22, from 4 to 9 p.m., at the Adams Academy Building, 8 Adams St., Quincy Center.

Three years in the making, the exhibit traces the history of Quincy from 1625 to 1888, the year it was incorporated as a city.

The exhibit highlights the social and economic aspects of life during this period beginning with the native inhabitants, initial settlement, to the establishment of Quincy as a town then a city.

The exhibit features the Germantown Glass Works, the granite industry, plus other Quincy sites. There will also be an audio-visual presentation of Quincy's early history.

"Quincy: From Settlement to City", has been a goal of the society as a way to serve the people of the City of Quincy. The Society invites the public to view the exhibit free of charge. They would also like more people to join the Society so that it will truly represent the people of Quincy.

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

This can be an exhausting travel week, but one that leaves you with assorted memories. Accent is on good nutrition. If speaking your mind now, timing is all-important.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Forgetful moments are scattered through the week, and it's wise to keep paper and pen handy. Romance continues on the upswing. Watch tendency to take on too many major projects.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Travel detours make life confusing, but in personal relationships you know just where you're headed. Family is more supportive, though they tend to answer your questions with questions.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Special project receives blessing from a higherup, and calculated risk can pay off. Home-improvement plans are favored too, but it's all-important that you avoid any short-cuts.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Unexpected expenses are belated by unexpected cash. In fact, that's the word of the week: balance. Still, you do make progress - most notably in area of friendship.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Positively spotlighted are projects involving advertising, public speaking, and salesmanship. Detail work is not a current strength, however. Part-time assignment looks promising.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Career environment becomes more challenging but don't be shy about delegating work. Unusual message arrives by weekend, along with new responsibilities and an old friend or two.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Arguments based on minor money matters should be avoided at all costs. Matters put on hold since last winter are moving again. Social life perks up too.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Helping friends patch their relationship together is a key task of yours this week. Travel is accentuated too, and plans that have been blocked may finally be activated.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Recent sacrifices made to help a friend over a bad time prove worth the effort; you now see some tangible results. Meeting people from unusual walks of life is a highlight of the weekend.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

Quincy Beaches Safe

It's safe to swim at Quincy beaches, according to the latest tests, reports Health Commissioner Dr. M.

Grace Hussey.

"People can swim to their heart's content," according to Dr. Hussey who said that recent coliform and fecal tests ranged from 0-4 at Avalon Beach to 260-170 on Wollaston Beach at Milton Road.

Dr. Hussey said that counts of up to 700 for coliform and 500 for fecal are acceptable. If counts are over those amounts, people are advised not to swim, but may wade or sit on the beach.

While discussing the beaches, Dr. Hussey noted that Quincy is not expecting red tide which she said is not caused by pollution but by a plant in the water which has a red color when it blooms.

Dr. Hussey said that tests will be taken at the beaches weekly throughout the summer.

McBride, who lives at 126 Elmwood Ave., Wollaston,

State Fails To Break Budget Deadlock

Both sides in the Quincy budget dispute huddled with state officials for an hour and 15 minutes Tuesday morning but came up with no solution to their problem.

"It was a cordial meeting," said Mayor Francis X. McCauley. "We laid out our positions. But there was no real movement. However, we are still talking."

"It was a good meeting," said Council President James A. Sheets. "It was a good solid first step. Our positions were clarified. I know more about the Mayor's position and I think he knows more about ours."

The rival positions are these:

McCauley submitted a $75.8 million budget for fiscal 1985 to the City Council and, he says, when the Council did not act on it in its entirety, it passed by default.

The Council, seeking to force the Mayor to increase the public safety budgets, passed a one-twelfth budget, $6.3 million, enough to run the city for the month of July and it was certified by City Clerk John Gillis.

The question is which one is the legal budget that goes into effect Sunday, July 1.

Attending Tuesday's meeting for the state were Ira Jackson and Edward Collins, commission and deputy commission respectively of the Department of Revenue.

"They were concerned but they recognize that it is a local matter," said McCauley. "I appreciate that they took the time and effort to talk to us."

The Mayor said he is "willing to do my share of compromising but this strikes at the heart of our form of government" which specifies that only the Mayor can originate financial legislation.

Sheets said Collins indicated that his good offices will be available in the future to help if he can.

"They (Collins and Jackson) look at this as a serious problem but not a crisis," he said.

Recount Confirms Cheney Victory

A recount of votes in the June 12 election for the Ward 1 seat in the City Council Monday confirmed that Michael T. Cheney defeated Robert L. Johnson by 79 votes.

Each candidate picked up one vote in the recount to make the final tally Cheney

1,589 and Johnson 1,510.

The recount took about an hour Monday morning at City Hall and cost the city about $300 for the services of 13 election workers.

Cheney was scheduled to be sworn in yesterday (Wednesday) at 6:30 p.m. in the City Council Chamber Earlier, Collins suggested that both sides in the dispute may be right and he recommended that they sit down and straighten it out themselves.

In one area, Collins, in a two page letter to McCauley, came down on the side of the Mayor that the City Council cannot implement a one-twelfth budget since the city is required to fully fund certain municipal salaries.

But, Collins added, "at the same time, we recognize that both the Mayor and the Council may find support for their respective positions in a strict reading of certain applicable statutory provisions."

"However, in light of the requirement that there be a recognized budget in place by July 1, we believe that certain practical considerations must not be overlooked."

"It is our strong recommendation, therefore, that every effort be made by the Mayor and Council (or their designees) to work together in order to reach agreement on a final annual budget."

and will sit as a Council member at tonight's (Thursday's) final meeting of the fiscal year.

Apartment Project Meeting

City Councillor Theodore DeCristofaro scheduled a meeting yesterday (Wednesday) at 7:30 p.m. in the second floor conference room at City Hall to hear plans for a 596-unit apartment complex off Quincy Ave. behind President Plaza.

Representatives of the Planning Department were scheduled to be present.

Picard Says Girl's Father Agreed First Hearing Fair Support Mounts For Creedon, D.A. Referral

By TOM HENSHAW

Vice Chairman Joan Picard says that, barring new information, the School Committee should reaffirm its earlier vote to take no further action on the misconduct charge against Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon.

"If new information is presented," she told The Quincy Sun, "then the matter should be referred to the district attorney."

She said that the father of the girl who brought the charge, who is threatening to seek grand jury action if Creedon is not dismissed, and his daughter both agreed that the original hearing was fair. The father, she said, even helped lay out the ground rules for the hearing.

Mrs. Picard's statement came as the School Committee was about to reactivate discussion of the case yesterday (Wednesday) amid mounting support for the beleaguered superintendent.

The 52-year-old Creedon has been charged in executive session with touching the breast of a 16-year-old female student while visiting an art class at Quincy High School.

Meanwhile, petitions in the form of letters to the School Committee were being circulated by The Fair Committee, headed by former Dist. Atty. George G. Burke, urging that the case be turned over to the district attorney.

And Frank Anselmo, the only member of the School Committee to vote against resuming the case against Creedon, said he is being deluged with letters from educators and Quincy residents supporting Creedon.

Mrs. Picard, who made the original motion, since tabled, to refer the case to the district attorney, criticized the Patriot Ledger for quoting "extensively and frequently inaccurately" from the transcript of the executive session May 30.

She also criticized the father of the girl, who has not been identified, saying that the Committee "is being threatened and intimidated by the complainant through the Patriot Ledger."

The father was quoted in the Patriot Ledger as saying that if the School Committee did not vote to dismiss Creedon that he would ask for grand jury action.

"The complainant participated in the establishment of the ground rules for the (original) hearing," she said. "He agreed to them. All the witnesses that he requested were called. He initiated and was granted his request for no cross examination of his daughter."

"At the conclusion of the hearing both he and his daughter responded 'yes' to a question from Mayor McCauley that the hearing was fair."

Mrs. Picard's motion to refer to the district attorney's office was scheduled to come up last night after it was tabled at the June 13 meeting by the objections from Committee member Christopher Kennedy.

Burke said The Fair Committee, which also includes former School Committee member Paul Kelley, Daniel G. Raymond and Charles Sweeney, was

Picard's Statement On Creedon Case

Following is the statement of School Committee Vice-Chairwoman Joan Picard regarding the misconduct charge against School Supt. Lawrence P. Creedon.

1. The School Committee has heard the issue once and, by majority vote (4-3) based on the evidence presented, voted to take no further action. This has not satisfied everyone.

2. The request for reconsideration did not come from the complainant, but from The Patriot Ledger and some community pressure.

3. The complainant participated in the establishment of the ground rules for the hearing.

He agreed to them. All witnesses that he requested were called.

He initiated and was granted his request for no cross examination of his daughter.

At the conclusion of the hearing both he and his daughter responded "Yes" to a question from Mayor McCauley that the hearing was fair.

The complainant has not asked the School Committee for reconsideration (as of Friday, June 22, when the agenda for the June 27th meeting went out.)

Through all of this his identity has been guarded by The Patriot Ledger while the same paper has quoted extensively, and frequently inaccurately, from the transcript of the Executive Session Hearing of May 30, 1984.

4. If not satisfied with the first hearing conducted by the School Committee, the complainant can still seek a criminal complaint in court.

5. If in the first hearing the privacy of the executive session was not maintained, then what guarantee will there be that it will be maintained in a second hearing?

6. If the reason why the complainant did not seek a criminal complaint in the first place was to protect the identity of his daughter and now he says, according to the Patriot Ledger, that he is willing to go public—then he should go to the courts.

7. In the Patriot Ledger of Friday, June 22, 1984, the complainant said he wanted the School Committee to dismiss the Superintendent and if they did not he would ask for Grand Jury action. The School Committee is being threatened and intimidated by the complainant through The Patriot Ledger.

8. Obviously then, the Quincy School Committee is not the body to hear this matter further. In any judicial proceeding, if a matter is appealed or reconsidered it does not go back to the same court, the same jury. It goes to another, or higher, body or court.

9. School Committee members have been under pressure from supporters and opponents of Dr.

Board Continues J.J.'s Hearing

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
The License Board voted Tuesday to continue for three months without a finding a hearing on an incident at J. J.'s Barbeque and Lounge, Inc., 160-162 Hancock St., North Quincy.

If there have been no problems, representatives of the establishment do not have to appear again before the board at the end of the three months.

Police Officer Charles

Santoro told the board the incident occurred June 17 at 2:43 a.m. when he and Officer Albert DiBona received a report from the dispatcher that parties were drinking at the establishment after hours.

The officers saw someone looking out at them from inside the lounge. Santoro said that person later went down a trap door behind the bar.

The officers knocked but were not allowed inside for 15 to 20 minutes. While they waited, they questioned youths in parked cars in the lot who said they were waiting for someone inside the establishment.

Barkeeper Joseph DiBella then opened the door for the officers, but could not explain their delay in doing so, Santoro said.

there was a problem until the police entered. He said Joseph DiBella went down to the cellar to bring some empty beer bottles down there.

Police is not to allow anyone in after hours, said Sullivan, and the two did not realize it was the police knocking on the door.

Sullivan said the two were not drinking from the beer bottles on the bar, and were turning chairs over and straightening up while they waited for a cleaning crew.

The people in the parking lot were waiting for the brothers, explained Sullivan.

Police Chief Francis Finn recommended the continuance. Building Inspector Allan MacDonald went along with the continuance after the police officers said they were satisfied with the action.

McCauley, Sheets Agree:

Little Can Be Done To Halt Quarry Swims

Mayor Francis X. McCauley and City Council President James A. Sheets, who haven't agreed on much lately, have come to a meeting of the minds on one subject.

There is very little more that the city can do to break the deadly fascination that the West Quincy quarries hold for young swimmers.

"Nothing seems to work," said McCauley Tuesday. "How much can be done to protect people from themselves? They always figure it's someone else who will get hurt."

The Mayor's comment came after the body of 18-year-old Vincent Alcide of Mattapan was recovered from the murky green waters of Fuller's Quarry, deep in the woods near the Milton line.

Alcide drowned after he jumped from a ledge Saturday, a year and three days after Paul Gooch, 17, of Brockton, drowned in Swingle's Quarry, about a mile away.

"We'll never be able to stop a kid from jumping into Fuller's Quarry for a quick swim," said Sheets, whose Ward 4 encompasses the West Quincy quarry area.

Swingle's Quarry was recently drained in an unsuccessful effort to find the Gooch boy's body but even the waterless pit, more than 200 feet deep, has proved to be an attraction for the young.

"The company that drained Swingle's greased the fence around it to prevent entry," said Sheets. "But they didn't grease the gate. Off the kids ripped the gate off. They were rolling boulders off the edge into the quarry."

One of the problems facing the city in its attempts to keep young swimmers away is the fact that the most attractive water-filled pits are on private land.

Granite Rail Quarry, now the most popular swimming hole, was deeded back to its original owner by the city recently when it was decided that the city didn't want it anymore.

Fuller's Quarry, where the Alcide boy died, is owned by the Johnson Realty Co.

Barry's Quarry, across Ricciuti Drive from Swingle's, is owned by Peter Rusciotto.

"The city owns only one small quarry located near the end of the sanitary landfill," said Sheets. "It stinks so bad from the rubbish dumped there that no one will swim in it."

Sheets said there will be an item on the agenda of tonight's (Thursday's) City Council meeting tightening up enforcement of the city's trespass ordinance in the quarry area.

"It will be easier to enforce the ordinance now that the real attraction, Swingle's Quarry, is gone," he said.

"Maybe we've got to start taking some of these people in," said McCauley. "If a few people had to pay a $200 fine, maybe it would do some good."

He was arrested without a struggle on the second floor of the apartment. Police said Slack's wife had just moved into the apartment from Hull. The wanted poster listed him as armed and dangerous.

Police, acting on information compiled by Det. Thomas Healey, went to 25 Quarterdeck Rd., where they said they saw Slack peering out a window. He ran upstairs when he saw them.

Stephen F. Slack, 28, who escaped from authorities in Tampa, Fla., while awaiting trial on a murder charge, was arrested by Quincy police Monday at his wife's apartment in Germantown.

She was treated at Quincy City Hospital and released.

Sanderson told police that she was turning from Beale to Granger St. when the car skidded on the wet pavement and went into the front yard of Joseph Brophy's home at 108 Granger St.

He fled on foot in the direction of Washington St.

The man was described as about 5-foot-8, 130 pounds, blond with a beard and mustache.

Dacey Bros. Request Continued By Board

The License Board voted Tuesday to continue until a special meeting in July a request from Dacey Bros. Dairy for change of address from 213 Samoset Ave. to 200 Sea St., Merrymount.

Representatives of the business were advised to meet with members of the Merrymount Association to discuss the plans.

Atty. Robert Macomber, who represented Dacey's, said that plans call for Dacey's to move across the street from its present location to a former gas station.

The existing building will be used with a proposed addition, said Macomber, and the same licenses are being requested.

Louis Mezzini of the Merrymount Association said that the organization is not for or against the proposal, but would like a temporary postponement to allow a meeting between the two parties.

Mezzini pointed out that a postponement would allow newly elected ward councillor Michael Cheney a chance to become familiar with the situation.

The board allowed such an opportunity with the White Hen Pantry, said Mezzini.

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald requested more information on such things as lighting, rubbish, exterior of the building, landscaping and parking.

"In general, Dacey's has always been very good," noted Health Commr. Dr. M. Grace Hussey.

Tuesday was the board's last regularly scheduled meeting before the summer recess.

A special meeting is scheduled to be held some time in July.

Is Sheets Running?

Is Jim Sheets running for mayor?

No. But...

Sheets reportedly isn't planning to challenge Mayor Francis McCauley next year.

But, sources close to him, say he isn't ruling it out either.

The feud between McCauley and the City Council over the police and fire budgets has brought a serious rift that is getting wider and wider.

Particularly between Sheets and McCauley.

Sheets has made no bones about the fact that he doesn't think McCauley is realistically dealing with the City Council on this matter.

He reportedly also takes that one step further when discussing the subject with friends: he doesn't think McCauley is dealing with the City Council "in a respectful way."

The City Council, he stresses, is the legislative body and is entitled to its opinions and has a duty to the public.

The bottom line: the mayor can't be a dictator.

Sheets reportedly sees more and more problems coming if the mayor and the City Council can't solve their differences and work together.

The stage for them to get together may have been set by Edward Collins, Jr., state deputy commissioner of revenue, who says that both sides in the budget dispute may be right and recommended that they sit down and straighten it out themselves.

Collins on one hand agreed with McCauley that the Council cannot implement a one-twelfth budget because the city is required to fully fund certain municipal salaries.

But, he added, that he recognizes "that both the mayor and council may find support for their respective positions in a strict reading of certain applicable statutory provisions."

He strongly recommended "that every effort be made by the mayor and the council (or their designees) to work together in order to reach agreement on a final annual budget."

The council feels its $6.3 million budget -- enough to run the city for the month of July -- is the legal budget for fiscal 1985. McCauley insists that his $75.8 million budget passed by default when the council took no action on it in its entirety.

Maybe McCauley should send out for a peacepipe and Sheets pick up a pound of peacepipe tobacco. Or have them chip in for some beer and pizzas and iron things out before everything gets out of hand.

If the present strained relationship continues, Sheets reportedly believes "someone will have to run against McCauley" next year.

Would that somebody be Sheets.

Those close to him say "he could be prodded to run." And he reportedly has told them: "I'm not going to rule it out."

CITY COUNCILLOR Richard Koch, Jr. has a new little constituent. His wife, the former Nancy Kelly, gave birth June 21 to their third son, Mark Andrew, at Quincy City Hospital. Mark's brothers are Matthew, 3, and Peter, 1½.

Mark, incidentally, was born on his grandmother, Simmy Koch's birthday. He's the sixth grandchild (fifth grandson) for Simmy and Richard Koch, Sr., executive secretary to the Park-Recreation Board.

KOCH, JR.

CARMINE DI RAMIO, the Quincy police officer, has been receiving congratulations around City Hall where he is assigned. DiRamio recently graduated Summa Cum Laude from Anna Maria College in Paxton. He received a master's degree in criminal justice.

REP. James Shannon of Lawrence, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate, will be in Quincy today (Thursday) on a campaign swing.

The day will start at the main gate of the General Dynamics shipyard at 6:30 a.m. and end with a meeting at the Beechwood Knoll Community Life Center at 8 p.m.

In between, he'll also visit 1000 Southern Artery, the downtown area and the Kemper Insurance Co. in the State Street South complex.

AT THE RECENT "This Is Your Life" testimonial for former City Councillor Leo Kelly sponsored by the Germantown Community Association, Mayor Francis McCauley recalled when Kelly was a boy scout in Troop 26 in Houghs Neck.

McCauley remembered the day at Camp Massasoit in the 1940's when two scouts were going for their merit badge exams and bumped into Kelly. He went along with them.

At the exam, as the other two scouts were quizzed, Kelly answered all the questions. They were going to give him two merit badges but because he hadn't taken the necessary preliminary steps first, he was ineligible despite answering the questions.

"Do you remember that?" McCauley asked Kelly.

The latter said he did.

McCauley then pulled out two merit badges and presented them to Kelly: one for environment, the other for public health.

Incidentally, the two scouts who met Kelly that day were McCauley and Walter Hannon.

QJC Summer Session II Begins July 9

Summer Session II at Quincy Junior College will begin July 9 and continue through Aug. 9.

Registration for courses in this session is now in progress and will continue through July 9. Fifty-five courses are offered, with classes held in each course twice a week, a total of ten class meetings for each course.

Last summer, students from more than 80 different colleges and universities took advantage of these popular summer courses. Also, many persons not normally attending college elected to take courses for job skills improvement or for personal enrichment.

Courses meet twice a week, on Monday and Wednesday mornings, Tuesday and Thursday mornings, Monday and Wednesday evenings, and Tuesday and Thursday evenings. Courses are taught by the regular and adjunct faculty of the college.

One of the more popular offerings is Word Processing. There is an introductory, non-credit course for people wishing to become acquainted with this latest advancement in office work, as well as advanced courses for those with some proficiency at word-processing. Students wishing to register for these courses are advised to do so early, due to the popularity of this offering.

Courses are available in literature, composition, business fields, criminal justice studies, psychology and sociology, history and languages, as well as laboratory courses in physics, biology, chemistry and anatomy and physiology, economics, and accounting.

Many students find Quincy Junior College summer courses an excellent way to get a head start on their fall schedules, to make up a course missed, or to improve a grade in a course already taken. With class times scheduled from 8 to 11:30 a.m., and from 6 to 9:30 p.m., students can avail themselves of summer studies and still have time for vacations and jobs.

Quincy Junior College is fully accredited by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges, and credits earned there are transferable to most United States Colleges.

Further information and registration forms may be obtained by telephoning Q.J.C. Summer Session at 786-8741. Walk-in registration is held from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays, and 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Fridays.

The clinic will be open from 1 to 3 p.m.

Until there is a new schedule posted in September, the clinic will run once a month on a Tuesday from 10 a.m. to noon and on a Thursday from 1 to 3 p.m.

Support Mounts For Creedon, District Attorney Referral

formed as a result of "the tremendous outgrowth of public support for Larry Creedon."

"The public is not aware of the regard in which he is held in this city," said Burke. "A lot of people have called me. We are trying to establish that he be treated fairly and indicate support for him."

"We are trying to be the focal point outside the School Committee."

Anselmo charged that the School Committee has become "no more than a kangaroo court" in its handling of the case against Creedon.

He said he has received at least 30 letters in support of Creedon, many of them from educators around New England and most of them urging that the matter go to the district attorney.

One of the letters was from Navy Capt. Richard Stratton, the former Quincy resident who heads the Naval Academy Preparatory School in Exeter, R.I. Stratton said he has known Creedon since the 1940's as a friend and advisor and he was "always deeply conscious of his position of trust;" the charges are "inconsistent with his high standards of professional probity."

Stratton urged that the Committee vote to refer the case to the district attorney for disposition.

Anselmo's mail also included letters from School Supts. Frank J. Giuliano Jr. of Milton, John E. Zoino of Randolph and Robert F. Bunnell of Norwell.

Giuliano urged that the matter be sent to the district attorney in order to "take away the perception that political issues, not justice is the moving force in these allegations."

Other letters of support came from Mrs. Sheila McIntyre, widow of the late Mayor James R. McIntyre; Kenneth M. Tarabelli, executive director of Survival; and Lawrence G. Fitch, president of Jobs for Bay State Graduates.

Anselmo charged that "some school board members are catering to mob psychology to gain votes. The school board is not qualified legally to hold a hearing. We cannot do justice to either the defendant or the plaintiff."

"The first move by the father and the plaintiff was to go to the mayor more than two weeks after the incident transpired. The case has been handled primarily from the mayor's office. Even now no criminal complaint has been filed."

"I challenge the father to go to court or the nearest police station and register a complaint."

Quincy's Yesterdays

By Tom Henshaw

Resignation By NQHS Principal Refused By Board

The School Committee refused to accept the resignation of James S. Collins, principal of North Quincy High School, and voted to invite Collins to testify in executive session about conditions in the school which allegedly brought about the resignation.

Collins' action was widely interpreted as a move for a showdown with School Supt. James N. Murir.

School Committeeman L. Paul Marini said he interpreted Collins' letter to mean that if the conditions he complained about were not improved then the letter could be considered the North Quincy principal's resignation.

"If Collins doesn't want to work in the school system, he should say so," said Marini. "But on the other hand if something is wrong with the school system we should find out about it."

A move by Marini to table the resignation until after Collins appeared before the committee was defeated.

"I don't believe Collins meant to resign," said Committeeman William A. Anderson.

NEW ZONING LAW

The City Council passed and Mayor Charles A. Ross signed into law less than 20 hours later a new zoning ordinance after a hearing had drawn only one strong objection, that from Matthew P. Sheehan, a perennial opponent of all zoning.

"This is one of the most constructive and progressive pieces of legislation ever passed by this body," said City Councillor Christian A. Burkard.

NEW COACHES NEEDED

School Committeeman L. Paul Marini warned his colleagues that unless two new football coaches were appointed soon it would be necessary to discontinue the sport at the high schools. Quincy Coach Munroe MacLean was in the Navy and Jack Donahue was thinking of giving up the job at North.

Creedon. No jury is under any such pressure. To attempt it would be jury tampering. The complainant in The Patriot Ledger (June 22, 1984) has threatened and intimidated the School Committee that if it does not vote to dismiss the Superintendent, then he will go to a Grand Jury.

10. This issue is not a normal political confrontation where elected officials take sides and do so publicly and then end up debating each other or criticizing each other in the press. This has happened here, as at least one School Committee member has challenged the intelligence and sanity of another in The Patriot Ledger—(June 15, 1984)—(Verenis calling Anselmo "Daffy"). How, then, can objectivity be maintained?

Still others are claiming (Anselmo), and The Patriot Ledger is reporting, that some members of the School Committee have an "ax" to grind with the Superintendent. (Ledger, June 15, 1984)

With all of this how is the School Committee to maintain objectivity and how many will agree with its findings from this point on?

11. The complainant has likened the School Committee to a jury (Ledger, June 22, 1984). It is not a jury, it is a body of elected officials charged with running the schools. Juries are sequestered and kept from being influenced by the media or public sentiment.

12. The School Committee is not the appropriate body to pass judgement on criminal charges. The criminal aspect of the matter should be determined by the court, then after that is resolved the School Committee can initiate whatever further action, if any, might be appropriate.

13. The School Committee heard the case once. The Patriot Ledger has continued to try the case daily for weeks. If no new information surfaces, then the School Committee should end the case with a reaffirmation of its earlier vote to take no further action. If new information is presented then the matter should be referred to the District Attorney.

Quincy Man Aids In Astronaut Rescue

A Quincy man was in the forefront in rescuing six astronauts from the space shuttle Discovery Tuesday when their scheduled launch was aborted four seconds before lift-off at Cape Canaveral.

Edward J. Tobin, brother of former Mayor Arthur H.

Tobin, was one of the three men in white seen on national television who helped the astronauts out of their capsule and down a chute when one of the three engines caught fire.

Tobin, who is the second youngest of seven brothers and three sisters, is one of the launch pad managers who rides the elevator to the capsule atop the rocket with the astronauts.

In an emergency, said his brother Arthur Tobin, his job is to open the capsule hatch, help the astronauts out and follow them in sliding down the escape chute.

Tobin, who was born in Quincy and graduated from Quincy High School, has worked for the space program for many years. He also has served aboard tracking ships during previous orbits.

Healthy Back Program At Hospital Friday

The public is invited to attend the free luncheon "Wellness" program "10

Ways to a Healthy Back" in Quincy City Hospital's Conference Room Friday, June 29, at noon.

Participants may bring their own lunch or buy a sandwich at the hospital and enjoy a free beverage.

Presenting the program will be Janice DiGiorgio, a Registered Physical Therapist on staff at the hospital. Miss DiGiorgio will present the fundamen-als of good back care, from general awareness to an essential exercise program.

Back injuries are one of the most common debilitating problems of modern society and community education is the primary means of prevention, according to Miss DiGiorgio.

For more information, call Jane Mudge, R.N., at 773-6100, Ext. 344.

'Most Successful Ever'

North Quincy Sidewalk Sale A Super Success

The North Quincy Super Sidewalk Sale was super in more than just its name.

Free pony rides, ice cream and lollipops, as well as the Coke Robot, 42 prizes from participating merchants valued at $1,000 and perfect weather combined to make it the most successful sidewalk sale ever held in North Quincy.

Coupons for the prizes appeared on the centerfold of last week's Quincy Sun.

Brendan Gallagher, president of the North Quincy Business and Professional Association, said, "I want to thank The Quincy Sun for its tremendous cooperation for our sidewalk sale which turned out to be the most successful one we ever had."

"I also want to thank all of our customers who attended the sidewalk sale and made this event successful!"

"We had two great days for the North Quincy Super Sidewalk Sale," said Carmela Corbin of Corbins Fashions, co-chairman and coordinator of the event.

"The sun was shining, the merchants were ready and our customers were here - thank you all for making this such a success."

Leonard Lifovich, manager of Sands and also a co-chairman of the event, said, "The sale was very successful and very well organized."

"It brought forth a community spirit which had been somewhat lacking. The merchants all pulled together to make this a success."

"It awakened the public to the fact that North Quincy is a thriving business district. Many people who had never been here before said they would be sure to return."

"I know I speak for all the businesses when I thank Carmela Corbin and Leonard Lifovich for working so hard to put this whole event together."

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

The Biblical description of creation is accepted by uncountable millions of people as a religious fact. They claim the theory of evolution is absurd.

The religious fact of creation can be easily proved - without referring to the Bible. It requires just a panoramic view of the world we live in. Take a look at the majestic mountains, the deserts, gorgeous streams and scenic oceans, the beauty of the heavens at night, just to mention a few, and one has to admit all scenic wonders are complex and interrelated. These things could not possibly have been brought about by themselves. Surely there is a purpose and an intelligence seen in all of nature, no matter what part of the world you view. Without even referring to the Bible, you can have proof positive there is a God. He reveals Himself daily in His handiwork . . .

Islamic Center Receives Letter From Archbishop

Francis A. Arinze, Archbishop Pro-President, Secretariat for non Christians, recently sent a letter to the Islamic Center of New England, 470 South St., Quincy Point.

The letter follows: An illustrious Ramadan, and the very best to you throughout the coming year!

This year at the beginning of your celebration of the Breaking of the Fast, it is with joy that we offer to the community of Muslims around the world our wishes for God's blessings, prosperity, and peace. To these wishes we join our warm desire to see each and every one of you enjoy abundantly, during the coming year, the spiritual fruits gained, through the assistance and grace of God, during this Ramadan month of fasting and prayer.

As your religious preachers and writers have continually repeated during these past weeks, what you have been working towards in this month of fasting is the restoration of our dignity as human beings and believers through submission to God. Fidelity to His demands should banish every obstacle as we proceed in confidence in our path to Him.

In this regard, dear friends, let me say that Catholics have shared the same concern as yourselves during the year which drew to a close recently on 22 April which we call the Holy Year. At the appeal of our Holy Father, Pope John Paul II, we also have tried to carry out a sincere return to God through prayer, the Lenten fast, meditation on the Word of God, and acts of pardon, goodness, and love towards all. Thus, it is without any hesitation on our part that we rejoice with you in your efforts to safeguard the spiritual dimension of the human person and to preserve the place of God in the modern world.

This does not mean that we ignore the differences which distinguish us. However, we are convinced that the unique elements in each religion can stimulate us in a positive way by inviting us to deepen our own faith, to understand better that of the other, and to rediscover that which each of our religions brings of what is true and beautiful, knowing well that everything which is good is the work of God in His unfathomable mystery.

Thus we are ready, dear friends, to join our efforts to yours, if you consider that proper, in full respect for our own identities and respective choices, to place ourselves together at the service of anxious, wounded, and frustrated humanity, and to work together to maintain religious values in our modern civilization which is often overly preoccupied with worldly goals and well-being.

We place our confidence in the One God who gathers us to worship Him and to guide us with His message. We can also place confidence in the human person who is able, by God's grace, to begin a new stage on the path which leads us back to Him.

Wollaston Legion Dedicates Season To Belcastro

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Wollaston Legion baseball team is dedicating the season to its late coach, John Belcastro, who died June 2, and the team has won three games in a row after an opening day loss.

Three members of the Belcastro family, John's son, Steve, his nephew Fran Belcastro, and his son-in-law, Kevin Cahill, have joined veteran coach Dick Travers in handling the club.

Wollaston will host Canton tonight (Thursday) at Adams Field at 8 o'clock, will be home to Mass. Truck of Weymouth Friday at Adams at 6, will play at Carter Post of Dorchester Monday at 6 and will host Braintree next Tuesday night at 8 at Adams.

Morrisette, playing six games in eight days, will host Mass. Truck tonight (Thursday) at 8 at Adams, will play at Randolph Friday at 6, will be at Canton Monday at 6 and at Carter Post Tuesday at 6.

Quincy will host Carter Post Friday night at 8 at Adams, will be home to Holbrook Monday at 8 at Adams and will play at Hingham Tuesday at 6.

Wollaston finished off a perfect week last Friday, defeating Holbrook, 6-3, at Adams Field.

John Comeau was the winning pitcher with relief help from Mike Notarangelo and Joe Conti. Steve Hogan went 3-for-4 and Conti and Mark Hubbard had key hits.

In its previous game Wollaston had crushed Milton, 16-0, as Hogan pitched six innings of shutout ball for the win. Rob McLaney drove in four runs with a double and a triple, and Hubbard and Steve Higgins had two hits each. Higgins also scored four runs.

Earlier Wollaston had edged Weymouth 9-7, in a come-from-behind victory. Higgins pitched one-hit ball over the last four innings and was the winner. Paul Cahill was 3-for-4 and drove in three runs, while Bob Kozlowski and Keith Smith had two hits apiece.

Wollaston appears to be headed for its best season in pitching, a fine hitting team and strong defense.

Morrisette, after winning four in a row, suffered its first loss, 4-1, at the hands of Milton last Friday. Milton combined outstanding pitching by Chris Pugsley and Chris McMorrow and strong defense.

Milton clinched the win with three runs in the third inning, with a two-run homer by Steve McCarthy the key blow, after a run in the second.

Morrisette hit the ball hard but could muster only three hits. The lone run came on Chris Bunker's home run in the fourth. The only other hits were singles by pitcher Mike Joyce and catcher Rich Brooks. Joyce took the loss, evening his record at 1-1. Paul Ratti relieved in the third and pitched well after a shaky start.

Earlier in the week Morrisette had crushed Weymouth, 9-1, with Jack Outerbridge pitching three-hit ball and striking out seven for his second outstanding performance. He did not walk a batter.

He was given excellent support in the field with Jack Bolster making a diving catch in right field and Denis Cronin at second base and Dan Shea at shortstop making outstanding plays.

Bolster and Shea both were 3-for-4 at the plate, each driving in a run. Morrisette scored a run in the first on a walk to Bunker and hits by Bolster and Scott Mele. It added three in the third on three hits, two walks and an error. Brooks having the key hit, driving in two runs.

Morrisette added a run in the fourth on a Shea single, a Bolster single and a wild throw. It put the game out of reach in the fifth with four runs. Outerbridge walked, Shea singled, Bunker tripled to the left-center field fence and scored on an infield ground.

Meanwhile, Quincy had a rough week as it was shut out by Milton, 5-0, and Mass. Truck, 14-0, dropping its record to 1-4.

"She was our best outdoor athlete," said Coach Tom Wittenhagen, "and she's only a sophomore."

During the winter season, Millane placed sixth in the indoor ECAC Championships.

The indoor track team had their first winning season with a 4-3 record while the outdoor squad went 2-2. All in all, the Huskies defeated Springfield (twice), Lowell, Brandeis, Tufts and Providence.

Wings Defeat Abington For South Shore Crown

The Wings, the traveling 16-and-under girls' team of the Quincy Youth Soccer League won the South Shore League championship by defeating Abington in a double overtime playoff decided by a five-goal shootout as darkness closed in on the neutral Whitman field.

When Claire Murphy, the Wings' goaltender, turned away the fifth Abington shot, it ended a game which lasted an hour and 40 minutes. She returned the victory to the hustling Quincy team which had held a 1-0 lead since Nancy Flukes scored at the 12-minute mark of the first half.

In the second half an all-out deparation rush by Abington tied the game with just one second left in regulation time. Until that time Murphy in the first half and Linda Doherty in the second half were outstanding. Doherty had two spectacular saves on corner kick chances that kept Quincy alive.

The Wings, coached by Ann Conley and Jean Doherty, continually frustrated the older and bigger Abington team with a steady defensive effort by Debbie Early and Kerry Blake, while Kathy Feeney, her sister, Patty, and Sheila Comeau hustled to control the middle.

Kathy Hughes and Maria Megias worked the outside forward spots and had several near miss chances to seal the victory. With only 13 players to Abington's 18, many thought the overtime advantage would go to Abington. The Wings, however, lived up to their name as they completely outran Abington in the two 10-minute overtimes. Carrie Pistorino and Stacey Welch were assigned defensive responsibilities to the Abington scorers and frustrated their passing attempts with endless moving and running. The Feeneys and Murphy on defense set up several scoring chances, while Christine Price continued the fine two-way play she had exhibited throughout the game.

Murphy was selected keeper in the five-shot shootout and when she punched Abington's first shot opportunity over the net, it opened the way for a Nancy Flukes blast that put the Wings up, 1-0.

Abington missed again as did Pistorino and when Abington tied it, 1-1, Kathy Hughes calmly placed her attempt in the right corner for Quincy's 2-1 lead. Welch missed on a high corner shot and Murphy shut down Abington's last shooter.

The win advances Quincy to the state Div. 2 championships at Bridgewater State College. The team ended the season at 6-2-1 and Abington had finished at 7-2.

The tournament berth was a fine achievement as this is the first year of traveling for the Quincy league. Melissa Miles and Kerry Doherty missed the game, Miles with an injury and Doherty with a work commitment at the time of the game.

DON'T "WALK OFF" SPRAINS

A sprain or other injury should not be "walked off" so that the player can get back into action as soon as possible.

"A young athlete is often under a lot of pressure to get back in the game," says Dr. Jacob Suker, of Northwestern University and physician for the Chicago Cubs. "The coach wants to win. The kid's father is worried about his chances of winning a college scholarship, and his teammates may think the injury is not that bad."

But a sprained ankle in a youngster can become serious if it is not properly treated. We've seen youngsters who had to undergo surgery to have their ankles fused because of the damage done to supporting structures while trying to walk off an injury."

Athletes of all ages should get injured muscles a rest. Give Mother Nature a chance. Never work a hurting muscle or joint.

RESTRICTION CLAUSE

QUESTION: What is meant by a restriction?

ANSWER: It is a clause in a deed restricting the use of the property. It might be looked on as zoning on a very personal basis.

For example, a house in a commercially-zoned area may have a restriction against use for any commercial purpose. This could create future financing problems because banks may refuse to loan money for other than commercial use. From the point of view of the buyer, it is preferable that the agreement enumerate all and all restrictions. Bring them out in the open and get professional advice before going any further. It's for your own protection.

DEEDS SHOULD BE CHECKED carefully for restrictions.

Dental Associates Has New Technique To Restore Bad Teeth

Dental Associates, a multi-specialty group practice at 66 McGrath Highway, Quincy Center, is using a revolutionary new way of making dental crowns to restore badly decayed or broken teeth.

The space age innovation is called Dacrown (Day-Crown) at Dental Associates and Cerestore Crown by its manufacturers, Johnson-Johnson Dental Products Co.

Dr. Sumner Hirschberg, president of Dental Associates, and a member of the faculty of the Tufts School of Dental Medicine, said the application of the new crown is readily adaptable to group practice.

"At Dental Associates, the laboratory personnel has been retrained to fabricate these porcelain crowns," he says.

The core of the super ceramic crowns made through a direct injection technique.

After a series of procedures, specially formulated, colored porcelains and stains are used to make the super ceramic crown look so lifelike it is almost undetectable from a natural tooth.

Dr. Richard Woolfe, of the Harvard School of Dental Medicine, who developed the system at Dental Associates, says he is anticipating a great demand for the new advanced technology.

Drs. Ralph Sozio and Edwin J. Riley, directors of the Prosthetic Division of the Forsythe Research Institute, worked cooperatively on the development of the crown.

"All-metal restorations are more durable," said Dr. Riley. "However, we have found that most people do not like to have metal showing any place in their mouths."

Further, he explained, metal conducts heat and cold which can cause discomfort when eating or drinking and metal also blocks the diagnostic X-rays used to detect underlying decay.

"Porcelain fused to metal can chip or shear off," said Dr. Sozio, "and in some cases a metal collar can be seen through the translucent porcelain, especially around the base of the crown as gums recede."

The all-ceramic core and advanced fabrication make it possible for a Dacrown to provide a new standard in precise fit and to have a very life-like appearance closely mimicking a natural tooth.

The Cerestore ceramic is exceptionally strong and therefore, can be used to restore any tooth in the mouth. This ceramic helps insulate the tooth from unpleasant hot and cold sensations.

SUMNER HIRSCHBERG

It also ranks among the least toxic restorative materials ever used in modern dentistry, reducing the chance of gum tissue irritation.

In Point Mishap

An 18-year-old South Boston youth was injured early Sunday morning when the bicycle he was riding was struck by a car at Washington and Beacon Sts., Quincy Point.

Robert J. Vincent was in good condition at Quincy City Hospital.

Police said Vincent and two others were riding on bicycles allegedly stolen from Herbert Altshuler of Hull at 1:25 a.m. when Altshuler spotted them on Washington St.

He shouted for them to stop, said police, and the youths swerved across the street, Vincent cutting in front of a car operated by Wayne M. Crooks, 37, of Mattapan.
